VANDERLIP ATTACKS THE MONEY INQUIRY

Clearing House Members Don't Volunteer as Witnesses Because of Counsel's Attitude.

NOT A GROUP OF BANDITTI

Banks Lose $2,000,000 a Year on Out-of-Town Checks Instead of Making $50,000,000.

Frank A. Vanderlip, Chairman of the committee of the Clearing House Association, sent an open letter last night to Congressman A. P. Pujo, Chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency of the House of Representatives. The letter was a reply to an open letter addressed to Mr. Vanderlip by Samuel Untermyer, counsel of the Congressional committee investigating the so-called Money Trust. Mr. Untermyer, acting under Mr. Pujo's instructions, invited members of the Clearing House Committee, quoted anonymously in newspaper interviews, to appear before it to give testimony. Here is Mr. Vanderlip's letter:

New York, June 10, 1912.

My Dear Mr. Pujo: There has been addressed to me by one of the counsel of your committee an open letter in which I am told that you have instructed your counsel to inform me as Chairman of the Clearing House Committee that you will be pleased to hear any member of the Clearing House Committee at your session Tuesday morning. The letter is signed by one of the counsel for your committee, but, for obvious reasons, I make reply to you as the responsible head of the Government inquiry, particularly because of reference to anonymous members, &c., which I can hardly believe would form part of a courteous invitation from you or your colleagues to members of the Clearing House Committee.

In my opinion, the reason that responsible gentlemen connected with the Clearing House do not volunteer to appear before your committee is due to an impression that thus far the disposition of the committee, as reflected in the attitude of its counsel, has been not so much to ascertain the actual facts as to limit the evidence so as to support, if possible, a preconceived assumption. Gentlemen hesitate to place themselves in such a position as examinations of this character entail, much as they might like to be of service to a committee of the House of Representatives making a legitimate inquiry into conditions a knowledge of which would be desirable in legislative considerations.

$50,000,000 Profit Really a Loss.

Take, for example, the sensational statement which has been given wide publicity, that the profits of the New York banks on the collection of country checks reached $50,000,000 per annum. This statement, of course, emanates not from a witness but from your counsel, but the press reports of the hearing have undoubtedly left in the minds of many readers the inference that it has been officially brought out at a hearing of your committee that the profits of the New York banks from this source approximate that large figure. As a matter of fact, instead of New York banks making a profit of $50,000,000 from the collection of country checks, the work actually entails upon them a loss from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 per annum. I reach this conclusion from the experience of the National City Bank, with which I am familiar. Other bankers tell me that their experience is similar to that of the National City Bank. To quote exactly from the figures of the National City Bank, the excess amount received from the collection of country checks last year was $69,900. That is to say, the amount we received from the depositors of the checks, less the amount charged us by country banks for the service of collection, left an apparent total of $69,900, but during the whole time we were on an average out the use of $7,000,000 of money, as that was the average amount of country checks afloat in process of collection, credit for which had been given to the depositors.

Actual Loss $210,000.

Counting that money worth 4 per cent., it would represent a loss of $280,000, against which we had the income of $69,900, or, roundly, the business of collecting country checks cost this bank $210,000. That being the case, I think it is fair to say that the business of country collections has cost the banks of New York City at least $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 annually. Such profit as has been made in the business of country collections has been made by the country banks. They have received a large gross total. That total, of course, is not by any means all profit to them, but whatever profit there is in the business goes to the country bank, and it is a profit which, under existing conditions, it seems to me they are clearly entitled to for the service which they render in collecting these checks and forwarding the proceeds so that it becomes available to the bank which has already credited the original depositor.

It is a fact, I am told, that when the New York Clearing House adopted the practice in vogue in many of the Clearing Houses of the country of fixing the rate for collection of country checks, it was calculated that the rate provided by its regulations would only partially reimburse the bank for the loss in doing the business, and the results have borne out that assumption. I know of no bank which makes a net profit on this business; I believe every bank in the Clearing House sustains a loss.

I note in the newspaper accounts of the recent hearing that the statement is made in some of the newspapers that your counsel brought out the statement that the information obtained by the Clearing House Bank Examiner in respect to the books, loans, collateral, &c., of the various banks examined places the Clearing House Committee in possession of the status of each bank, banker, and depositor, and that this information might be of the utmost value in certain conditions of the stock market. Such statements as this, leaving the unavoidable inference in the reader's mind that a witness testified to such a condition of affairs, illustrates the bad effect produced by innuendoes. No such statement was made by any witness. If any such statement had been made it would not have been true. The Clearing House Committee has no more knowledge of the affairs of a bank after the Clearing House Examiner has completed an examination than has your counsel's office boy, further than that it has the assurance from the Bank Examiner that the bank has been found in solvent condition.

Examiner's Report Back to Bank.

The rules under which the Clearing House examiner works specially provide that such should be the case. The Clearing House Committee, when the plan of Clearing House bank examinations was unanimously agreed to by the members, took great pains to arrange the method of examination so that the members of the committee would have no detailed knowledge whatever in regard to the affairs of solvent banks, and the regulations under which the examiner works provide in the strictest manner that that shall be the case. The Clearing House Committee takes the word of the Bank Examiner and relies on that solely, never having before it the details of the examination. And further, all the facts of the examination and the examiner's report are sealed by the examiner himself and returned to the bank that has been examined, so as to guard against any improper use of that information had it remained in the files of the examiner. If a bank were found by the examiner to be insolvent he would then properly bring its condition to the committee in detail, but so long as the bank is solvent, and in the opinion of the examiner properly managed, the committee has absolutely no knowledge of the details of its affairs. This method of examination and report is one that was originally established by the Chicago Clearing House Association at the time of the so-called Walsh bank troubles there, and met so completely the approval of the Chicago banks that it was adopted, practically without change, by the New York Association, in order to avoid a repetition of somewhat similar troubles here.

There was apparently an effort to create the impression that the Clearing House Committee from ulterior motives excludes banks from membership in the Clearing House or expels them from such membership. There was nothing brought out from any witness in the examination to warrant such an inference, although it was spread broadcast, and certainly nothing exists in the facts to warrant such a suspicion. So far as I have any knowledge of the Clearing House, there never was excluded any bank

LUNATIC IN ROYAL HOUSE.

Finds Unoccupied Room and Goes to Bed in Marlborough House.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 10.—There was an almost incredible occurrence early this morning at Marlborough House, Queen Alexandra's residence. A man named William Woodley, 40 years old, an escaped lunatic from Norwich, eluded the special guard of police and soldiers, broke into Marlborough House and roamed about many rooms. Finally he went to sleep in a bed in a room on the first floor.

Queen Alexandra was not in residence at Marlborough House, but the Princess Victoria was, and when the intruder broke in she was sleeping in her apartment.

Exactly how Woodley accomplished his amazing feat is unknown. There are always a number of policemen on duty in the roadway and at the entrance to the gates and courtyard of Marlborough House two sentries pace up and down with fixed bayonets. The lunatic managed to escape the notice of this powerful array of police and soldiers and climbed a ten-foot-high wall. This performance is not yet explained, as he had no rope or ladder.

Still unobserved, he walked up to the house, smashed a window in the equerry's room, and entered through the broken pane. Now he had the run practically of the whole house.

Fortunately his madness did not develop into violence at any time. He roamed about the ground floor of the house very quietly without disturbing any one. Then he went upstairs, and opening one of the bedroom doors, he entered the room. Seeing nobody there, he undressed and got into bed. Not until 7:40 o'clock in the morning was Woodley discovered by a housemaid. The police were immediately called, and Woodley seemed surprised that his presence occasioned so much commotion.

CANINE GERMS TO HALT AGE.

Prof. Metchnikoff Advances a Novel Means to Keep Men Young.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 10.—That the dog may in the near future be called upon to prevent the ravages of senile decay in human beings is the theory advanced by Prof. Metchnikoff in a communication to the Academy of Sciences to-day. He has reached this conclusion as a result of experiments at the Pasteur Institute extending over a number of years.

The most important rôle of poisons of the intestinal flora, says Prof. Metchnikoff, is the power to deteriorate the organs of the body in such a way as to cause senility. Old age, in fact, is in large measure caused by poisons of the intestinal flora, notably by indols paenols. The question then arises as to whether the formation of these poisons is preventable.

Prof. Metchnikoff found that the foodstuffs which scarcely at all produced these poisons were vegetables rich in sugar, such as dates, beetroot, and carrots. The scientist sought a means of creating sugar in the intestines, and discovered that a microbe exists in the intestinal flora of the dog that is able to fulfill the function of supplying the stomach with sugar. By experimenting with this microbe, which is called glycobacter, he is able to diminish by a perceptible degree the amount of indols paenols.

He has also experimented with men, and obtained most satisfactory results with a mixed diet of about 120 grammes of meat for two meals and 500 to 600 grammes of sour milk, vegetables, fruit, and farinaceous food. The whole was added to the canine bacteria, which produced sugar, and thus reduced the poisons.

ATTERBURY NOT IN JAIL.

Pennsylvania's Vice President Only Under Bail for Auto Killing.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—W. W. Atterbury, Vice President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, whose automobile ran down and killed Mrs. Mary E. Madden and injured Hugh Tague at Villa Nova on Sunday night, was released to-day under $1,500 bail.

Justice of the Peace Buckland of Radner, before whom Mr. Atterbury was given a hearing about 8 o'clock in the morning, said he held the railroad man without bail to await the action of the Coroner, adding:

"I suppose he spent the night at the Wayne lock-up. If he did not, and was released, even for a time, Captain Haskell exceeded his authority."

A sergeant at the Wayne police station said he did not know where Mr. Atterbury had been all night. Coroner Carr, who released Mr. Atterbury in bail, said the railroad man had been permitted to go home after the hearing before Squire Buckland, and appeared before him at 9 o'clock in the morning to give bail.

Mrs. Madden was a widow and the mother of four children, one of them proprietor of a garage at Rosemont. Tague is expected to recover.

MADE GIRLS SWAP STOCKINGS

They Wore One White and One Black to Atlantic City's High School.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 10.—Several pretty girl members of the graduating class of the high school created a sensation this morning by appearing in classes with one leg covered with a black silk stocking, while the other was covered with white. It was done to advertise a minstrel show to be given by their fraternity.

Prof. Miller, the Principal, noticed considerable agitation, and it did not take him long to learn the cause. He directed the young ladies to go into an adjoining class room, in company with one of the women teachers, and there they had to change about until each pair of legs was garbed in colors that matched.

After the changes were made, Supt. Boyer made an inspection and was shown just enough hose above the shoe tops to be convinced that the proper exchange had been made.

WAITERS RIOT IN VAIN AT WALDORF FEAST

Strong-Arm Squad Makes Scores of Arrests and Downs the Disturbers.

DINNER INSIDE IN PEACE

No Walkout, as Predicted, and German Naval Officers Never Hear of the Fuss Outside.

A demonstration by the striking waiters, who gathered in front of the Waldorf-Astoria, while the dinner to the officers of the German fleet was in progress last night, was put down with ease by Lieut. Becker and a strong-arm squad of sixteen. The patrol automobile was kept in constant motion between the hotel and the Thirtieth Street Station. There were six general engagements between the strong-arm men and the waiters, which resulted in the arrest of strikers in groups ranging from ten to forty-two. Adding to these the stragglers who were arrested in twos and threes throughout the evening, the total was close to 100.

Because of the danger of serious embarrassment to the city, if the strikers should interfere with the dinner to the guests from the German fleet, Commissioner of Police Waldo ordered a strong guard to be maintained at the Waldorf-Astoria all yesterday and last night. During the day forty uniformed police and thirty plain-clothes men under Capt. McElroy of the West Thirtieth Street Station patrolled the hotel. It looked during the day as if these precautions were more than justified. The striking waiters marched by hundreds past the hotel on Thirty-fourth Street and Fifth Avenue. The men who appeared at strike headquarters at Forty-fourth Street and Sixth Avenue were directed by their leaders to join their fellows at the Waldorf. Several times during the afternoon a conflict was expected. The strikers, however, did not make any resistance to the police during the afternoon, and the sidewalks were always quickly cleared at a command from Capt. McElroy or Inspector Lahey.

The first activity of the Strong-Arm Squad was at 6:45, when ten striking hotel workers were arrested for disorderly conduct and advertising a strike. They walked in front of the hotel, wearing the cards in their hat and shouting "Scab!" The demonstrators broke in all directions when they found the strong-arm men upon them.

After this first check the strikers grew angry and began to swarm at the corner of Thirty-fourth Street and Astor Court. Trouble started here, according to Lieut. Becker, when two of the strikers advanced toward the hotel, one carrying half a brick in his hand. The one holding the missile asked the other to throw it through the window to create a panic in one of the parlors of the Waldorf-Astoria, but before it was thrown the Strong-Arm Squad bore down on them. The arrested men shouted for help, and, for the only time during the evening, a rescue was attempted. A crowd of strikers attacked the four policemen, but the other members of the Strong-Arm Squad had arrived by this time, and the struggle was quickly over. Several of the strikers were knocked down and the rescuing party made a rapid retreat, leaving twenty-seven prisoners with the police.

Before the last load of these had been taken in the patrol wagon forty-two more prisoners joined them. The strikers formed on Thirty-fourth Street into a mob under no leadership and without any definite object. Before they had attempted to advance the strong-arm men had mixed with them and suddenly began taking prisoners. Three more raids by the Stron-Arm Squad brought in eighteen, ten, and fourteen prisoners, respectively. By 10 o'clock the street was quiet and no strikers were in sight.

Inside the hotel the dinner to the German naval officers was served without interruption. The strike, which the union leaders promised, did not come to pass. Eighty head waiters from other hotels were all evening at the Astor waiting to be called on to take the place of those who were expected to leave.

Joseph Elster, leader of the strikers, declared yesterday afternoon that the hotel would be unable to serve its dinner, and that New York City would be disgraced all over the world. The union officers stated that they had planted dozens of union waiters in the hotel who would quit and carry the others out with them. The failure of their plans last night is one of the heaviest blows the strikers have received.

The police and Mayor Gaynor were denounced at a meeting of the strikers and their sympathizers at Bryant Hall, following the arrests at the Waldorf. John Clark, a union picket, made a speech, in which he said that over 100 plain-clothes men, reinforced by nearly the same number in uniform, had assailed a handful of nuion waiters with savage brutality, clubbing them and beating them with their fists. Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes and others attacked the city administration.

John Perris, a waiter, was locked up late last night at the West Thirtieth Street Station on the charge of throwing a rock at a policeman when the arrests were being made at the Waldorf-Astoria.

YALE STUDENTS AS WAITERS.

Sons of Prominent Men Turn New Haven Strike Into a Lark.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 10.—Sixty-seven waiters employed at the Hotel Taft went on a strike to-night at the supper hour because the management had not given in to their demands for certain changes in working conditions. The action of the waiters was expected, and the management had in waiting seventy Yale students who had volunteered their services.

"I told the men," said Mr. Merry, one of the proprietors of the hotel, "that they hadn't a grievance in the world and that I would not recognize the union."

In a few minutes the college men heard of the strike and the graduating class sent word that they would like the jobs of the waiters, so I put them to work. Among them I saw Vanderbilt Webb of New York, Leonard Hanna, grandson of Senator Hanna, John Mitchell, whose father is President of the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago; Percy Orthwein of St. Louis, Jacob Westerman, Alvin Krech, C. W. Vilas; Harold Hicks, and Richard Merritt of New York."

In a short while the whole town was en fête and the Taft hotel was the centre of great fun.

It was said last night that the story of how the students broke the strike was being flashed all over the country to Yale alumni.

200,000 CALLED OUT BY BRITISH UNIONS

Transport Workers' Officials Order a National Strike, Affecting Every Port.

MANY WORKERS WON'T OBEY

Shipowners Refused to Consider the Government Plans and a Serious Tie-Up May Result.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Tuesday, June 11.—A national strike of transport workers was declared last night as a result of the refusal of London shipowners to accept the Government proposals for ending the Port of London strike, which has been going on for about three weeks.

More than 200,000 dockers, lightermen, firemen, and carters throughout the country are affiliated in the Transport Workers' Federation, but, according to the London morning papers well-informed authorities in the labor world doubt whether the provincial workers will obey the strike order.

The Seamen's and Firemen's Union, with a membership of 60,000 men, is standing aloof, owing to differences between the executives of the two organizations.

The Cabinet will meet to-day to consider the situation, and in some quarters it is suggested that the object of the union leaders in declaring a national strike was chiefly to force the Government into taking measures to compel the Port of London employers to accept the proposals made in behalf of the men, the chief feature of which was that the unions must put up a money bond as a guarantee that they would keep whatever agreements they made.

LONDON, June 10.—The London shipowners to-day decided to reject a compromise with the transport workers, the terms of which the Government has been trying to arrange. The principal points of the Government's proposals were a general organization of the employers to treat with the unions.

When the Federation Council learned of the employers' decision, it sent telegrams broadcast, signed by Rob A. Williams, a Secretary, and Harry Gosling, Chairman, reading:

"The employers point blank refuse to accept the proposals of a settlement. The National Executive recommends a general stoppage at once."

The country has not been thrown into a panic by the serious trouble which threatens, because there is general hope that comparatively few of the men will respond to the leaders' manifesto.

Notes of disaffection are reported in several ports. At Newcastle, Peter Miller, the leader of the Northeast Coast unions, said there will be no strike there.

"We have no quarrel with the employers," he added, "and are bound for two years by certain terms from which we cannot break away."

Manchester, on the other hand, appears to favor a strike.

HAVRE STRIKE IS SPREADING.

About 1,500 Seamen Are Out and the Port Is Almost Tied Up.

HAVRE, June 10.—The strike, which was begun yesterday by the crew of the French liner France, is spreading, and 1,500 men are now out, the port being almost tied up.

The steamship company has informed the passengers of the France that the Government has been asked to provide bluejackets to man the liner, but an answer is still awaited. In any case the France will not sail until Tuesday night, and the company has decided to refund the passage money to all who desire to leave the ship. The emigrants who were aboard the vessel have been placed temporarily in the company's hostelry.

The steamship St. Louis, which is expected to arrive here to-morrow, is bringing some sailors who will be transferred to the France.

The company's steamer Basse-Terre is also without a crew, and the departure of the Quebec for Haiti to-morrow will have to be cancelled unless the Government sends bluejackets.

SUES A GIRL, THEN WEDS HER

Dwyer Had Charged Her with Breach of Promise and Wanted $6,000.

Deserted at the altar by the girl who had promised to wed him, Michael Dwyer, 23 years old, of 165 Chichester Avenue, Jamaica, Queens, brought a suit against her several months ago for $5,000 for breach of promise and $1,000 more which he said he had spent on her wedding outfit and the furniture for his home.

The girl he sued was Miss Catherine Frank, the twenty-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Frank of 1,225 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn. A few days ago Dwyer walked into the office of his attorney, Isadore Canner, in Jamaica. Leaning on his arm was Miss Frank.

"Call that breach of promise suit off, Mr. Canner, we've been married," said Dwyer.

Canner was engaged in preparing Dwyer's suit for trial at the time. He tore the papers up and offered his congratulations.

Dwyer and Miss Frank had a dramatic meeting. Both were guests at a wedding. Dwyer heard two men talking disparagingly of Miss Frank. He beat them both. Miss Frank, charmed by his valor, asked for an introduction, and they became engaged.

According to Dwyer's complaint, the wedding guests had assembled at his house, a repast was ready, and a priest was on hand, too, but the bride did not appear. Instead, she sent a curt note, Dwyer said, saying she had changed her mind, and wouldn't marry him. Miss Frank retained an attorney, and denied all the allegations. The other day Dwyer called, and all differences were forgotten.

SENATE JOINS MOVE TO OUST GEN. WOOD

Accepts Army Bill Making Him Ineligible as Chief of Staff of the Army.

OTHER OFFICERS AFFECTED

Funston and Goethals Also Barred from Command—Senator Warren Engineers the Vote.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—By a vote o 27 to 24, the Senate to-day adopted the conference report on the Army Appropriation bill. It modifies radically the law applicable to the army, and is regarded as most obnoxious by the friends of the Administration and the army. The vote was absolutely non-partisan, 14 Republicans and 13 Democrats voting for the report and 11 Republicans and 13 Democrats against it.

The amendments to the conference report, around which gathered the greater part of the discussion, provided that after March 4 next no officer of the army who has not had ten years service in the line before becoming a general officer shall be eligible for designation as Chief of Staff. This is aimed directly at Major Gen. Leonard Wood, now Chief of Staff, and it is the common belief that the idea and even the actual language of the amendment came from Major Gen. Fred C. Ainsworth, who was recently retired by Secretary of War Stimson for using language in his routine work which was held to be objectionable and unbecoming an officer.

This amendment was reported to the Senate and House several weeks ago, and since then Secretary Stimson has labored industriously to obtain a majority against its adoption. Senator Warren, for many years Chairman of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, has worked just as hard for it and he has played his cards with a masterly sense of opportunity. He held the conference report back from consideration until the psychological moment, when by the absence of some Senators and the presence of others, pledged to his support, his success was assured. His victory was unexpected, for all along it has been reckoned that legislation, so sharply in opposition to the Administration, could not pass the Senate even with the advantage of Senator Warren's leadership.

His motive was supplied by the inclusion in the list of army posts to be abandoned and sold for what they will bring of Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming, one of his cherished projects. On Fort Russell $4,600,000 has been expended, mainly through Mr. Warren's influence as Chairman of the Military Committee. Secretary Stimson and the Quartermaster's Department on the other hand, complained that Fort Russell was expensive to maintain, and too far from the lines of communication, and was without an adequate water supply.

The defense of Secretary Stimson and the War Department was made chiefly by Senator Lodge and Senator Root who as an ex-Secretary of War was familiar with the consequences of the proposed legislation. Mr. Lodge urged that the amendment would make Gen. Funston ineligible for the highest post in the army, notwithstanding his brilliant service, and Mr. Root called attention to the bar that the amendment would place against the designation of Col. Goethals as Chief of Staff despite his splendid record as the constructive genius of the Panama Canal.

When the division was taken there was a mix-up of radicals and reactionaries, Democrats and Republicans. The alignment turned perceptibly on Senator Warren's opposition to the War Department. The vote on the conference report was:

Ayes—Bourne, Catron, Chamberlain, Crawford, Culberson, Cullom, Dillingham, Fletcher, Foster, Gronna, Lorimer, McCumber, McLean, Martin, Martine, Myers, Oliver, Overman, Page, Perkins, Shively, Simmons, Swanson, Tillman, Warren, Wetmore, Williams—27.

Nays—Ashurst, Bacon, Bradley, Bristow, Bryan, Burton, Chilton, Cummins, Gore, Hitchcock, Johnson, Johnston, Jones, Lodge, Percy, Poindexter, Rayner, Reed, Root, Smith of Georgia, Smoot, Stephenson, Thornton, Works—24.

Secretary Stimson refused to discuss the result of the division.

"I always refrain from squealing when I am hit," he said, "and it doesn't do any good to discuss milk that is out of the pitcher."

"But about the little milk that is left in the pitcher, Mr. Secretary?" he was asked. "You mean the President's veto?" said the Secretary. "Well, that is milk that cannot be discussed either."

There is no reason to expect the President to veto the bill, and it seems certain that the House will adopt the report. The result is regarded as a great victory for Chairman James Hay of the House Military Committee.

The conference amendments did not include the reduction of the cavalry arm of the service by regiments, and a compromise was secured on the term of enlistment, by which it is to be lengthened to four years. Gen. Wood urged a term of two years, with three in the reserve, and Mr. Hay asked for a return to the old term of five years.

The new legislation also consolidates the Quartermaster, Commissary, and Pay departments into one department, to be known as the Supply Department, with a Major General at its head.

LENIENCE TO SUFFRAGETTES.

Mrs. Pankhurst and Companions Are Relieved of Some Prison Hardships.

LONDON, June 10.—The sentences of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and Mr. and Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, the militant suffragettes and joint editors of Votes for Women, were to-day modified by Reginald McKenna, Home Secretary, and the prisoners will finish as first-class misdemeanants the term of nine months' imprisonment to which they were condemned at the Old Bailey Sessions May 22 instead of serving as ordinary criminals.

Labor members of the House of Commons had been pressing the Home Secretary to grant to the Suffragettes the privileges of political prisoners.

The three prisoners have undertaken to drop all attempts to control the suffragette movement while in prison.

Replying to the Home Secretary's request for an assurance that they would not incite to any illegal acts, the prisoners said they thought it too great a responsibility to continue to control the suffragist movement while in prison, and, therefore, they would not direct or control any acts whatever, whether legal or illegal.

REWARD CARPATHIA'S CREW.

White Star Line Makes Gifts—Cunard to Claim No Damages.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 10.—The White Star Line has announced that the Cunard Company has acceded to its request to be permitted to make the following presentations in recognition of the Cunarder Carpathia's rescue work after the wreck of the Titanic: To Capt. Rostron, $500; to Surgeon McGee, Purser Brown, and Chief Steward Hughes, $250 each; to every other member of the crew, a month's pay.

A further offer by the White Star Line to reimburse the Cunard Line for the outlay involved in the Carpathia putting back to New York with the survivors is not accepted. It is intimated that the Cunard Line considers it a privilege that the Carpathia and her crew were the means of picking up the Titanic survivors, and it is not the intention of the company to make any claim in respect to salvage or expenses.

Young Wife Ruptures a Blood Vessel in Dance at Atlantic City.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 10.—Overexertion from dancing the turkey trot with friends in her home caused Mrs. Agnes E. Day's death Saturday night. Mrs. Day was gay and lively. Suddenly she was taken with a severe pain in her right side, which quickly became so intense that it caused her to swoon. Calls were made for several physicians, but before any of them could reach her side the woman was dead.

It was later discovered that she had ruptured a blood vessel in her side, and death was the result of an internal hemorrhage. She was 22 years old, and had been married only a short time.

SUES LANDIS FOR $500,000.

Lawyer Resents Being Called a Coward for Remarks in His Brief.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 10.—angered at having been called a coward in open court this morning, by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, William J. Ammen, a lawyer, filed suit this afternoon in the Supreme Court for $500,000 damages against the jurist.

He is counsel for George F. Harding in his suit against the Standard Oil Company, which grew out of the control of the Corn Products Refining Company by the Standard Oil Company and has been pending for several years. In his brief filed in the Court of Appeals, Ammen charged Judge Landis with being "influenced by the eminence of Attorney Levy Mayer, representing the Standard Oil Company."

When he appeared in court this morning and attempted to present a motion in writing, Judge Landis refused to listen and called him a coward. He took advantage of his office as a lawyer, the Judge said, to make remarks about the court that he would not dare to make to the Judge's face on the street.

PITT PLEADS GUILTY.

Grain Broker Who Forged Bills of Lading Asks Court's Mercy.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 10.—Pembroke W. Pitt, the Baltimore grain broker, charged with forging bills of lading for more than $200,000 and who, after a long chase, was arrested in Naples, Italy, pleaded guilty to an indictment in the Criminal Court this afternoon. Sentence was suspended by Judge Elliott.

In a statement to the Court, Pitt said that the first making of fraudulent bills was not done merely to obtain money. Trouble arose from unexpected inability to retire perfectly legitimate receipts given in the regular conduct of business and, being unable to retire them, he replaced them with others that were not correct. When the trust receipts became too burdensome, he resorted to fraudulent bills of lading. He asserted that he reaped no financial gain as a result of his wrongdoing, and that he left the country with the idea that he could begin anew and pay back at least a part of his indebtedness. He declared his intention of doing all in his power to reimburse those who have lost through his wrongdoing, after he had paid the penalty exacted by the law.

"I do not ask the mercy of the Court for myself," said Pitt, "but such mercy as there may be let it be on account of my old mother, who still thinks her boy all right; for a true, loyal and devoted wife, and for sisters, that also suffer. They are the ones that pray in silence for mercy."

BEST BERLIN-VIENNA FLIGHT.

Hirth, a German Aviator, Made 330 Miles in 395 Minutes.

VIENNA, June 10.—The aeroplane race from Berlin to this city, which started under the auspices of the Imperial Aviation Society and the Austrian Aero Club yesterday, was won by the German aviator, Holmuth Hirth, carrying as a passenger. Lieut. Schoeller of the German Army. Hirth, with his companion, covered the distance from the German capital (330 miles in a direct line) in 395 minutes (6 hours, 35 minutes) actual flying time.

The three Austrian Lieutenants, Blaschke, Miller, (alias Csakay,) and Bergmann, were forced to land on the way here from Breslau.

Csakay was the best performer in the first stage of the contest from Berlin to Breslau, about 200 miles, which he accomplished in 2 hours and 58 minutes.

Hirth, in the course of his flight, flew over the Altvator Mountain range in Moravia, which rises to an altitude of 4,887 feet.

Hirth, who is well gnown in America as an automobile racer, as he has taken part in several big events there. Since he started aviation he has been a winner in every big flying competition in which he has entered.

ROUT ROOSEVELT ON INDIANA VOTE

Twelve More Delegates Given to Taft—Unanimous Except in One District.

CCLONEL'S RANKS WEAKER

Some of His Followers Think Borah, Kellogg, and Other Leaders Will Break Away.

FRAUD CRY NOW REGRETTED

Roosevelt's Managers Think He Made a Mistake in Accusing Taft of Conniving at Political Trickery.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 10.—It has been a very bad day for Col. Roosevelt. If he is at all sensitive he will be nursing bruised feelings to-night.

The Republican National Committee took up the contests brought from Indiana this afternoon, and, with the full consent and acquiescence of every Roosevelt member on the committee seated four delegates at large pledged to President Taft. Eight Taft district delegates were then seated by unanimous vote of the committee members present, except in one instance, the Thirteenth District. The Taft delegates won there, too, by a vote of 36 to 14.

President Taft is twelve delegates to the good as the result of the contest hearings to-day. That in itself is regarded as bad enough, for the Colonel needs virtually every contested delegate to make a favorable showing in the convention. But it is not the worst feature of the day's developments from the point of view of Col. Roosevelt and his campaign managers. It is openly admitted that Col. Roosevelt has been more thoroughly repudiated by his own following to-day than at any time since the Republican National Committee began its sittings.

It will be remembered that it was the primaries and subsequent doings at the Indiana State Convention that first caused the Colonel to raise the cry of fraud and denounce President Taft as an accomplice of political tricksters. What the Colonel said on that occasion was too strong to be easily forgotten. It happens to be a matter of indelible record. Yet, when the Indiana contests were brought up to-day it was on the motion of a Roosevelt man that the National Committee voted unanimously to seat the four Taft delegates, at large who, according to the Colonel's version, had been fraudulently elected.

The Taft campaign managers have additional reason to be jubilant to-night for in the course of the discussion before the National Committee in the Indiana cases two of the Colonel's staunchest supporters, Senator William E. Borah of Idaho and former United States Special Deputy Attorney General, Frank B. Kellogg voiced on the floor in the most emphatic manner their conviction that the Taft delegates should be seated.

Fear Break in Colonel's Ranks.

In the Roosevelt headquarters the result of the hearings to-day, as well as the stand taken by the Roosevelt members on the committee, have produced a feeling bordering on panic. Senator Dixon, manager of the Roosevelt forces, said to-night that he was at a loss to explain the findings in the Indiana contests and the attitude taken by Senator Borah and Mr. Kellogg. Senator Dixon and the rest of the Roosevelt leaders still believe that both the adroit and stalwart champions in the Colonel's cause remain loyal, but among the small fry of the Roosevelt following some very suggestive utterances to-night indicated a suspicion in the Roosevelt camp that some of the men who so far have given the Roosevelt movement its real strength were beginning to break away from the Colonel.

To-night every one here, including the Colonel's following, (the latter with regret,) recalls the emphatically warlike and denunciatory note that was sounded by Mr. Roosevelt after the Republican State Convention of Indiana had elected some of the most prominent men in the organization as delegates at large and pledged them to President Taft. As fate would have it, the Colonel did his scolding at the Auditorium in this city, only a few steps away from the hotel which to-night is the scene of all the ante-convention activities, and where the corridors and lobbies are humming with discussion of the Colonel's utterances on March 27, and the action of his own followers on the National Committee to-day.

The Colonel's Fraud Cry.

In his Auditorium speech the Colonel said:

As I have said, such primaries (New York) are not only a farce, but a criminal farce. What was done in New York is substantially what was done in Indiana and Colorado. Against all the money, all the patronage, all the efforts of the Kealing machine in Indiana, with nothing but the plain people of the State to rely upon, we carried the State Convention handsomely, and then by fraudulent action, which can only be called brutal in its utter defiance of decency, nearly 200 delegates were thrown out and the will of the people reversed.

The men honestly elected, of course, declined to abide by the result, and held a separate convention. They would have been derelict in their duty had they not done so, for the Kealing machine State delegation in Indiana does not represent the people at all, and is in no shape or form representative of or binding on the rank and file of the Republican Party in Indiana.

The Colonel followed this speech some weeks later by implicating President Taft in the Indiana result. In a statement issued from Oyster Bay on May 1, the Colonel said:

In Kentucky, in Indiana, in New York and elsewhere Mr. Taft knows well that the delegates elected for him represent bare-faced fraud. He stands guilty of connivance and condonation of these frauds. He stands guilty of profiting by these frauds. He deprives all people of their right to express their wish as to who shall be nominated.

In all these primaries I have stood for absolute honesty and fair play. Mr. Taft has stood for crooked misrepresentation of the will of the people.

The First Real Contest.

On the strength of the Colonel's utterances, the Roosevelt campaign managers had prepared to make the Indiana contests a real fight to the finish. They realized that a decision in favor of President Taft in these cases would be a severe blow to the Colonel's prestige. The contesting delegation at large, too, was made up of some very radical Republicans. The Roosevelt delegation was headed by ex-Senator Albert J. Beveridge. Former Chairman Edwin M. Lee of the Indiana Central Republican Committee, former Representative Frederick K. Landis, and Charles H. Campbell of Shelbyville were the other Roosevelt delegates at large.

On the Taft delegation were Harry S. New, who has acted as Chairman of the sub-committee of the Republican National Committee which has been making all arrangements for the convention; former Vice President Charles Warren Fairbanks, ex-Congressman James E. Watson, and Joseph D. Oliver.

The motion to seat the Taft delegates was made by Sidney Bieber, the Republican National Committeeman from the District of Columbia, who is enlisted in Col. Roosevelt's ranks. It was seconded by Senator Borah.

Get Borah to Explain.

The Senator from Idaho was selected by the other members of the committee as their spokesman after they had been besieged by demands for an explanation of their votes.

"Speaking for myself," said Senator Borah to-night, "I feel that if all the contests to which there is real merit are decided in the favor of Col. Roosevelt his nomination is assured. From all the evidence I heard I came to the conclusion that President Taft was entitled to all the delegates at large and all the delegates from the contested Indiana districts with exception of the Thirteenth Congressional District. In that contest I and the other members on the committee favoring Col. Roosevelt's nomination voted against seating the Taft delegates, but were outvoted 36 to 14. That is all there is to it."

Senator Borah was asked how he squared the situation as disclosed by the evidence on the contests with the utterances of Col. Roosevelt with reference to the Indiana situation.

"There have been many frauds at the primaries; I don't say that there were not," he replied. "But there was no evidence to that effect presented. The evidence we heard showed that some 6,000 votes had been cast for the Taft delegates to some 1,400 for the Roosevelt delegates at large. Only 200 votes were shown to us to have been fraudulent. Under the circumstances I could not well vote to sustain the Roosevelt delegates. Even if the Colonel's nomination depended upon it, I would not do it."

"What foundation would we lay for honest treatment to ourselves when we reach such States as Washington, for instance, if we had voted against the Taft delegates in this instance?"

McKinley Exultant.

Director William B. McKinley of the Taft Bureau was naturally jubilant at the decision in the Indiana cases.

He said to-night:

"By the unanimous vote of the Republican National Committee to-day, including such well-known supporters of Theodore Roosevelt as Senator W. E. Borah of Idaho, Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota, George A. Knight of California, Cecil A. A. Lyon of Texas, William L. Ward of New York, Pearl Wight of Louisiana, and others, the Taft delegates at large from Indiana were ordered seated in the coming Republican National Convention over the Roosevelt delegates at large, who contested their seats."

Mr. McKinley referred to Col. Roosevelt's cry of fraud in the Indiana cases, and then he continued:

"This is a most apt illustration of the unbridled manner in which Mr. Roosevelt throughout this entire campaign has assailed the Republican Party, its principles, its President, and its leaders everywhere. If Mr. Roosevelt does not have his way he denounces everybody and everything in sight, regardless of the merits of his cause and in defiance of all square dealing. In this particular case his decision as to the Indiana contests, which he advertised all over the country, has been repudiated by the unanimous vote of the Republican National Committee. The absolute bad faith of Mr. Roosevelt in bringing contests such as these before the Republican National Committee is again emphasized by a unanimous decision against him.

No Roosevelt Victory Yet.

The decisions by the National Committee in the Indiana contests give President Taft a total of eighty-four delegates which Roosevelt contested. So far not a single Roosevelt contestant has been seated by the committee.

The committee began work to-day by taking up the California situation. The question had been raised about the legality of the election of delegates in that State in the recent primaries because these elections did not conform with the rule of the National Committee as set forth in the call to the National Convention. The Roosevelt managers had expressed fear that the National Committee would try to bar out the Roosevelt delegates, but the action of the committee eased such fears. All the Roosevelt delegates from California were seated, with the exception of those from the Fourth Congress District, where there is a contest by the Taft men. Hearing of the contest from the Fourth was laid over until Wednesday.

Vigilance Committee Ready.

Both the Taft and the Roosevelt vigilance committees are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the first delegations to begin their activities. In the meantime their reinforcements are being rushed here from all sections of the country for both forces.

William Barnes, Jr., the New York Republican chieftain, who has been selected to make the fight for President Taft on the floor of the convention, is expected to-morrow. Notable figures in the Taft column who were in evidence here to-day were Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh and Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel.

Secretary Nagel spent part of the day at the Coliseum Annex, where the National Committee is hearing the contests. Mr. Nagel is a National Committeeman from Missouri. He is not attending the hearings, but is represented by proxy. Secretary Nagel has declared that, being involved himself in the contests from Missouri, he was unwilling to sit in judgment.

"There is no doubt in my mind how the contests will terminate," said Secretary Nagel. "They will all be decided in favor of the President. The contests that have gone before have amply shown what merits there are to the Roosevelt contests. The pitiful part of it is that men who have other things to attend to should be compelled to waste their time in listening to proceedings like these for days at a stretch. This whole business should have been decided in a couple of hours."

Secretary Nagel said there was no doubt that President Taft would be nominated on the first ballot. Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh made a similar forecast.

Taft Sure, Says MacVeagh.

"Things are looking better for President Taft every day," said Mr. MacVeagh. "The President's friends believe that he will be nominated on the first ballot. The contests instituted by the Roosevelt faction are not well founded, as the unanimous action of the National Committee in nearly all the cases indicate."

Secretary MacVeagh declared that the campaign had been very hard on the President, who disliked to answer the attacks made by Col. Roosevelt until he was forced to do so.

"President Taft is not a man to harbor resentment," said Secretary MacVeagh, "but I doubt if he and Col. Roosevelt will ever make up their differences. I have never heard the President say a harsh thing about the Colonel, and until a few months ago he spoke of him in most endearing terms. But the President is not the only friend the Colonel has lost. Look at Senator Root and Secretary Knox. They are both strong Taft men now."

"Do you believe the Taft men would support Col. Roosevelt if he were to be nominated?" Mr. MacVeagh was asked.

"Many of them would. What they would do as a faction I do not know."

"Do you regard a deadlock in the convention a possibility?"

"It is possible but not probable. I believe the President will be renominated on the first ballot."

On the other hand, James R. Garfield, who was Secretary of the Interior under the Roosevelt Administration, and Gifford Pinchot, both declared emphatically to-night that Col. Roosevelt would be nominated.

Gov. Johnson of California is on his way to the convention city. He is another Roosevelt man.

Roosevelt Managers at Sea.

To-night the Roosevelt managers seemed to be more at sea than ever. As far as could be learned their plans in case the Colonel is defeated, as the Taft people insist and developments here indicate, that he will be, have not been definitely decided upon.

Bolt talk has almost been abandoned. The fact is that Boss Flinn of Pennsylvania and half a dozen other stanch supporters of the Colonel have put their foot down on that. They insist that the fight must be made on the floor of the convention, and that the Colonel shall accept the decision of the delegates. Gov. Stubbs of Kansas, Senator Borah of Idaho, Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota, and even the loyal Pinchot and Garfield all made it plain that they were not considering the possibility, or as far as that goes the necessity, of a bolt. Neither would follow the Colonel into the wilderness.

As far as the Roosevelt programme has been made it involves taking the contest into the convention where first the committee on contested seats and later the convention itself will sit in judgment. In connection with this it is pointed out, however, that with nearly all the decisions up to the present time at least acquiesced in by the committee members controlled by the Roosevelt forces, the Colonel has laid a very poor foundation for bringing his contests before the convention itself.

There has been some talk here of rough house tactics and two conventions under one roof at the same time, something on the line of the stormy conventions that have been held in various States where conesting delegations to the National Convention have ben selected only on a bigger and more spectacular scale.

"What would be gained by that?" asked one of the Colonel's advisers to-night. "It would mean two Republican parties instead of one, with victory for neither possible."

"Will the Colonel head a third party and run as an independent candidate?" was asked.

Col. Roosevelt's friend shrugged his shoulders.

"That is up to Mr. Roosevelt," he said. "I do not know."

"There seems to be only one other alternative—that the Colonel will take his medicine and lie down after President Taft has been renominated," was suggested.

"The Colonel will never lie down," he said. "That is certain. If he is defeated in the convention it will only be the beginning of the fight. If these people want to elect a Democratic President the easiest way of doing it is by defeating the Colonel for the nomination. Perhaps you would find two sets of Republicans running for Congress in every district in the direct primary States, including New York."

La Follette Won't Help.

Desperate efforts have been made by the Roosevelt managers to persuade Senator La Follette and Senator Cummins of Iowa to turn over their forty delegates to the Colonel. It can be stated positively that these efforts have been in vain. Senator La Follette's representative here told the Roosevelt managers that the Senator would not, if he could, swing his strength to the Colonel, and that he could not if he would. The Wisconsin delegation would sooner go to President Taft than to Col. Roosevelt.

From all appearances, the Roosevelt fortunes in the Republican National Convention hinge on the remote possibility of a stampede. This, of course, depends largely upon whether or not the Colonel comes to the convention to lead his forlorn forces.

A number of the Colonel's leaders maintained that Col. Roosevelt would not be in Chicago at any time prior to the convention, while others stoutly asserted that they had received positive information that he would be here by Wednesday or Thursday at the latest.

Lafayette B. Gleason of Delhi, N. Y., Secretary of the New York State Republican Central Committee, and selected for Temporary Secretary of the convention by the Sub-Committee on Arrangements, declared to-day that he was confident that eighty-five of the ninety New York delegates would vote for Senator Elihu Root for Temporary Chairman.

"I have received telegrams from eighty-five of the New York delegates," said Mr. Gleason, "and they will support Senator Root. I am just as confident that from eighty-one to eighty-five of the delegates will vote for President Taft."

Cummins Boomers Arrive.

The standard of Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa for Republican Presidential nominee was raised to-day by his colleague, Senator W. S. Kenyon, who arrived from Iowa. Senator Cummins now has ten delegates pledged to him. Senator Kenyon said:

"Friends of Senator Cummins believe the rank and file of the Republican Party are tired of the present controversy and tired of personal politics. We present in him a man who can unite the party and lead it to an old-time victory. His candidacy is not for the purpose of injuring any one or punishing any one."

It was expected that the headquarters of Senator Robert M. La Follette would be opened in a downtown hotel to-morrow, with Wisconsin men actively at work for their candidate.

THE FIGHT OVER INDIANA.

Taft Defeats Roosevelt in All His Contests There.

CHICAGO, June 10.—To-day's work of the Republican National Committee added twelve more delegates to the Taft strength on the temporary roll of the National Convention. The much-discussed Indiana contests came before the committee and all were decided in President's Taft's favor.

With the seventy-two delegates in the contests decided last week in the Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, and Georgia cases, to-day's gains make a total of eighty-four delegates added to the Taft forces by the work of the National Committee.

The cases decided to-day were those of the Indiana delegation at large, four in number, and the district delegations of two each from the First, Third, and Thirteenth Districts.

The contest in the Fourth District was withdrawn and the committee confirmed the two Taft delegates.

The Indiana cases had been looked upon as the first real test of strength in the committee.

Several There by Proxy.

Garret P. Diekema held the proxy of Committeeman Blodgett of Michigan when the committee assembled, with forty-four members present or represented by proxy.

A proposal to put at the foot of the calendar all cases passed over met objection from Committeeman Knight of California, who demanded that the California case be taken up this morning. Gov. Pardee and Francis J. Heney were present, he said, and ready to proceed.

"I saw by the morning papers that the California case was not to be taken up this morning," said Mr. Knight. "If it is not, it will confirm an impression that the decisions of this committee are reached somewhere else than in this committee room."

Committeeman New of Indiana and Committeeman Crane of Massachusetts, both known as Taft adherents, supported Mr. Knight's request.

The committee then agreed to take up the contest over the two delegates from the Fourth California District, and set the Arizona cases for Wednesday. But after the attorneys and delegates from both sides had assembled at the tables ex-Senator Dick, the Taft attorney, declared that certain papers had not been received, and again asked for a delay.

Questions California's Law.

"We are inclined to think," said Mr. Dick, "that some of the other California delegates, whose seats have not yet been contested, were not elected in accordance with the National Committee's call. We believe that the California primary law, in its State-wide primary requirements, does not conform with the principles under which the National Committee acts.

"It is a question of whether we will abandon the principle of electing delegates by districts established in 1880, and return to the principle of choosing them by State units."

Committeeman Lyons of Texas asked Mr. Dick how he proposed to institute contests against any of the other California districts.

The committee had already listed the uncontested Roosevelt delegates on the convention's temporary roll before Mr. Dick made his request.

"We only wish to present the case to the committee," said Mr. Dick.

Francis J. Heney of the Roosevelt delegation declared that he was ready to stipulate with the Taft attorneys that any pertinent statements of Gov. Johnson might be submitted to the committee later. Mr. Heney asked Mr. Dick if an effort was being made to "disfranchise the Republican voters of California."

"The committee postponed this case Saturday to suit your convenience," replied Mr. Dick, "and now we simply ask the same courtesy."

Senator Crane moved to delay the California case until Wednesday. Senator Borah said there was no reason for that much delay. There was a hurried conference between Senator Crane and Mr. Heney at the Roosevelt table.

Heney Starts Things Going.

Mr. Heney broke into the committee proceedings to say he had heard that there was a "movement on foot to disfranchise all the delegates from the sovereign State of California if those votes were needed."

Members objected to Mr. Heney's remarks and demanded that he restrict himself to argument of the case.

"He is not out of order," shouted Senator Borah.

"He is out of order," retorted Chairman Rosewater.

Senator Borah declared that if Mr. Heney were not allowed to proceed some members of the committee would do the necessary talking.

"As I understand it, Senator," said Mr. Heney, again arising, "if I confine myself to arguments that do not offend any members of the committee I am in order."

Chairman Rosewater's gavel loudly rapped for order.

"The gentleman should not be allowed to come in here and insult the committee on the strength of something he has seen in the newspapers," declared Thomas H. Devine of Colorado.

"All the honesty is not on that side," he added, shaking his fist at Senator Borah.

"Well, all the honesty is not on your side," retorted Borah.

Chairman Rosewater asked Sergeant at Arms Stone to escort the Roosevelt and Taft contestants outside while the committee decided.

On a roll call demanded by Borah, Senator Crane's motion to postpone California until Wednesday was carried, 38 to 13.

Indiana Contests Heard.

The contest against the four Taft delegates at large from Indiana was then called.

Bainbridge Colby of New York appeared as attorney for the Roosevelt delegates. He charged, first, that the attempt to organize the Credentials Committee of the Indiana State Convention on the night before the convention had been unauthorized by the State Committee's official call.

Mr. Colby declared that a rule of procedure had been adopted by the Credentials Committee which gave five Taft members of the committee the chance to choose members from the Third, Sixth, and Seventh Districts, so as to give them control of the full committee.

He declared that the Roosevelt men selected for the Credentials Committee from the Third and Sixth Districts had been unseated by the Taft forces on that committee, which, he said, then took up the contests and made up the temporary roll for the next day's convention.

In the Marion County contest, he said, the committee had not even let the Roosevelt men present their case.

The Taft forces had 648 delegates and the Roosevelt side 667, he declared. The Taft forces had obtained control of the convention through the medium of contested delegates, and of the Credentials Committee by shutting out committee members who were known to be Roosevelt men.

Majority for Taft, Says Colby.

Mr. Colby said the Roosevelt forces actually had seven of the thirteen members of the Credentials Committee, but the rule laid down by the Taft forces allowed the latter to gain control.

Horace G. Stillwell of Anderson, Ind., continued the argument for the Roosevelt contestants. He declared that some unidentified person had posted a notice the night before the convention, postponing the Third District meeting to select a member of the Credentials Committee from 7:30 P. M. to 11:55 P. M., but in the interim a Taft member of the committee was selected and seated.

In the midst of his argument Mr. Stillwell, reading from a manuscript, began to throw some remarks into the debate that again aroused the ire of the Taft members of the committee.

"I ask you to stop the process of your steam roller and give this case a fair consideration," he said.

He also referred to "cheating in the decision from the Southern delegate cases." and added: "Your already weakened candidate cannot stand further action of this kind."

Roosevelt Attorney Rebuked.

Chairman Rosewater's gavel fell with a whack. "The counsel will confine himself to the argument of this case," he said.

"Mr. Chairman," interrupted Mr. Devine of Colorado, "I again object to such insults to this committee, to such a term as 'steam roller.'"

"I did not say you had a steam roller," remarked Mr. Stillwell, suavely. "I simply asked you not to operate one."

"Why does all the objection to the 'steam roller' remarks come from that side?" asked Senator Borah. "You haven't heard any of us refer to it."

"Because you, or at least some people, have been systematically peddling it to the newspapers that there is a 'steam roller.'"

"We don't need to peddle it," said Senator Borah. "No one recognizes it quicker than the newspaper men."

Resuming his argument, Mr. Stillwell said that no opportunity had been given him in the State Convention to nominate ex-Senator Beveridge and the rest of the Roosevelt slate of delegates at large.

"How many uncontested delegates were there?" asked Mr. Kellogg of Minnesota, a Roosevelt man.

"There were 667 Roosevelt delegates and 648 Taft delegates uncontested," Mr. Stillwell replied; "a Roosevelt majority of 19."

"Then did the contested delegates vote on their own cases?"

"They did."

Claims of the Taft Men.

Merrill Moores of Indianapolis began the argument in behalf of the Taft delegation at large. He asserted that the Roosevelt attorneys had not given all the facts to the committee.

He said that the alleged "anonymous notice" postponing the Third District meeting to select a member of the Credentials Committee had been formally posted by order of the State Committee by one John Edwards. The State Committee, by a vote of 11 out of 13, he said, had authorized this action at 6:30 o'clock, after word had been received that the Third District Convention at New Albany, more than 100 miles away, was still in session.

Ormsby McHarg, the chief Roosevelt contest framer, interrupted, saying it was not necessary for the district delegates at New Albany to get to the Indianapolis meeting.

"The reason seemed good to eleven of the thirteen members of the State Committee," rejoined Mr. Moores.

Referring to the question of the control of the Committee on Credentials, he said that ten members had arrived at the committee room at 9 o'clock, when the committee organized.

"There were six Taft and four Roosevelt men present," he said, "and under the authority of a quorum the committee organized and elected John B. Cochrum Chairman."

"Why did this committee meet at 9 o'clock?" asked Senator Borah, "when one member of the committee was not to be elected until 11:55 P. M?"

Mr. Moores insisted that a quorum of the committee was enough to proceed to business, but Senator Borah and Mr. Littauer both questioned the right of the Credentials Committee to meet before the last district meeting had been held. Mr. Kellogg asked if it was not unusual to have a Credentials Committee act before the State Convention of which it was a part had even been called to order.

Mr. Moores denied that there had been any fraud in the Indianapolis primaries, as had been alleged. He presented affidavits from public men and city officials to the effect that the primaries had been properly conducted.

Taft's Indianapolis Majority.

Mr. Moores presented figures to show that the vote in the Indianapolis primaries had been over 6,000 for Taft, and something over 1,400 for Roosevelt.

"And yet they are contesting that, are they?" demanded Committeeman Chubb.

"They are," said Mr. Moores.

Senator Borah asked how many uncontested Taft and Roosevelt delegates there were in the State convention. Mr. Moores said the Taft forces were in the minority, unless some of their contested delegates were allowed to vote on the contests.

Senator Borah persisted in a demand for the exact figures.

"I am here to argue, not to repeat facts," said Moores. "We will accept their figures."

Mr. Moores presented an affidavit by William R. Wood of Lafayette to prove that the Roosevelt delegates, headed by ex-Senator Albert J. Beveridge had been nominated at a "rump" State convention, held "without order" in the back of the hall.

In the affidavit Wood swore that he saw Horace G. Stillwell after the convention, and Mr. Stillwell said:

"We were licked, and I am satisfied, and will take off my coat and work for your man."

James A. Hemenway, former United States Senator, took up the Taft delegates' arguments. He said that all delegates in Indianapolis had been elected directly by wards.

A county committee on credentials decided contests in the city, Mr. Hemenway said, and the Roosevelt leader, Linton A. Cox, recognized the authority of that committee by appearing before it to present evidence.

Roosevelt Evidence Lacking.

The Roosevelt forces appeared to contest in the First to Tenth Wards, and in the Fourteenth and Fifteenth. In some cases they alleged that "repeaters" had voted, but they did not present evidence as to the identity of the repeaters. In all the wards, declared Mr. Hemenway, the returns showed Taft majorities.

Mr. Hemenway declared that all the 106 contests carried to the State convention from Marion County, (in which Indianapolis is located,) were taken in by wards. In the case of the fifteen wards of Indianapolis each case was presented separately, the elimination of any contested delegation, therefore, not affecting the Taft control of the convention.

"How any one can come to this committee and talk about road rolling, when our majority is more than six to one, is more than I can see," said Mr. Hemenway.

Mr. Kellogg asked if the Credentials Committee, called to meet "immediately after the holding of the district meetings," at which its members were selected, had not actually met before the third district meeting was held.

"How could this meeting legally take place?" he asked, "before all the members had been elected?"

Mr. Hemenway contended that the only real issue was whether the Indianapolis delegates had been legally elected.

"If they were," he said, "Taft had 105 majority."

"Then you did not base your claim to the four delegates at large on the legality or regularity of that Credentials Committee?"

Stood by Primary Result.

"Why, no," said Hemenway, "when there is a primary so overwhelming in its action, it is a farce to question its result."

Mr. Kellogg asked Mr. Stillwell of the Roosevelt forces whether he admitted that the contests in Indianapolis had been properly heard before the County Credentials Committee.

"No, sir," he said. "Our people did not appear."

The committee debated the question of admitting affidavits by Roosevelt men in Indianapolis, bearing on alleged primary frauds. The Taft attorneys, and several members of the committee, raised the objection that the affidavits had not been filed within the proper time.

Frank O. Lowden of Illinois renewed questions as to the right of delegates from one contested ward of Indianapolis to vote on the seating of delegates from another ward.

Senator Borah was permitted to read from the affidavits, after this observation by Committeeman Chubb of Florida:

Respectability of Contests.

"All the Southern contests have become highly respectable beside this one from a Northern State."

"There is only one thing in this case so far as I am concerned," declared Senator Borah, "and that is whether these primaries in Indianapolis were legally held."

Senator Borah read a "statement," not an affidavit, attributed to Mayor Shank, stating that city employes were discharged, or threatened with discharge, for taking part in the Roosevelt campaign.

Senator Hemenway and others denied these statements.

Other statements and affidavits were read by Mr. Borah, one asserting that the Fourth Ward voting place had been inconveniently located "for the fraudulent purpose of preventing voters from voting."

Col. New and Mr. Hemenway called attention to the vote cast, over 680, which Mr. New said was "the largest cast in years."

In this ward, also, one statement was that voters were not admitted to the voting room, but had to put their ballots "through a hole in the wall."

There was a buzz of conference among committee members as the Indiana contestants retired from the room. A motion to seat the Taft delegates was made by Committeeman Bieber of the District of Columbia.

Senator Borah asked for permission to make a statement.

"I don't want my vote to approve the action of the Credentials Committee," he said, "but they had a primary, and the victory in any event was apparently for Taft."

Frank B. Kellogg also said that while he believed there were frauds, they were not enough to invalidate the Taft victory.

Roosevelt Men All for Taft.

Both Mr. Borah and Mr. Kellogg voted to seat the Taft delegates, as did all the other Roosevelt members of the committee. Col. New refrained from voting. There was a roll call, and the vote resulted 52 to 0.

The case of the First Indiana District was then called. Most of the members had adjourned to the adjoining lunch room and a recess of twenty minutes was taken.

After the recess P. C. Gould of Evansville took up the first Indiana contests for the Roosevelt delegates.

He asserted that the convention which selected the Taft delegates was entirely controlled by men who refused to allow any Roosevelt delegates on the Credentials Committee.

Mr. Hemenway, arguing for the Taft delegates, said that if the statements made by the Roosevelt attorneys were true there would not be any dispute.

"But they are not true," said Mr. Hemenway. "The fact is that the Roosevelt contests were so flimsy they could not stand up.

Seat More Taft Delegates.

The Taft delegates in the First District were seated by a unanimous vote, no roll call being asked for.

The First District delegates thus seated are former United States Senator James A. Hemenway of Boonville and Charles F. Heilman of Evansville.

The case of the Third District delegates was called immediately.

Mr. Stillwell again appeared for the Roosevelt contestants. He said that the Taft forces had obtained a tie in the district convention and the Chairman then cast the deciding vote. He wished to present affidavits to show that one Taft vote was cast by a man illegally holding the proxy of a Roosevelt delegate.

Committeeman Devine declared that the rules of the committee governing evidence and documents should be adhered to. Committeeman New said that he had aided Mr. Stillwell in getting hold of arguments and affidavits a week ago, and he objected to "eleventh-hour evidence."

Other members of the committee objected to introducing new evidence. Senator Borah insisted that the committee wanted the facts and should accept all evidence that would "help purge the convention roll of all those not entitled to seats."

Mr. Borah drew from Mr. Stillwell the fact that his new affidavits would impeach a proxy that had been declared legal by the third district convention.

"When did your convention adjourn?" asked Committeeman Blun.

"March 25," said Mr. Stillwell.

Affidavit Two Months Late.

"What is the date of this affidavit you want to offer?"

"June 3."

"Thank you," said Mr. Blun.

Chairman Rosewater ruled that new evidence could be introduced by a majority vote of the committee. Senator Borah looked the affidavit over, and then said he considered it "immaterial."

"I believe that since the convention passed on this proxy it is beyond our power to question that," said Senator Borah.

Mr. Moores, the Taft attorney, replied to charges that proxies had been obtained "by purchase" in the New Albany district. He presented affidavits from the men involved, denying the whole allegation.

Third District Also Taft's.

The Taft delegates from the third district were declared legal by the committee. No roll call was asked for, but several members voted "no."

Chairman Rosewater then announced that the fourth Indiana district contest had been withdrawn. A motion was made to seat the regular Taft delegates in this district, and the vote was unanimous.

Dispute About Affidavits.

The Thirteenth Indiana District contest was then called. In the Thirteenth the Taft delegates were headed by Clement Studebaker, Jr., of South Bend. Mr. Stillwell, appearing for the Roosevelt delegates, headed by Fred W. Keller of South Bend, again asked permission to introduce new affidavits. He said that the Taft Chairman of the convention had been chosen by a vote of 71¼ to 70¾. He declared that he had affidavits from a majority of the delegates in the convention that they had voted for the Roosevelt delegates in the convention.

Mr. Dick declared that the National Committee had already repeatedly refused to admit new affidavits and objected to their introduction. Senator Borah said that he believed the notice of contest filed by the Roosevelt delegates some time ago would entitle Mr. Stillwell to introduce the affidavits.

Mr. Stevenson of Colorado argued that it would be unfair to the Taft forces to admit the new affidavits at this time when the Taft delegates and their attorneys had had no hint of their coming.

"I don't see what more we can do than offer evidence that a majority of the delegates were for us," said Mr. Stillwell.

The Taft attorneys declared they wanted time, if the Roosevelt affidavits were introduced, to get affidavits also.

"I agree that if these affidavits are offered, the Taft delegates ought to have time to answer them," said Senator Borah.

Mr. Stevenson said it would be impossible for the Taft forces to send back to Indiana and get up all the new affidavits and evidence within the short time that remained before the convention.

Hemenway Defends Result.

Mr. Hemenway said that the records of the Thirteenth District Convention showed that Mr. Studebaker and his colleague did get a majority of the votes of the convention.

"If we are going back of the acts of a convention and get affidavits from men who say they did not vote," said Mr. Hemenway, "there will be no end of it. For these same men might make affidavit that they didn't know what they were swearing to."

Senator Borah insisted that the title to the two delegate seats was in doubt and declared the affidavits should be considered.

Mr. Stillwell admitted that he had got the last of the affidavits yesterday.

Senator Borah finally made formal motion to admit the Roosevelt affidavits and that the Taft attorneys have until Saturday to answer them. Senator Hemenway declared that the Roosevelt people had had twenty days to prepare these affidavits.

Borah Pleads for a Good Record.

"I believe we ought to seek here to make a record that no one can challenge," said Senator Borah. "I have no doubt that the majority of this committee favor the nomination of President Taft," he added, "and if so, they are far more concerned to have the world know that he was chosen by men who were not elected by fraud than are the friends of those who will be defeated.

"Every one here knows what my alliances are, but you know the question we will have to meet is, Whether or not the nominee receives the nomination at the hands of honestly named delegates or at the hands of delegates elected in contravention of the wishes of the people who sent them.

"It is in the air that the contest from the time the convention closes until the votes are counted in November will be the most severe and difficult since Lincoln was elected the second time.

"Of what use to go before the country with the results of a questionable convention? It would be better for us to sit here until the dawn to-morrow, and the day after and the day after that, than to cut off the proof that is here offered.

"If you expect to win here and win there make your record so that it cannot be attacked.

"I appeal to you, not as the representative of Col. Roosevelt, but as the representative of the Republican voters of the country.

"You know that we have arrived at a new era in National politics. The people have arrived at the conclusion that they have been lethargic. They will demand the reasons why we have seated certain delegates. Let us admit all the evidence. Otherwise the people will feel their will has been ignored. I appeal to you in the name of the rank and file of the party that these contests be adjudicated upon a fair regard for all the evidence and not merely a part of it."

Affidavits for Sale, Says New.

Committeeman New then said that he agreed with Gen. Clayton that to admit the affidavits would be "to open a door which the committee would wish it had kept closed." He said it would be unfair to the Taft delegates to introduce new evidence which they had not had opportunity to answer. Col. New declared that affidavits would not necessarily be conclusive.

"You can go out," said he, "and get any number of affidavits with a handful of five-dollar bills."

A. H. Stevenson, proxy of Committeeman Barker of Alabama, declared that every member of the committee knew that "affidavits were neither conclusive nor persuasive in a matter of this kind and at this late date. He charged the Roosevelt attorneys with "keeping the affidavits in their pockets until they came before the committee," so that the opposing contestants might have no chance to answer them.

"To go on with such dilatory tactics as have been proposed, would make it impossible for us to conclude our work before the convention met," said Mr. Stevenson.

Senator Sanders, holding the proxy of Mr. Perkins of Washington, urged the committee to look to the future before postponing the Indiana case.

"Our action must be fair to all concerned," he said. "How can we give the same consideration to West Virginia or other cases called at the end of the week?"

30 to 20 Against Borah's Plan.

When the Borah motion to admit the new evidence was finally put to the committee, it was defeated 30 to 20. Chairman Victor Rosewater, Nebraska, and Alvah H. Martin, Virginia, both voted to admit the evidence, but declared they by no means conceded that it would be conclusive.

The vote was as follows:

For admitting the evidence—Rosewater of Nebraska, Littauer, (for Flanigan of Nevada,) Murphy of New Jersey, Ward of New York, Capers of South Carolina, Thorson of South Dakota, Monday of Tennessee, Lyons of Texas, Loose of Utah, Martin of Virginia, Shackleford of Alaska, Bieber, District of Columbia, Holstein of Hawaii, Kellogg, (for Knight of California,) du Pont of Delaware, Borah of Idaho, Lowden of Illinois, Burnam of Kentucky, Wight of Louisiana, Purdy, (for Kellogg of Minnesota.)

Against admitting the evidence—Stevenson, (for Barker of Alabama,) Sturgess of Arizona, Clayton of Arkansas, Devine, (for Cavender of Colorado,) Chubb of Florida, Blun of Georgia, New of Indiana, Hart of Idaho, Mulvane of Kansas, Simpson of Maine, Jackson of Maryland, Crane of Massachusetts, Diekema, (for Blodgett of Michigan,) Mosely of Mississippi, Bartholdt, (for Nagel of Missouri,) Marlow of Montana, Estabrook of New Hampshire, Luna of New Mexico, Duncan of North Carolina, Kennedy of North Dakota, Vorys of Ohio, Cade of Oklahoma, Williams of Oregon, Penrose of Pennsylvania, Sheffield of Rhode Island, Brock of Vermont, Sanders, (for Perkins of Washington,) Pexton of Wyoming, McCoy of the Philippines, Todd of Porto Rico.

Contestants Disappointed.

When the Thirteenth District contestants returned to the room they were bitter in their protest against the committee's ruling.

Mr. Stillwell said that he had no apology now to make for his remarks about the "steam roller." He declared his whole case rested on the affidavits that had been ruled out.

Ormsby McHarg followed with a vehement declaration that the committee had acted in an unprecedented manner in ruling out the affidavits. Mr. McHarg's protests were interrupted by a point of order from Mr. Devine, who said he was using unparliamentary language.

"My heart is in my mouth," replied Mr. McHarg.

For the first time during the Thirteenth District controversy the Taft attorneys then took up the presentation of their case.

A. G. Graham of South Bend declared that F. W. Kellar, a Roosevelt contesting delegate from the Thirteenth District, was one of the county chairmen who framed the rules under which the district convention was held.

Mr. Graham described how, as Chairman of the district convention, he conducted the proceedings for the selection of the Credentials Committee. He said that the selection of all the committees was regular, and denied the Roosevelt contestants' charges that the handling of the convention was "high handed."

Mr. Graham declared that the Roosevelt forces "thought they had us beaten," until the vote for Temporary Chairman was taken. Then, he said, they did not want another vote taken because they intended to hold a bolting convention.

Mr. Graham declared that the Roosevelt men avoided voting; Roosevelt men were in the hall, and that he "called for fifteen minutes with a megaphone" for other nominations, but none was offered. He then put the names of Mr. Studebaker and Mr. Fox to a vote, and "there was a volume of yeas and no nays."

Mr. Graham said the "bolting convention," as he called it, had only about 35 delegates, but "called in men from the galleries to fill up the hall."

Committeeman New, as Mr. Graham finished, said he would have no objection to admitting the debated affidavits.

"Now we have established the precedent against extending those hearings," he said, "I have no objection to hearing these affidavits offered."

"Why this sudden change of front?" demanded Senator Borah. "Is this committee trying to reverse itself in 20 minutes?"

"This is simply a request for unanimous consent, now that we have decided it shall not be a precedent," said Mr. New.

Borah Twits Colonel New.

"Whence did this revelation come?" demanded Mr. Borah. "What has scared you? What has happened to you?"

"You can't scare us," retorted Stevenson of Colorado. "We are simply trying to get the facts in this case."

"You are scared," stated the Idaho Senator, "your're the worst scared man I ever saw, and I want to know what's happened to you."

"If we admit these affidavits, now, is not the precedent established?" Senator Borah demanded, with emphasis. "I ask again, What is this change of front? What has come over you? I am in favor of admitting these affidavits, but I want the same privilege extended in future cases."

Senator Borah moved that the affidavits be accepted as evidence. Mr. Stevenson offered an amendment that the affidavits be accepted, but that the action be not regarded as a precedent.

The Roosevelt leaders demanded a roll call on the Stevenson substitute, but they could not get twenty members to support the demand. The substitute was adopted with the Roosevelt forces voting "No."

Chairman Rosewater then put the amended resolution to a vote, and again a roll call was refused. The resolution to admit the affidavits, without establishing a precedent was then adopted, the Roosevelt men voting "No."

With the disputed affidavits before it, the committee resumed consideration of the Thirteenth Indiana District. Horace G. Stillwell presented the affidavits, signed by what he said was a majority of the delegates to the District Convention, to show they had not voted for Taft delegates who were declared elected.

Mr. Stillwell said there was a general acquiescence in the selection of Chairman Graham, by the vote of 71½ to 70¾, but he declared three men who voted for Graham would not have voted for the Taft delegates.

Roosevelt Delegates Bolted.

Members of the committee demanded of Mr. Stillwell to know whether the Roosevelt delegates had ever been proposed before the convention. Mr. Stillwell admitted they had not been proposed to the convention while Mr. Graham presided. He said that Graham put on his coat and walked off the stage. They then reorganized the convention, he said, and elected the Roosevelt delegates.

Chairman Graham, when he was recalled, denied he had left the Convention.

"I never walked out of a convention in my life," he declared.

He said that the Roosevelt men crowded down in front of the convention and tried to keep him from doing business.

"They knew mighty well what we were doing and tried to stop us from nominating Studebaker and Fox," declared Mr. Graham. "Now they come in here with affidavits to show the change of just one vote and expect you to believe it. This was all done subsequently."

He declared that he "would make an affidavit as long as from here across the hall" that he occupied the chair for two hours and "tried to get the Roosevelt men to let the convention do business and to have a test vote."

He declared that the Roosevelt attorneys had "gone out into the highways and byways," getting men aside "secretly," where they "shoved the paper under their noses" and got them to sign the affidavits

Mr. Graham produced an affidavit from a nephew of Congressman Crumpacker stating that the Roosevelt men had said they would "bolt if they couldn't elect their delegates in the regular convention."

The keen interest in the case was shown as the attorneys retired, when members of the committee crowded around the contestants to discuss matters with them.

Committeeman Estabrook, New Hampshire, moved that the Taft delegates be seated. Senator Borah asked for a roll call, which was granted.

The Taft delegates were seated by a vote of 36 to 14. Several members of the committee had left the room.

Those who voted against the seating of the Taft delegates were Kellogg, Minnesota, (voting the proxies of Knight of California and Thorson of South Dakota;) Du Pont of Delaware, Borah of Idaho, Burnam of Kentucky, Thilberger (for Wight of Louisiana,) M. D. Purdy (for Kellogg of Minnesota,) Littauer (for Flanigan of Nevada,) Ward of New York, Capers of South Carolina, Monday of Tennessee, Lyon of Texas, Loose of Utah, and Bieber of the District of Columbia.

The conclusion of the Indiana cases was followed by immediate adjournment of the committee to 10 o'clock to-morrow, when the Kentucky contests will be first on the docket.

CONSPIRACY, SAYS COLONEL.

Interests "Over" Taft Hope to Steal Victory, He Writes.

In an article entitled "A Naked Issue of Right and Wrong," published in this week's issue of The Outlook, Col. Roosevelt says that certain interests which are trying to defeat him at Chicago dominate President Taft. The President's backers, he says, realizing that they have lost in the appeal to the people, are now "deliberately conspiring to steal the victory from the people. The President, he says, does not put his trust in the people, but in a body of fifty men, chosen four years ago, who have been repudiated by the Republican Party at the polls.

"During the last six weeks," Col. Roosevelt says, "Mr. Taft's campaign has been carried on, on his behalf, by those behind him—I do not say merely those under him, for I think some of the interests to which I allude are really over him and not under him—in such fashion as to make the contest a far simpler one. The talk of the Taft managers, and even of Mr. Taft himself, the utterances of the great dailies, especially the great metropolitan dailies, which are controlled or influenced by Wall Street, and the action threatened by many members of the National Committee, all combine to show that the backers of Mr. Taft realize that they have lost in the appeal to the people, and are now deliberately conspiring to steal the victory from the people.

"Properly speaking, the National Committee's only function is honestly to judge what delegates have prima facie the right to a seat and to suggest the name of a Temporary Chairman, who shall call the convention to order. Practically, the attempt is being made by the Taft managers to use the present National Committee for the purpose of unseating honestly elected delegates and of seating enough fraudulently elected delegates, especially from the States where there is no real Republican Party, to secure the nomination for Mr. Taft."

Of the thirty-nine members of the National Committee who followed the lead of the Taft manager in the vote on publicity at the first meeting in Chicago, says Mr. Roosevelt, fifteen have been defeated and repudiated in their States, four represent Territories and insular possessions having no vote, and ten are from Southern States that have given no electoral vote for the Republican Party. These twenty-nine, he says, constituting more than a majority of the committee, will be without political standing after this week and have no popular vote behind them.

"Yet in a recent speech in New Jersey," he says, "Mr. Taft stated that he believed he would be nominated because he believed that the National Committee would support him. Apparently, Mr. Taft was not aware of the full significance of his words. He is himself being used by men who know thoroughly what they want and what they mean, who had doubtless told Mr. Taft that the National Committee would be for him, but with no idea that he would repeat the statement in public. The real meaning of such a statement is that an appeal from the people lies to this body of fifty men, chosen not by the people but by the politicians four years ago.

"Mr. Taft cannot be nominated unless he gets the overwhelming majority of the 'rotten-borough' States, which never cast a Republican Electoral vote and in which the delegations represent only the office holders. Even if he gets practically all the delegates from these States he cannot be nominated unless by deliberate fraud in such States as Indiana, Michigan, and Washington, not to mention others, the Republicans are defrauded of their right to express their preference as to who is to get their votes."

The Colonel says he does not believe that the convention will support "the revolutionary and fraudulent action of the National Committee."

ROOSEVELT DOES NOT OBJECT.

Nothing to Say on Indiana Result—Won't Give In on California.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 10.—Col. Roosevelt had a long conference to-day with George W. Perkins, Frank A. Munsey, and Walter F. Brown, the Ohio leader. He emerged from it smiling and seemingly full of confidence. Mr. Perkins has been in Chicago during the early skirmishes, and came here as the messenger of Senator Dixon and the other Roosevelt managers to give the Colonel a clear idea of the situation. It was hinted, too, that Mr. Perkins and Mr. Munsey talked over the question of finances with the Colonel. The fight which is being waged is proving an expensive one, it is said.

One of the questions uppermost in the minds of the newspaper men when they interviewed the Colonel to-night was whether Mr. Perkins had urged him to go to Chicago, and, if that were the case, what the Colonel's decision had been. To all questions, however, the Colonel replied that he had not a word to say about the presence of Mr. Perkins at Sagamore Hill.

The Colonel did, however, ridicule a story that there was a special train waiting at the Grand Central Station to hurry him off to Chicago to-morrow.

"Some newspapers, I suppose, are printing stories that there will be 200,000 people waiting to cheer me as I pass through Buffalo," he said with a smile. "Then later they would like to say that there wasn't any such crowd, after all, and that Roosevelt was disappointed."

He added that if a trip to Chicago was part of the programme for to-morrow he knew nothing about it.

"I am going to town to-morrow," he said, "and when I return I will be accused of showing my usual Machiavellian disposition."

Reports that came in that President Taft had received the four Delegates-at-Large from Indiana from the National Committee by a unanimous vote did not seem to disturb the Colonel and he let it be known that the action of the Roosevelt men in committee in voting for Taft delegates had his approval, saying:

"I told Senator Dixon and my other leaders in Chicago that I did not want them to support any Roosevelt delegates except where the case was so clear that they would support them if they were Taft delegates."

Asked if he had no further comment to make on the fact that the National Committee had awarded President Taft all of the contests, the Colonel indicated that he didn't take some of the National Committeemen very seriously.

"Some of these gentlemen who go out of political life on Saturday—or is it next Monday or Tuseday?—have not the right to decide against the verdict of the people themselves," he said. "The people will not let them."

All day the Colonel was in close communication with his Chicago manager over the direct wire which has been strung to Sagamore Hill, but he nevertheless found time to entertain about 350 members of the Masonic lodges of Oyster Bay, Glen Cove, and Huntington. They drove out to Sagamore Hill in fifty automobiles just after the departure of Messrs. Perkins, Munsey, and Brown and inspected the trophies which the Colonel brought back from his African trip.

When the newspaper men arrived at the Colonel's home he was just returning from a long walk through the woods, and he waved a welcome with a long alpinstock. He was in a jovial mood again fore he got down to a discussion of the this evening and laughed and chatted on various topics for several minutes be political situation.

The Colonel said that he had not received the late reports about the Indiana vote, and when told that it had been a unanimous vote on the delegates at large he smiled as if it was nothing more than he had expected. But, the first mention of a report that a serious contest might be made against the California delegates at once aroused him. Any such action, he said plainly, would mean a bitter and determined fight.

"They couldn't do that where we had a majority of 60,000," he declared. "No one would stand for it. I wouldn't stand for it."

MACK SEES VICTORY FOR 'GOOD DEMOCRAT'

National Chairman Says That All Candidates Are That Kind.

SEES SECRETARY WOODSON

But Declares There Was No Conference and Arrangements Will All Be Made in Baltimore.

A call for a meeting of the Committee on Arrangements in Baltimore on June 20 was sent out yesterday by Norman E. Mack, Chairman of the National Democratic Committee. Mr. Mack stopped over here on his way to Baltimore and had a short talk with Urey Woodson, Secretary, and J. B. Doolin, Assistant Treasurer, of the National Committee. Word had gone out that there was to be a conference of much importance, but Mr. Mack said that there was to be no conference at all and that the presence of Messrs. Woodson and Doolin in the city at the time he arrived was a mere accident.

"All the important business we have to do in connection with the convention," said Mr. Mack, "will be transacted in Baltimore."

The Committee on Arrangements will meet in the Belvedere Hotel to discuss the make-up of the temporary organization of the convention. It is expected that this work will progress smoothly and that a complete slate will be ready by the time the convention meets on June 25. Mr. Mack said there would be no friction of any consequence anywhere.

Mr. Mack declares that there were many men in the Democratic Party eligible, because of mental calibre and training, to act as Chairman of the convention, but he did not know that any one of them was a candidate in the sense that he was inclined to assert his claims to the discomfort of the other eligibles. Among the men mentioned for the place of Temporary Chairman were United States Senators O'Gorman of this city, and John W. Kern of Indiana; Representatives William Sulzer of this city, Ollie M. James of Kentucky, and Robert L. Henry of Texas. There is also Col. James Hamilton Lewis of Chicago.

TO ENJOIN STATE DELEGATES.

H. P. Keith to File Suit to Restrain Them from Voting.

Henry P. Keith, member of the Democratic State Committee from the First Senatorial District, which includes Nassau and Suffolk counties, will file suit in the Supreme Court to-day to restrain the Democratic delegates from New York from voting in the Baltimore National Convention. He hopes to force the Democratic leaders here to call another State convention, on the ground that certain sections of the primary law were violated at the Democratic State Convention held last Spring at Terrace Garden. Mr. Keith frankly admitted last night that the action is brought for the purpose of having the new convention, if it is called, declare for Mayor Gaynor for President.

The suit will be brought by Mr. Keith and others on behalf of Lathrop Brown, leader of St. James, L. I.

Henry Unterhart and John P. Graham have been retained to bring the suit. Mr. Keith, who fought Charles F. Murphy in the convention, has been trying for six weeks to obtain from the Secretary of State the records of the Democratic State Convention, and he obtained these the other day. They show, he says, that Section 114 of the primary law, which provides that on the question of selecting delegates to the National Convention the roll must be called, was not carried out. No roll was called, he says, but the report of the committee selecting the delegates was read and adopted. The suit, it is said, is based on what is known as the Byrnes case, in which the name of Rhinelander Waldo, who was a candidate for Congress, was thrown off the Independence League ballot on the ground that the roll had not been called at the convention, but that an aye and no vote had decided against him. Daniel F. Cohalan, now Supreme Court Justice, argued the case for Tammany Hall, and the Appellate Division sustained the judgment of the lower court. court.

"This suit is being brought simply to force Leader Murphy to show his hand," said Mr. Keith. "The purpose is to compel the Democratic State Convention to reconvene, and, if it does, a resolution will be offered that the delegates support Mayor Gaynor as the nominee for President."

WEST WANTS GAYNOR.

So Says F. Q. Stewart of Iowa, Who Is Here to Sound Leader Murphy.

F. Q. Stewart, a prominent lawyer in Charlton, Iowa, came to town yesterday to see Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, about Tammany throwing its support in the Baltimore Convention to Mayor Gaynor for President. Mr. Stewart said that the Western Democrats looked upon the Mayor as the very best Presidential timber, and with John F. Shafroth of Colorado as a running mate he thought he would sweep the country.

"If Clark fails to secure the nomination, then the naming of the candidate will fall logically to the East," said Mr. Stewart. "Much depends upon New York. What will she do with her ninety uninstructed delegates? If she hands the Democrats a gold brick or a lemon, as she has sometimes done, then good-bye to Democratic hopes for another quarter of a century.

"Fortunately the New York Democracy is so situated and conditioned at the present time that it is able to present to the Democracy of the country probably the greatest and strongest individual Democrat of the Nation, Mr. Bryan excepted—William J. Gaynor. Next, if not fully equal, to Bryan and La Follette, the strongest ticket that the Baltimore convention could possibly name would be William J. Gaynor of New York and John F. Shafroth of Colorado.

"Gaynor and Shafroth would not only hold in line the Democratic voters of the Nation, but they would draw very largely from the Republicans. Both of them have been crucially tested for twenty years and they have at all times come up to the highest standards of simon-pure Democracy and sterling manhood.

"They are as big as the biggest mentally and morally, broad as the broadest in human sympathy and in the grasp of modern issues, true as the truest in loyalty to principle, and both of them are richly endowed with the attributes of leadership and with executive ability of the highest order. Gaynor is bigger in every element of true greatness than Taft, Roosevelt, and Hughes combined.

"New York doubtless has great Democrats other than Gaynor, but their records are not sufficiently well known to justify their nomination at this time. The voters of the country are in no mood to consider unknown quantities or negative characters; and they won't stand for corporation prodigies or ready-made world savers.

"What is New York going to do?"

Mr. Stewart expects to see leader Murphy to-day. Mayor Gaynor's friends were much interested in the Western lawyer's opinions. Murphy, they said, already had made up his mind that the Mayor was the logical candidate, and that the New York delegation would support him.

FARMERS HELD UP SUGAR MEN

Made Them Increase Price of Beets from $4.50 to $5 a Ton, with Extras.

In setting forth yesterday the Sugar Trust's side of the history of the beet sugar industry in the West, Chester S. Morey, President of the Great Western Sugar Company, told at the hearing of the Government suit before Wilson B. Brice in the Federal Building how the farmers had been able to force the sugar manufacturers to meet their demands time and again. On five separate occasions the growers had insisted on the Sugar Trust raising its prices to the figure they asked.

Cross-examined by Charles W. Waterman, counsel for his own company, Mr. Morey told how in 1902, just after H. O. Havemeyer became a factor in the beet sugar trade, the farmers insisted on a uniform price of $5 a ton for their beets. Mr. Havemeyer controlled three factories at Eaton, Loveland, and Greeley, Col. The first was paying $5 a ton, and so the farmers who served the other two insisted that the $4.50 they had been getting should be increased.

Two years later it was found necessary at the three new factories at Longmont, Windsor and Fort Collins to establish loading stations at some little distance away, where the beets could be collected. It was the idea of the trust that the farmers should bear the cost of hauling the beets from the loading stations to the factories. The farmers did not see it, and since then deliveries at the factories and at the loading stations have been paid for at the same rate.

In 1906 the beet crop was heavy and the factories could not handle all the beets that were offering. The trust suggested that the farmers put 25 per cent. of their crop in silos to await the next season. Again the farmers were to bear the cost, and again they objected on the ground that the expense of constructing the silos ate up all the profit. The trust gave way once more, and the growers charged an extra 50 cents for their siloed beets.

In 1910 trouble arose through the appearance of the scientific farmer. He asserted that his beets had a higher sugar value than those of the less progressive and demanded extra compensation. The trust agreed to pay 25 cents a ton extra for all beets showing a higher percentage of sugar than 15 per cent. This was not satisfactory, and in 1911 the farmers insisted on a 12½ per cent. bonus on every one-half of 1 per cent. of sugar over 15.

Again this year Mr. Morey said the farmers had increased their demands, and the manufacturers had to meet them. A 25 per cent increase had been made in the minimum of the sliding scale, and the bonus on siloed beets had been increased from 50 to 75 cents.

Mr. Waterman then questioned Mr. Morey as to the advantages of consolidation. The witness explained the benefits of the employment of a highly trained technical staff which individual factories could never have afforded. This had led to an improvement in the quality of the beets and in the number which the factories could handle.

Moreover, the market for beet sugar had been greatly enlarged, and Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia, New Mexico, Pennsylvania, and Tennessee now enjoy the blessings of this commodity, which were before consolidation denied to them.

Mr. Morey will continue his explanation of the beet sugar industry at 11 o'clock this morning.

MEXICAN BATTLE AT PEARSON

Federals Encounter Rebels 200 Miles South of Texas Border.

EL PASO, Texas, June 10.—Fighting was in progress between Rebels and Federals at Pearson, about 200 miles south of the International border, according to telegrams received by the Mexico Northwestern Railroad in Juarez to-day.

Dr. F. S. Pearson, of New York, and his London and Montreal associates own a big lumber mill at Pearson, and the majority of inhabitants of the town are Americans. The town is in rebel territory.

GEN. HUERTA'S FEDERAL HEADQUARTERS, SANTA ROSALIA, Mexico, June 10.—The entire division of Federal troops commanded by Gen. Huerta has moved into camp here, though the outposts to-day are within thirty miles of Bachimba Pass, where the Rebel forces of Gen. Orozco are gathered. Government scouting parties have approached to within seventy miles of the city of Chihuahua, the objective point of the present Federal campaign.

Twenty-two bridges destroyed by the rebels on their northward retreat are being repaired by 1,000 workmen under directions of the Government and the Mexican Central Railroad is expected to be in complete operation from Torreon to this place, a distance of nearly 200 miles, within two days. Repair gangs are moving both north and south, with Santa Rosalia as a base.

Gen. Huerta was enthusiastic to-day over the prospects of entering Chihuahua before the end of the month. He expressed satisfaction at the reported rout of the rebel forces of Campa and Argumedo at Nasas, east of Torreon, as this rebel movement aimed at the Federal rear, has threatened to embarrass communication of the Government columns with their base of supplies at Torreon.

Rebel forces in the Torreon District have by no means been dispersed, however, but reports to Gen. Huerta from Gen. Blanquet declare the latter has surrounded the insurrectos and is confident of ultimate success.

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, June 10.—José Cordova, Secretary General of the revolution, and other officers of Gen. Orozco's staff, announced to-day that they were preparing a manifesto reiterating that all foreigners, their property and interests in the rebel zone, will be given respectful consideration. Every possible guarantee of safety will be enforced, they declare.

All but four American women have left the city, and there are about fifteen American men left. A few English subjects remain.

SENDS BACK STEEL BILL.

House Refuses to Concur in Repeal of Reciprocity, or in Tariff on Paper.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Under the generalship of Representative Underwood the Democratic House to-day sent the bill for the revision of the steel and metal schedule back to the Republican leaders of the Senate with a flat refusal to concur in its amendment to repeal the Canadian Reciprocity act and impose a world-wide duty of $2 a ton on print paper.

When the Gallinger reciprocity and print paper amendment was attached to the bill by the Senate on May 29 it was part of a clever little plan to have the House shunt the bill into conference to perish in a deadlock between the rival political parties in command at each end of the Capitol. Instead of disagreeing to the Senate amendment and asking for a conference, the Democrats of the Ways and Means Committee decided to refuse to concure in the reciprocity repeal amendment, concur in two minor amendments to the pig iron and ferro silicon items, and send the measure back to the Senate, thereby putting it up to the Senate to ask for the conference.

This plan went through with ease to-day, although action was delayed by an old-time tariff discussion in which there was noisy oratory, political bantering, banging of desks, and intermingled cheers and jeers.

GERMAN OFFICERS DINED BY THE CITY

Their Fatherland Warmly Praised by the Mayor as He Proposes Health to the Kaiser.

ADMIRAL QUOTES COLONEL

Winslow Says He Could Make Guests Cheer "a Great Citizen"—Gaynor "Puts His Foot Into" His Boom.

"They may drink the health of the Kaiser in Berlin and throughout all the States of Germany, but I sincerely believe that, in the great, broad sense, no one in all Germany to-night drinks the health of the German Emperor more heartily than we do," Mayor Gaynor said last night in proposing the health of the German Emperor.

The occasion was the dinner given to the officers of the visiting German squadron at the Waldorf-Astoria, at which more than 700 of the most prominent citizens of New York gathered.

On the Mayor's right sat Rear Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz, on his left the German Ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, to whose left sat Rear Admiral Cameron McR. Winslow, U. S. N.; to the right of Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz was ex-Mayor Seth Low, the Chairman of the committee appointed by Mayor Gaynor to arrange the programme for the entertainment of the city's guests. These were the speakers, and each of them had something to say that brought cheers from the diners and a waving of handkerchiefs from the women who thronged the boxes in the galleries.

Count von Bernstorff won cheers when he said that the arriving German and American squadrons on Sunday "looked like one fleet." He added that he hoped they would be to all intents and purposes a single fleet always.

Admiral Winslow referred sadly to the fact that the United States had no ship like the Moltke and he urged the diners to do what they could to persuade their Congressman to vote for an appropriation that would make possible within the next few years a few American battle-cruisers of the Moltke type.

Winslow Quotes the Colonel.

Admiral Winslow also made pointed reference to "a great citizen of New York," who was quoted by him as having said that there was no question too trivial for two countries to go to war about if one of both of those countries was bent upon a conflict, and again that there was no question, however grave, that two countries could not peaceably settle if they so desired.

"The man who said that," Admiral Winslow said, "was a great citizen of New York, one whose name if mentioned to-night would bring you to your feet cheering."

Admiral Winslow was a naval aid to Col. Roosevelt when the Colonel was President, and many among the diners said that it was the Colonel to whom the officer had reference.

It had been rumored that the dinner would be broken up by the leaders of the striking waiters, but nothing of the sort happened. The decorations were the entwined colors of the United States and Germany and the music that was played was typically German and American, with, of course, the National Airs of the two countries.

Besides those named those who sat at Mayor Gaynor's table were Bishop Greer, Brig. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, U. S. A.; Capt. Albert Gleaves, U. S. N.; Capt. Ritter van Mann Edler von Tischler, the commander of the Moltke; Borough Presidents McAneny, Steers, Cromwell, Miller, and Connolly, President John Purroy Mitchel, Capts. Thomas Snowden, J. A. Hoogewerff, and James H. Oliver of the United States Navy, Commander Seebohm of the cruiser Bremen, Commander von Krosigk of the cruiser Stettin, Collector of the Port William Loeb, Jr., and Dr. Kart Ziegler, the acting Consul General of Germany.

Mayor Gaynor's speech was interrupted by applause time and again. He said that as Mayor of New York he could say that there was no jealousy of Germany's greatness in this city, and then he added:

"And if I could speak for the State or the Nation—"

He did not get any further, for the diners started cheering, and when that was all over the Mayor turned a bit red and said dryly:

"Now I have put my foot in it, as usual."

Mayor Gaynor's Speech.

"You were all enjoying yourselves so much," said Mayor Gaynor, "that I hated to interrupt you. But there comes a time, you know, in everything. New York never did anything more heartily than we are now doing in the welcoming of the officers and men of the German squadron. It is trite to say this country that we claim our lineage of law and of government, and of manner, custom, and usage, from the Anglo-Saxon. In a large degree that is entirely true. So we really have a right to speak of the Anglo-Saxon world as our mother in that sense, authough we are composed of many nationalities. But that being so, we have all the more reason therefor to say that the German is our grandmother, because from there all this civilization came—to England, and, secondly, to this country. So I salute our grandmother to-night.

"I tell you, Count Bernstorff and Admiral, that we do it with a whole heart, too. The people of America cannot help but look with the highest admiration upon the advance of the German Empire, intellectually, socially, economically and last, but not least, of course, commercially, since the formation of the German Empire in 1870. They have set a pace for the whole world. That was true all along and has been especially true since the reign of the present Emperor, because we have always looked upon him, because of his manners and ways and bluntness of speech, as a sort of an American. I think they know that pretty well over in Germany, too.

"Now, I do not know whether I ought to say this or not. (A voice: 'Go ahead.') If there be any—I do not know quite the word to use—any jealousy in any other part of the world on account of this great progress of the German people under the Empire, I am sure I can say absolutely that the like does not exist at all events in the City of New York. If I had a right to speak for the State of New York, for the United States, (A voice: 'You will,')—now I see I have put my foot in it as usual—but I would say that I am equally certain that there is no such jealousy anywhere throughout this country. We welcome intelligent rivalry throughout the world.

"We have in the City of New York a very large German population. Formerly it was 29 per cent. of the whole, but things became so prosperous throughout Germany that immigration from that country practically ceased, and now we receive almost nobody as immigrants at our docks here from Germany. They can do too well at home. And that is going to be the case of other nations, my friends. But I cannot stop to talk to you about that. We have a large immigration from countries to-day which will cease inside of fifteen years. Do not be disturbed about it at all, about the Russian or the Italian immigration. But this large percentage of our people here in New York who are Germans—they are among the best of our citizens. And I am bound to say, having been Mayor now two and one-half years, that they are not office seekers.

"Although they have become the second in population here, they have here and throughout the United States so married and intermarried among us that we do not know until we think it over very carefully whether each and every one of us has not some German blood in us. One man says he is one-eighth an Irishman, and another man that he is one-quarter a German; and so it goes. But we are, if I may bestow a compliment on ourselves, with all this good stock from Europe, a pretty good lot ourselves, aren't we?"

There was laughter or applause at the end of nearly every sentence the Mayor uttered.

Count Bernstorff Replies.

Count von Bernstorff followed the Mayor. He expressed his own appreciation of the splendid welcome accorded to the Kaiser's ships, officers, and men in American waters.

"It is with an overflowing heart," he said, "that I express to you the gratitude of your grandmother and I am very sure that my sovereign would join me in these sentiments. I witnessed, as the guest of the President of the United States, the magnificent welcome of the ships under command of my friend, Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz, in Hampton Roads, and it was my good fortune to witness the arrival of the combined squadrons in the Hudson from the deck of a friend's yacht, and to me those squadrons looked like one fleet, and I hope that it will always be so. The one ambition of my life is the strengthening of the bonds of friendship between this and my own country. A countryman of mine has referred to the United States as a land of unlimited possibilities, but to me it is also a land of unlimited hospitality.

"There is no doubt about the commercial rivalry of America and Germany, but such competition is a guarantee of peace and amity."

The Ambassador then proposed the health of President Taft, which was followed with the toast to the Emperor by Mayor Gaynor.

Admiral Gives Royal Message.

The next speaker was Rear Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz. The Admiral said that he brought a personal message to New York and the United States from Prince Henry of Prussia, a message of good-will and friendship in which the Emperor had joined. The visit of his ships to New York, he said, would never be forgotten by his officers and men, and the kindness heaped upon them would be talked about in every part of Germany and would still further cement the friendship of the two peoples. In conclusion he proposed the health of Mayor Gaynor and the everlasting prosperity of the City of New York.

Admiral Winslow, the next speaker, made his plea for the navy. He said that navies were the greatest guarantees of peace.

"We have brought some good arguments to New York with us, too," he added, "and I believe that we of the navies of the world contribute as much to the peace of the world as any other organization extant. No nation can be at peace and be sure of peace and be weak, and no nation can be truly great without a great navy."

The Admiral referred to the great changes that have been made and are still taking place in the science of warfare. He referred to great guns that can shoot through armor plate "as thick as a block of houses," of airships that sail the air, and of submarines that navigate beneath the water.

"I believe," he added, "that the consensus of opinion is that a naval war of the future will be a dangerous thing."

BUSY DAY FOR VISITORS.

Mayor and German Admiral Exchange Visits.

Rear Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz, commanding the visiting German squadron now anchored in the Hudson, put in a busy day yesterday. At 9 A. M. he received official calls from Brig. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, U. S. A., commanding the Eastern Division of the United States Army on Governors Island; Capt. Albert Gleaves, U. S. N., commandant of the New York Navy Yard, and Herr K. Zeigler, acting Consul General of Germany in New York. Then Admiral Rebeur-Paschwitz and his staff, escorted by representatives of the Mayor's Committee and Admiral Winslow, commanding the Second Division of the Atlantic Fleet, called officially on Mayor Gaynor, and later returned the calls of Brig. Gen. Bliss, Capt. Gleaves, and the acting German Consul General. In the afternoon Mayor Gaynor officially returned the Admiral's call on board the Moltke.

While the commanding and senior officers were busy with the exchange of official courtesies, thirty of the junior officers were taken in automobiles for a sightseeing tour of New York, the tour taking in both the morning and afternoon, with luncheon at the Metropolitan Club.

Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz and his staff, with the Captains of the Moltke, Stettin, and Bremen, were in full dress uniforms when the Moltke's launches landed them at the foot of West Twenty-third Street for their visit to the City Hall. A dozen automobiles and a detachment of thirty mounted policemen under command of Lieuts. Eagan, McCarthy, and Wood awaited them at the landing. The police arrangements were in charge of Inspector McClusky.

The German Admiral, Capt. Ritter von Mann, of the Moltke; Commander Krosigk of the Stettin, and Commander Seebohm of the Bremen, and the other German officers were greeted there by ex-Mayor Seth Low, Herman Ridder, Dr. George F. Kunz, Police Commissioner Rhinelander Waldo, J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr., Dr. Edward Hagaman Hall, Gen. Howard Carroll, and R. A. C. Smith, representing the Mayor's Committee, and by Admiral Winslow, Capt. Oliver of the battleship New Hampshire, Capt. Snowden of the dreadnought South Carolina, Capt. Hoogewerff of the battleship Kansas, Capt. Welles of the flagship Louisiana, and Lieut. Zogbaum, Flag Lieutenant of the Second Division of the Atlantic Fleet, representing the United States Navy.

Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz and Mr. Low headed the column at City Hall through a lane formed by the sub-committee of the Mayor's Committee, and a cheer and a great deal of hand-clapping from the crowd followed as the party of distinguished foreign visitors entered the City Hall.

Mayor Gaynor received them in the City Hall reception room. When the German Admiral responded in perfect English to the introduction to the Mayor, Mr. Gaynor remarked:

"You speak English. You Germans all speak English, and everything else—all the languages. And you know how to keep silence in all the languages."

After the introductions were over, the Mayor said:

"I can only say, Admiral, for a few words have to suffice, that we invited you here to our city with the greatest pleasure. I hope the citizens will not overdo it—the Chairman and members of the committee—and entertain you too much. Sometimes you spoil a thing in that way. But I think we are very hospitable, and we will do the very best we can for you. We are exceedingly glad to have you here."

German Good Will to Us.

Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz responded as follows:

"Permit me to say, Mr. Mayor, that we have come with great pleasure, and thank you for your kind invitation to come to New York. Permit me to say, also, that we bear the good will, expressions of friendship and good feeling of our German brother citizens to the United States, and especially to New York City. We look forward with great pleasure to the days we are to pass here."

From City Hall Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz and his escort went to the German Consulate at 11 Broadway and, after returning Herr Ziegler's call, proceeded to the Battery, where boats were waiting to take them to Governors Island. On Governors Island Brig. Gen. Bliss and the entire division and garrison staff of officers were at the ferry slip to greet them. Behind the officers stood a battalion of the Twenty-ninth United States Infantry at attention, while at the foot of the hill leading from division headquarters, the Twenty-ninth Infantry band was stationed. As the German Admiral came ashore the band played the German national anthem and the Governors Island saluting squad fired thirteen guns in the Admiral's honor.

Battleship New York Inspected.

At the navy yard Capt. Gleaves and his staff received the visitors. This visit was the longest of all, for during it the guests were shown through every part of the great Government plant. Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz saw the great dreadnought New York in process of construction, and expressed his admiration for the mighty ship which is to be launched within the next few weeks. The navy yard was the last official call, and as the navy yard gunners began the salute of thirteen guns the visitors left to return to their ships while the members of the Mayor's Committee went to the Whitehall Club to lunch with Mayor Gaynor.

Mayor Gaynor returned Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz's call at 3:30 P. M. He went up the river on the police steamer Patrol, and was accompanied by the special committee headed by Mr. Low and also Collector of the Port William Loeb, Jr., and William R. Willcox, Chairman of the Public Service Commission. The Mayor went from the Patrol to the Louisiana, and after a few minutes chat with Admiral Winslow he and the members of his committee boarded the Louisiana's steam launches and went to the Moltke. The band of the Moltke played "The Star-Spangled Banner" while the sailors stood at attention as Mayor Gaynor followed Admiral Winslow up the gangplank. On the quarter deck Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz was waiting. Also on the quarter deck was a battery of photographers with their cameras cocked to fire.

Pose for Photographs on the Moltke.

"There they are," the Mayor remarked to the Admiral, just the least sign of a smile showing. "I wonder if you meet them everywhere in Germany, too. Here we meet them everywhere."

The photographers smiled, and the Mayor showed there was no sting to his remarks by posing with the Admiral for two or three pictures.

The Mayor glanced in the direction of the crowd that was on the Moltke, and then turning to ex-Mayor Low said:

"Low, it looks as if half New York is here, I guess we will have to elect the Admiral Mayor."

Mr. Low nodded assent to the suggestion, and everybody laughed.

The Mayor and his escort were with the Admiral for half an hour. As they left the ship the sailors again stood at attention, and the band for a second time played "The Star-Spangled Banner." The Mayor got a salute of seven guns as he left the Louisiana.

This is the programme arranged for the visitors to-day:

1 P. M.—Rear Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz will give an invitation luncheon on board the Moltke.

From 3 to 6 P. M.—The German Admiral will give a reception by invitation on board the Moltke.

3 P. M.—About 500 German sailors and 500 American sailors will embark on two boats at Ninety-sixth Street, and will be taken to Coney Island for the afternoon and evening, returning to their ships about 11:30 P. M.

One hundred German sailors will participate in an entertainment given by the Naval Branch of the Y. M. C. A., in Brooklyn.

7:30 P. M.—The German Admiral and invited officers will land at Eightieth Street, and be taken to the New York Yacht Club, where they will be entertained at a private dinner given by Cornelius Vanderbilt. Following the dinner, about 11 o'clock, Mr. Vanderbilt will give a private reception in honor of the visitors.

The Moltke will not be open to the public during the official functions on board this afternoon.

GREAT CRUSH OF VISITORS.

The Moltke Has to Refuse to Receive Many—Two Overboard.

Another throng visited the German battle-cruiser Moltke yesterday afternoon, and in their eagerness to climb aboard the big ship two of the visitors tumbled into the water. The jam of boats, each laden to its lawful capacity, became so great around the port gangway of the Moltke that finally the Captain at 3:30 o'clock issued orders closing the ship to any more visitors.

When the deck officers called through their megaphones to the boatmen that no more visitors were to be allowed on board the boatmen immediately steamed around to the starboard gangway, hoping to get their passengers on board by the gangplank reserved for the use of officers and official guests. The manoeuvre failed, and a score of boats, crowded with disappointed men, women and children, Germans for the most part, steamed slowly back to the public landing at the foot of Eightieth Street. This put an end to a profitable business that the boat owners had hoped would last until 6 o'clock.

At one time the boats were jammed around the port gangway so tight and in such great number that it seemed that one or more of them must meet with accident. Every few minutes a tug or an excursion vessel would sail by, leaving in its trail swells that caused the launches to rock violently, like so many corks, while several of them crashed broadside into each other.

Only one boat could land passengers at a time, and in their eagerness to get on board the Moltke scores of passengers, among them many women, leaped from one boat to another, with the one idea of getting on the boat that was at the time alongside the gangplank. Both of the men who fell into the water owed their misfortune to their efforts to get from one launch to another. They suffered nothing worse than a wetting.

Another mixup in the launch fleet caused a lot of excitement and brought Prince Henry XXXVII. of Reuss, officer of the deck, to the rescue. A launch carrying about fifteen men, ten women, and several children came alongside. An unexpected swell caught the launch, and her bow took a dip and came up under the gangway. The bow was held down and the water began pouring in. Women and children started to scream and men turned white.

Prince Henry ran down the gangway, shouting to the engineer of the launch to reverse his engine. Then he called to two of the Moltke's seamen, who ran to the foot of the gangway, and with their strong boathooks pushed the launch out from under the gangway. The second time, the launch got alongside instead of under, the foot of the gangway and the passengers scurried on board.

Saks' Clothes for Men
at the Crossroads of Choice

¶ There are considerably more than 3,000 tailors in New York alone. Let us say that twenty, at least, come within your personal knowledge. This means that the chances are nineteen to one against your choosing the best one.

¶ No wonder we dwell so persistently, so insistently, and so consistently upon the need of your making a discriminating selection.

¶ Your predicament may be compared to that of a man confronted with twenty signposts, all pointing in different directions, all bearing different inscriptions, all claiming to be right. Now, though it be possible to reach a place by twenty different routes, perfection in clothes is reached by only one, and Saks productions furnish abundant proof that we have found it.

¶ The superiority of Saks tailoring and the distinctiveness of Saks styles are such that you cannot match them though you follow any or all of the other nineteen signposts at the Crossroads of Choice.

¶ To see the Saks aggregation of Summer garments—the wealth of variety in fabric and color—the diversity of models—the new and original features of treatment—the perfection of workmanship and finish—the charm and individuality of Saks styles—and the uniform reasonableness of Saks prices—is to suspect that we are first in the ready-for-service field. To make comparisons with other productions is to be convinced. 15.00 to 48.00

Dean Wells Protests Against Thomas Beecham Having Appeared in Concert.

CLERGY SHOULD OBJECT

Even if Others Take the "Miserable View" That Art Has No Concern with Morals, He Says.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 10.—A sensation was caused at the Hallé Conference at Manchester yesterday when Bishop Welldon, Dean of Manchester, made a protest to the Executive Committee in connection with the appearance of Thomas Beecham as conductor of last season's concerts.

Mr. Beecham in November last was the co-respondent in the divorce suit, Foster vs. Foster, in which George Sherwood Foster, the artist, received a decree nisi against his wife, with costs against Mr. Beecham. Bishop Welldon, who read his remarks from a paper, said:

"We do not like to pry into the lives of artists who come to Manchester. We ask no questions about them. We gladly give them a cordial welcome, but it is impossible that we should shut our eyes to notorious facts, which have been recently exposed in a court of law.

"Even if the committee should take what I can only call the miserable view that art has nothing to do with morals, still there are at least two classes of persons who may not unfairly look for consideration."

The Bishop went on to say that he spoke for such subscribers to the conference as clergy and ministers and ladies of the choirs, some of whom might reasonably object to associating with a man whom they would not wish to meet or know in private.

The Chairman of the conference explained that the engagement of Mr. Beecham had been made a considerable time before the court proceedings, and if it was not carried out the committee might be liable to an action for breach of contract.

MARCONI PROFITS DOUBLED.

Net Income for 1911 Allowed 20 Per Cent. Dividend on Ordinary Shares.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 10.—The annual report of the Marconi Company, which has been awaited with interest, is now out. It shows net profits of £141,717 ($708,585) for 1911, against £61,513 ($307,565) for 1910. The Directors state that but for the fact that business completely outgrew the company's Chelmsfor works the profits would have been larger.

A final dividend of 1 per cent. on both classes of shares was declared, making 17 per cent. for the year on the preference stocks and 20 per cent. on the ordinary. For the current year a first interim dividend of 7 per cent. on the preference shares and 10 per cent. on the ordinary shares is announced.

With reference to the imperial wireless scheme, which was outlined three months ago, the Marconi report states that 10 per cent. of the gross receipts of so important a commercial telegraphic service must represent a very considerable revenue for the company for many years to come. The amount due the company from the Canadian subsidiary company was reduced during 1911 from £163,866 ($819,330) to £78,588, ($392,940,) but this is likely to be increased during the current year, as the Marconi Company is giving the Canadian company financial assistance for further development.

All the stations erected under the Imperial scheme will be fitted with apparatus for the automatic transmission and receipt of messages, guaranteeing a speed of not less than fifty words a minute.

The terms for a further contract with the Canadian Government have been practically agreed to, and a contract is likely to be executed soon.

Arrangements are progressing and the work will be carried out as expeditiously as possible for the construction of stations placing Great Britain in direct communication with New York, instead of having the messages pass through Glace Bay; also for the construction of stations in San Francisco for communication through the Hawaiian Islands with the Philippines, China, and Japan. Arrangements are also being made for stations to send messages from New York south to Cuba, Panama, and subsequently to each South American State.

With reference to the increase in press business, the report mentions the fact that THE NEW YORK TIMES received wireless messages from London within ten minutes of their dispatch. It also says that when the stations near London and New York are completed, the company will be independent of land lines and will provide a service which will not be surpassed for speed and accuracy.

The company has entered into arrangements whereby it will obtain sole world's rights in the wireless compass of Messrs. Bellini and Tosi. This should prove of considerable value when worked in conjunction with existing wireless installations aboard ships, to define the position of an approaching ship or of the land in a dense fog.

Spain's King Receives the Exposition Commission Cordially.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

MADRID, June 10.—The Panama-Pacific Exposition Commission had an audience of forty-five minutes to-day with King Alfonso, and there was a full discussion of all phases of the celebration at San Francisco.

The King was pleased that Californians recognized Spain's influence for good in the civilization of that State. He expressed the wish that President Taft would interest himself in establishing a steamer line from New York to Vigo, which, the King stated, was 200 miles nearer New York than any other European port.

The King was much interested in Gen. Edwards's description of the military features and international character of the exposition, and also in Admiral Staunton's outline of the naval pageant which is proposed.

The Kaiser's Ambitious to Compel a Square Deal Told in Memoirs.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, June 10.—Some memoirs of Prof. Jacob H. Van't Hoff, the late eminent Dutch chemist of the University of Berlin, have just been published and contain some interesting comment of the Kaiser with reference to the United States.

Dr. Hoff describes an evening which he spent at the Kaiser's palace. When the conversation turned on an invention for producing artificial silk, the Emperor said that such inventions interested him in the highest degree. It was always his ambition, he said, to make Germany as independent as possible of foreign raw materials. He hoped that artificial silk would eventually displace French silk and American wool. If the latter result could be achieved, America might be more willing to give Germany a square deal in regard to a commercial treaty.

MOSCOW ACCLAIMS CZAR.

The Imperial Family Arrive to Unveil Alexander III.'s Statue.

MOSCOW, June 10.—Emperor Nicholas and Empress Alexandra arrived this afternoon from Sebastopol, and soon afterward the Dowager Empress reached here from Copenhagen. They will be present at the unveiling of a statue of Alexander III., and the dedication of a museum bearing his name.

This is the first visit of the imperial family to Moscow since 1903, and from appearances the ceremonies will be the most imposing since the coronation of Nicholas I. There is a larger assemblage of Grand Dukes, Ministers, and military and civil heads than at Kiev last year. The Emperor, Empress, and Dowager are in fine health and spirits, and bronzed from their three months' stay in the Crimea. During a three-mile drive to-day they were acclaimed by 200,000 people.

HAMMERSTEIN SONG LIVENS AN OLD OPERA

He Introduces an Original Waltz Refrain in "The Chimes of Normandy."

HIS OWN DANCE MUSIC, TOO

A "Queen Mary" Gavotte and a "Fisherfolk Dance" Add to Novelty of the Performance.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 10.—Oscar Hammerstein made a fresh deal of the histrionic cards to-night when he inaugurated another season of reduced prices at the London Opera House, with "Les Cloches de Corneville," ("The Bells of Normandy.")

He had introduced a joker into the pack in the shape of three original compositions by himself. The first was a waltz song, "I Have Found a Pearl," which, as sung by Orville Harrold, must have made the purveyors of catchy melodies envious because of the lilt and swing to the air, which promise to make it popular. A gavotte, entitled "Queen Mary," and "A Fisherfolk Dance" were Hammerstein's other compositions, and showed the diversity of his talent, and at the same time provided a double "turn" of undeniable variety.

The slow and measured steps of the gavotte, trod by eighteenth century French courtiers, were followed by the clattering sabot dance of the conventional Dutch fisher lads and lassies of the stage. As interpolations in "Les Cloches de Corneville," they produced a curious effect.

Planquette's ever-delicious music was admirably rendered by the orchestra and chorus, but, with the exception of Orville Harrold as Grenicheux, neither the singing nor the acting principals deserved special commendation. Vinnie Daly, an American, was Serpolette, while Germaine was played by an English recruit.

Ort Wells Thinks It Shows How Wall Street Stands on Roosevelt.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 10.—Ort Wells of Chicago, a former partner of John W. Gates, is spending a few days here before going to the Continent, where he expects George Ade to join him at the end of the month. He discussed the political situation in America with THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent to-day. He said:

"I am pleased at the news that Roosevelt is losing before the National Committee. It is strange that he is able to get such a following, but there are a great many persons of a certain class in America who will be captured by his flamboyant style.

"I should not be at all surprised if Roosevelt would bolt if he was not nominated, which might be a good thing for the Republican Party in the end, as it would then have a chance to get rid of him for all time.

"I do not think, however, that the Republicans have any chance of electing a President. The partisans of Taft and Roosevelt are too bitter to come together.

"It is hard to tell what the Democrats are going to do. Anything I could say about them would be guesswork, but it looks as if Bryan might get the nomination, despite anything he has said about not being a candidate. If he is nominated, he is very likely to land the job on the fourth time running.

"It is a very strange thing to see E. H. Gary going to Chicago to help the Roosevelt forces. Of course the attitude of Perkins is easily explained by the Harvester Trust, but that would not explain Gary, and when he also went over to Roosevelt it was hard to convince any one that Wall Street was not behind Roosevelt. It looks as if the flaming hero of the people of four years ago had been really only a hero of words.

"To an observer it would seem that Taft had really been in earnest in his attempts to break up the trusts, while Roosevelt was not sincere.

"It was a ridiculous exhibition for Roosevelt to be rushing Flinn to Chicago to lead his fight, and at the same time be declaiming against bosses. Flinn was as much a politcal boss as Penrose had ever been, but after Flinn turned to Roosevelt he was forthwith proclaimed as a Moses to lead the country out of the wilderness."

Hundred Ships Supplied with Relief Operators Since the Titanic Sank.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 10.—The Marconi Company has received during the past few weeks so many applications from shipping companies for additional wireless operators for service on board the principal liners that the present school at Liverpool is unable to keep pace with the demand, and a school is to be opened in London in a few days.

It is estimated that already 100 ships have been supplied with relief operators since the Titanic disaster.

Altogether the merchant ships now fitted with wireless equipment number between 1,300 and 1,400, which is remarkable progress in only ten years of wireless.

HAVANA REASSURED AS WARSHIPS ARRIVE

Cuban Officials Take New Courage from Washington Reports of American Purposes.

LOSE FEAR OF INTERVENTION

Two More Battleships Under Orders at Key West—Wood May Go to Cuba to Mediate the Troubles.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, June 10.—In spite of the arrival here this noon of two American warships, the cruiser Washington and the battleship Rhode Island, and the ordering here of two more warships from Key West, a distinct feeling of relief was noticeable in official quarters this afternoon as a result of the day's news from Washington.

The reception given to Dr. Orestes Ferrara, Speaker of the Cuban House, by Secretary Knox, and the latter's repeated assurances that intervention was not intended, and Dr. Ferrara's speech before the American House of Representatives were responsible for this feeling of relief.

Cuban officials feel that they have been misrepresented, but they have every confidence that they have nothing to fear regarding their national independence, if the Washington Government and the American Congress and people learn the true condition of affairs. The Cuban Government feels that no one is better able to present the real conditions in Cuba than Dr. Ferrara, and is confident that he will convince American officials that the stories of Cuba's troubles are greatly exaggerated.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent has cited instances where conditions have been grossly misrepresented in stories regarding outrages. Washington has apparently been told of numerous outrages throughout the island, and Cuban officials ask that one single instance be named that has been corroborated. The Cuban Government has investigated every instance where outrages were reported, and not one proved to be a fact. It is admitted that there were three or four attempted outrages, but nothing more, though it is understood that Washington was officially notified through some source that as many as four outrages occurred in one day.

The source of Washington's information regarding Cuban conditions bothers the officials here, because it is not believed that Minister Beaupre would have reported to his Government as facts the unverified reports published in local newspapers, or that Washington would have reached conclusions through sensational news dispatches sent out from Havana.

The Cuban officials do not deny that Saturday's occurrences in Havana had a serious aspect, but they point to the prompt appearance of military to aid police, and the equally swift subsidence of the trouble as soon as the soldiers appeared on the streets. They admit that on Friday and Saturday the condition of the public mind made a race war imminent, but declare that subsequent events have shown that the Cuban people were heartily ashamed of the critical state of affairs. They cite the fact that neither on Sunday nor to-day had one instance of race trouble occurred, and throughout the city whites and blacks were working peaceably together without any symptom of hard feelings, which would be impossible if a real race war existed.

When asked to-day as to the ordering of warships to Havana, the Secretary of the American Legation, Mr. Gibson, said that no marines would be landed here except as a result of the gravest developments.

No resentment toward Washington is expressed or hinted at by Cuban officials, though regret is general that it has been thought necessary to send vessels here.

American sentiment is divided on the subject. Many Americans of large means, who have important interests here, express fear regarding the effect of such action on the part of the United States when, they say, there is no cause. They fear the effect may be that when the United States finds it acted on false alarms it will not send ships another time when they are really needed.

Other Americans, some with property interests, but the majority having nothing to lose but everything to gain by intervention or annexation, applaud the sending of the ships.

Gomez "Resignation" a Yarn.

Cabled reports received in Havana this afternoon stated that it was reported in Washington that President Gomez intended to resign because of the threatened interference of the United States. THE TIMES correspondent asked President Gomez about this, with a view to ending false impressions regarding the sending of warships. Secretary Remirez gave the following statement:

"I suppose that the authorities at Washington must have laughed at the news referring to the resignation of President Gomez. There is no reason for any such thing. The American warships have come here on account of information which has been exaggerated in every way. There have occurred in Havana disturbances such as occur with more or less frequency and much more seriousness in other places. Only a little while ago strikers in the United States committed greater disorder of longer duration.

"President Gomez was elected by the people of Cuba, and he has great duties to perform, and he is performing them, and he will know how to comply with those duties, no matter what danger he will be obliged to run. I can assure you that the idea of resigning has not even crossed the mind of the President.

"The warships of the United States have come here to a friendly Nation, and as friends they are received. It is only to be lamented that their presence is due to false alarms."

Newspaper Blames Gomez.

Few papers have yet commented editorially regarding the coming of the warships. La Prensa (Cuban) to-night lays blame on President Gomez on account of his recent proclamation calling citizens to arms, and holds that this caused the feeling that led to Saturday's disorders. It continues:

"The ordering of two American battleships to Havana is unfortunately due to the disorder of Saturday. Let us do what we can to confine their action to merely being present."

The Post (American) will say tomorrow:

"The attitude of the Washington authorities regarding Cuba is so much at variance with the actual situation here, as far as our information indicates, that we are at a loss to find an adequate explanation. We do not like to believe that the United States representatives have misstated facts or that they have been misled by alarmists who may or may not have been swayed by an ulterior motive. Nor do we care to believe that the fear of what might happen rather than what has actually taken place has been the theme of Washington dispatches."

After a long review of the situation in the field, it continues:

"Washington dispatches indicate that President Taft is hesitating on the verge of declaring for a third intervention because of a negro uprising. In perfect fairness to all the elements involved, we are bound to declare that the uprising does not justify an intervention nor hardly the presence of American ships or forces, unless perhaps they may have a good moral effect."

Secretary Laredo Bru of the Department of Government said to-night:

"The arrival at the Port of Havana of a number of warships of the United States has only been due to a desire to inspire confidence in some of the citizens of that nation who were somewhat alarmed, it appears, by the occurrences of Saturday in this city. Their requests were not compelled by the exigencies of the occasion, because the public authorities were able with little effort to stop the disorders, and they were not repeated.

"The interests of American citizens in Cuba have not suffered appreciable loss, and the Government will not fail to protect them when they require it, nor fail to pay the losses they sustain. The revolution is localized in Oriente, where the Government has accumulated the forces it needs to suppress it in a relatively short time."

Cuban officials are indulging to-night in a little laugh at the expense of Minister Beaupre because it is reported that Rear Admiral Osterhaus, after a ride about the city, wanted to know where the disorders were.

Gen. Monteagudo, commanding in the field, refused to-day the offer of eGn. Menocal of 3,000 volunteers, asserting that he had sufficient forces to put down the uprising.

APATHY AS WARSHIPS ARRIVE.

Few Spectators on the Wharves and City Is Tranquil.

HAVANA, June 10.—Hardly a visible ripple of popular interest marked the arrivel soon after noon to-day of the United States armored cruiser Washington, flagship of Rear Admiral Osterhaus, and the battleship Rhode Island, although they are supposed to be freighted with weighty influences on the fate of the Cuban Republic. Behind this apparent apathy, however, was a popular impression that the coming of the ships portended American intervention, but this feeling is not shared by officials.

Hardly twoscore of loungers gathered on the Malecon witnessed the arrival of the ships, which continued up the harbor, anchoring near the Cuban cruisers Cuba and Patria. Both American ships had the crews and marines paraded on deck, standing at attention during the salute. Afterward pratique was given by the health officer, which was the only Cuban official recognition, except a visit to the flagship of a representative from the Captain of the Port.

Rear Admiral Osterhaus and staff came ashore at Caballeria wharf without ceremony, took cabs, and proceeded to the American Legation to visit Arthur M. Beaupre, the Minister. Later Mr. Beaupre, accompanied by Hugh S. Gibson and Edward Bell, Secretaries of the Legation, visited the Washington.

The American Minister this morning officially notified the Cuban Government that the ships were coming, but did not state the object of their visit. He arranged for a visit of the Admiral to Secretary Sanguilly, which will be paid tomorrow. The Admiral will then proceed to the palace to pay his respects to President Gomez. Admiral Osterhaus remained aboard the flagship to-night. Shore leave was granted to a few officers only.

Officials unanimously scout the idea of intervention, regarding the sending of the warships as a friendly act on the part of the United States. They say they deplore that Washingtont has been misled by exaggerated reports into the belief that a racial war is about to begin and assert that the rioting Saturday night was not significant of race hatred. They do not explain the reason for the extensive military preparations which were taken to prevent a breach of the peace last night.

Absolute tranquillity prevailed in Havana to-day. The streets are guarded by strong detachments of police and mounted rurales, armed with carbines, revolvers and machetes. The presence of the American warships is regarded as an effectual deterrent to disorder, but the Government is not neglecting any precautions.

SANTIAGO, June 10.—One hundred marines have beer ordered to proceed to San Luis, an important junction of the Cuba Railroad and the Guantanamo & Western, within the lines of the Governmental forces.

A company of marines, commanded by Capt. Edward B. Manwaring, guarding El Cuero mines, was attacked at 1 o'clock this morning by insurgents, who were repulsed after considerable firing. There were no casualties among the marines, and the loss of the insurgents is unknown.

TALK OF WOOD AS MEDIATOR.

Secretary Knox Reassures Ferrara as to Intervention.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—This was a day of peace in all the departments concerned with Cuban affairs. Official dispatches indicated that there has been some exaggeration of the disturbances of the past two days, and where burnings and robberies were said to have occurred later reports described quiet and order.

Señor Orestes Ferrara, Speaker of the Cuban House of Representatives, accompanied by Representative Sulzer, Chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, had a long interview with Secretary Knox. Señor Ferrara told of the extent and causes of the present outbreak, and declared his Government was amply able to suppress the lawless bands of negroes. He asked, however, that there should be fair play and reason in the premises, as no similar outbreak anywhere could be put down in four or five days in such a wild district as Oriente Province. He also urged hesitation to accept all the reports of lawlessness and the inability of the Cuban Government to deal with the situation.

Mr. Knox assured his visitor that the action in sending warships to Havana was not opposed to the policy of non-intervention to which the Administration was committed. He said the vessels were sent because there was need of some refuge for Americans, who might feel insecure if disturbances should occur.

Secretary Stimson, duscussing to-day the idea of mediation, said that when he was in Cuba last year he everywhere found the name of Gen. Wood was held in high esteem and prominent citizens repeatedly told him that the people of Cuba would always remember with gratitude Gen. Wood's administration following the war for independence.

Prominent army officers here to-day said they believed that Gen. Wood could go to Cuba and settle the trouble without the use of a soldier. Gen. Crowder is under cosideration for the errand because he is acquainted with later conditions in the island, having been a member of the Magoon administration. Gen. Crowder has a profound knowledge of Cuban law, having codified the existing laws.

TO DRAIN OLD ST. CLEMENT.

Solemnity Marks the Beginning of Work at Rome.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

ROME, June 10.—Solemn exercises marked the inauguration to-day of the monumental work of drainage for the basilica of St. Clement. Those present included the American Ambassador, Mr. O'Brien; Mgr. Stanley, Bishop of Emaus; Mgr. Tampieri, official Secretary of State of the Vatican, and two Engineers, Mills and Leonori. Unfortunately Father Louis Nolan, the Irish Dominican, who has taken particular interest in the work, was unable to assist, owing to illness.

Work will be begun immediately from the lowest end at the foot of the Coliseum, and will be continued constantly day and night.

Cardinal O'Connell of Boston is paying the expense of the work, which is designed to draw off the water that gathers under the basilica.

National Company Wants Damages from the British Post Office.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 10.—The National Telephone Company's claim of $10,000,000 from the Postmaster General, whose department has taken over the company's plant and business, came up for a hearing before Justice Lawrence and his colleagues of the Railway and Canal Commission in the King's Bench Court to-day.

Sir Alfred Cripps, leading counsel for the telephone company, said it was the largest claim ever dealt with by an arbitration court.

A brilliant array of counsel on each side are appearing, and the case will probably occupy between 50 and 100 sessions.

WOMAN ADMITS SHOPLIFTING.

Mrs. Rowe, Wife of Jersey City Real Estate Man, Won't Explain.

Mrs. Christine M. Rowe, 54 years old, of 551 Bramhall Avenue, Jersey City, pleaded guilty before Magistrate Krotel yesterday in the Yorkville Police Court to a charge of shoplifting. The prisoner had the appearance of a respectable matron, and the Magistrate tried gently but in vain to get some explanation from the sobbing woman as to the reason for her act.

Nettie Cinnamon, a detective employed in a Third Avenue store, said she had seen the prisoner, who was fashionably attired, take some underwear valued at fifty cents, a pair of cheap gloves, and an imitation leather handbag worth $2 from different counters. The detective followed her to the street and arrested her. She carried a bank book showing deposits amounting to $6,000.

After she had been held in $300 bail for trial it came out that she was the wife of Garvin Rowe, a real estate broker, and had considerable property in her own right.

A New Novel by the Author of
THE INNER SHRINE
THE STREET CALLED STRAIGHT

THE third success now crowns this fascinating novel—an enthusiastic welcome from readers and critics. Its first success—serially in Harper's Magazine—brought forth an unusual amount of comment. The second was an advance sale eclipsing even the great "The Inner Shrine," or "The Wild Olive." Now, the readers of the book find that its uncommon literary and romantic story make it more than a serial—more than a readable novel. One critic, in fact, goes so far as to say that it "will be the leading summer novel without question." Judging from present indications, it is quite safe to predict that THE STREET CALLED STRAIGHT will be on the tip of every tongue before the summer has fairly begun.

The GIMBEL Freezing Vault
Is New York's Finest and Most Perfect
SUMMER HOME for Your FURS

The Moths are Flying Thick Right Now. Their work of destruction is going on in thousands of homes. Your Furs should be sent to a place of protection AT ONCE.

The Gimbel freezing room for Fur Storage is one of the most modernly appointed vaults in New York City, devoted exclusively to the proper keeping of furs during the Summer.

The cold storage system is the only perfect preventive of the destructive work of the moths. While it conserves the natural oils of the pelt it vastly improves the brilliancy of the fur, bringing back the original luster of life which dressed skins so often lose after a period of wear.

Each garment when received is ticketed, numbered and registered, closely examined and then hung in our freezing room where the frigid air circulates freely around each garment.

We accept all responsibility against damage by moths, fire or burglary.

The garments are always ready for immediate use. If you wish to use a wrap or coat for a single day or night, or to take away to the mountains on a special trip, it can be gotten at once and returned to storage after the special occasion is over. This can be repeated as often as the owner desires during the storage season, without any extra cost.

The Best Possible Service at Moderate Charges.

Visitors are invited to go through our Cold Storage Vault at their convenience and see for themselves just how fine are all its appointments and how perfect is the Gimbel system of cold storage. Telephone Madison Square 8200, and we will call for your furs immediately.

Our Fur Workroom is equipped with the latest devices for making to order new Fur Garments copied from best foreign models, also for making Repairs and Remodeling at special Summer prices.

CHANGED ESTATE ACCOUNTS.

Surrogate Fowler Lectures Man Who Did It and Disallows Charges.

Surrogate Fowler granted yesterday the application of Mrs. Mary Childs Lewis, widow of Henry A. Childs, the tobacco merchant, to strike $75 from the accounting of Mrs. Harry D. Kingsbury, executrix of the estate. Mrs. Kingsbury was a daughter of Mr. Childs. Thirty-five dollars of the amount stricken from the account was a payment to George D. Graves, an attorney, for services in the guardianship of Helen Kingsbury, daughter of the executrix. It was discovered by Henry Seagrist, attorney for the widow, that the statement of what this money had been paid for had been erased from the accounting after its submission.

Mr. Kingsbury admitted yesterday to Surrogate Fowler that he had made the erasure. The matter was first called to the attention of the Surrogate last week, at which time he said that tampering with accountings filed in his court would not be tolerated. He summoned Mr. Kingsbury to make explanation yesterday. Mr. Kingsbury stated that he believed he had the right to amend the accounting, since he had been authorized by his wife to act for her, and that no harm had been done, since part of Mr. Graves's services had been toward the estate of Mr. Childs, and the guardian services were related.

Surrogate Fowler cautioned hi mto be more careful in the future, and ruled that the attorney's fee was an improper charge. He also disallowed $40 more of charges.

SUES MEN FOR SUING HIM.

Their Bankruptcy Petition, Kassel Says, Cost Him a Valuable Equity.

Alleging that he lost his equity in valuable real estate because unfounded bankruptcy proceedings were begun against him, Abraham Kassel, a wholesale poultry dealer and real estate operator, began suit for $500,000 yesterday in the Supreme Court against those who signed the petition to throw him into bankruptcy. The signers of this petition, named as defendants in Kassel's suit, are Benjamin Kassewitz, Jesse Jedel, Louis Lass, the Germania Exchange Bank, and the German Bank.

The bankruptcy proceedings were begun a year ago and were dismissed after Special Master Peter B. Olney had investigated Kassel's affairs. Olney's report that the petition against Kassel was unfounded was upheld in the United States District Court and the Circuit Court of Appeals.

BRANDT'S FINAL PLEA IN COURT OF APPEALS

Mirabeau Towns Urges Lack of Jurisdiction in Effort to Free Schiff Burglar.

DEFENDS GERARD DECISION

Attorney General Rests Case on Unanimous Action of Appellate Division Recommitting the Prisoner.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 10.—The Court of Appeals heard arguments to-day on the appeal of Foulke E. Brandt, former valet to Mortimer L. Schiff, from a unanimous decision of the Appellate Division, First Department, ordering his return to Clinton prison at Dannemora.

A decision may be given before the court takes its Summer recess on June 28.

Mirabeau L. Towns, counsel for Brandt, contended that through ignorance his client pleaded guilty to a technical charge of burglary and is denied his day in court because the time in which he could take an appeal had elapsed. He argued that Justice Rosalsky, who sentenced Brandt to serve 30 years in prison was without jurisdiction to impose such a judgment. He also contended that there was no legal appeal from the decision of Justice Gerard, granting the writ of habeas corpus through which Brandt obtained his temporary freedom.

"There is no atmosphere of criminality in this case," said Mr. Towns. "The evidence shows that on the night of the alleged burglary, Brandt sat alongside the master of the house, Mr. Schiff, one of the wealthiest men in the world, and that Mr. Schiff escorted him to the door of his home."

"With such incidents presenting themselves can one seriously urge for a minute that the plea was voluntary and wholly uninfluenced by the flattery of hope or by the impression of fear?"

In his second point Mr. Towns held that the judgment was based on the further erroneous conclusion that even if Judge Rosalsky was without jurisdiction to pronounce judgment, on review that point could not be reviewed by habeas corpus.

"The lack of jurisdiction rendering a judgment null and void is reviewable by writ of habeas corpus," he declared, and gave a long list of citations in support of his contention.

The third point was "that no appeal lies by the people from an order of final discharge upon a writ of habeas corpus from imprisonment by virtue of a judgment conviction." That Justice Gerard having granted the writ, his decision absolutely discharging Brandt from the judgment and sentence was final.

Judge Joseph A. Kellogg, Deputy Attorney General, arguing in support of the order of the Appellate Division, stated that the sole inquiry under a writ of habeas corpus is into the jurisdiction of the court issuing the process under which the prisoner is detained in custody, and held that if the court had no jurisdiction it matters not how erroneous its proceedings may have been, and jurisdiction once being established, there can be no inquiry into the manner of its exercise.

The Attorney General then cited a number of leading cases showing that the grossest errors do not affect jurisdiction and held that the plea of guilty was equivalent to a verdict of guilty. The Attorney General said that to permit an inquiry into the question "would extend the time to appeal in criminal cases indefinitely, and it would mean that the courts would be called upon over and over again to hold sessions of general jail delivery under this writ and would permit a Judge at chambers to annul for supposed errors a judgment of a coordinate tribunal.

Howard S. Gans, counsel for Mr. Schiff, asked permission to file an affidavit in answer to one made by Carl Fischer Hansen, who represented Brandt at the time he was sentenced, and which is a part of the record in the case. He said certain statements in the Hansen affidavit reflected upon his professional integrity. The court took the request under consideration.

FIGHT POLICE IN MEAT RIOTS.

Women Boycotters of Williamsburg Engaged in Skirmishes.

In the congested section of the Stagg Street and Vernon Avenue police precincts in Williamsburg yesterday, there were several skirmishes between the women who are boycotting the butchers in the hope of getting lower prices, and policemen who were sent out to protect the shops. Nearly all the small dealers shut up shop, afraid of violence at the hands of the angry women, or of having their stock destroyed with oil. The women didn't assemble until the children had been sent to school. Then the boycotters gathered at Manhattan Avenue and Seigel Street and began to parade. In Boerum Street, near Graham Avenue, they snatched from a woman a bag containing meat and soaked it with kerosene. A fight which followed was stopped by the police.

The boycotters went to the big market of Abraham Hartman, 53-55 Moore Street, and after attempting to drive out the women customers, tried to use oil, but the timely appearance of the police prevented it. The police had to fight hard to drive the women into the street.

The explosion of a charge of flashlight powder by a newspaper photographer stampeded an anti-meat mass meeting at Graham Avenue and Moore Street, Williamsburg, last night. The crowd of 2,000 persons fled wildly, trampling the fallen. The most seriously injured was Abraham Korniloff, seven years old, of 100 Moore Street. Dr. Weinberg, of St. Catherine's Hospital, who treated his injuries, found that the lad had scalp wounds and internal injuries, and might die. The meeting was under the auspices of the Housewives League of Manhattan. Mrs. Dora Hopkins, of 84 Hopkins Street, Williamsburg, presided. The flashlight was set off as Mrs. Becky Flecker was admonishing the crowd to fry fish, boil vegetables and drink milk during the Summer.

GIFTS TO PHILLIPS FUND.

Wireless Operators Send In Subscriptions from Passengers.

The fund for the erection of a tablet to the memory of Jack Phillips, of the Titanic, and other wireless operators who lost their lives in the performance of duty, and to establish a permanent fund for the benefit of disabled operators or their families, is steadily increasing through the work of the men on the coastwise ships.

Contributions sent in yesterday to C. C. Galbraith, Chairman of the Committee of the Phillips Fund at 42 Broadway, amounted to $30.65, which was contributed by the crews of the Old Dominion, Savannah Line, Quebec Steamship Company, and J. B. Tattersall, publisher of The Telegraph and Telephone Age.

With the $30.65 added, the total subscribed so far amounts to $1,912.55, and the committee hopes to bring it up to $2,000 with to-day's contributions. The names of yesterday's donors were:

SIX OPEN-STOCK PATTERNS OF SCHWARZBURG CHINA MADE IN MACY'S OWN GERMAN POTTERY REDUCED 25% FROM MACY'S LOWEST-IN-THE-CITY PRICES

Why buy odds and ends when you can get the finest quality china in open-stock patterns at these prices?

This is New York's headquarters for Open-stock Dinner China. Coming directly from our own famous factory abroad, our China is sold regularly far under the prices of equal qualities in other stores.

Broken pieces can be replaced immediately from our stock.

We introduced open-stock china into America, and we still offer the largest choice of patterns of any store in New York. We now carry 157 open-stock patterns. You can replenish any open-stock set as breakage or greater needs make necessary.

Many noted English makers are also represented in our assortments, five being from Wedgwood.

One of these Wedgwood sets, with a neat gold acid-etched border, is priced at $229.00 for a hundred pieces. Such a set would be priced ½ more in any other store.

But we have splendid open-stock china as low as $19.75 for a green floral spray design with gold on edge and handles. Basement, 34th St.

ON LOCAL TENNIS COURTS.

Women made their appearance in the Eastern New York State lawn tennis championship tournament yesterday on the courts of the County Tennis Club of Westchester at Hartsdale, N. Y. Miss Gertrude Della Torre of the West Side Club, playing a slashing game, defeated Miss Adele C. Cragin by the score of 6—1, 6—1. Then Mrs. Dudley J. Britton of the Bronxville Athletic Association placed her driving shots so swiftly and accurately through the court of Mrs. George Degersdorf that she scored the match at 6—1, 6—3.

All of the contests in the third round of the men's cup singles went in straight sets. The most spectacular was that in which Wylie C. Grant, the National indoor champion, defeated Ralph L. Baggs at 9—7, 6—2. The summary:

CHANGE IN YALE BOAT.

Bugbee Displaced by Freeman at No. 2 Oar in 'Varsity Shell.

GALES FERRY, Conn., June 10.—There was another shakeup in the Yale 'Varsity eight to-day when the coaches sent Freeman in to row at No. 2, displacing Bugbee who was sent to the four-oar shell. The 'Varsity went down stream to the three and a half mile mark to-night in easy stretches and then rowed back the entire stretch at a fast clip. The stroke sometimes was as high as thirty a minute.

The arrival of Thorne, who has been conditioned in studies, was hailed with delight by the freshman oarsmen to-day. It is believed he will materially strengthen the freshman boat if he can get into condition in time.

The freshmen expect their new shell tomorrow, to supplant the present English shell which was first used by the 1909 'Varsity crew.

Mike Gibbons Easily Beats Connors.

While Mike Gibbons at the Irving A. C. last night was not disposed to give way to Tommy Connors in their ten-round bout, he however was not compelled to draw very much on his greater cleverness to win. Both boys weighed in at 149 pounds and appeared nearly equal in physique. It was all Gibbons's way for the first seven rounds on account of his alertness and experience. During none of the first nine rounds did Gibbons appear to really try. At times he contented himself by outpointing his opponent, but he never put real power in his blows until the tenth round. All the old Gibbons tricks were displayed and he disconcerted Connors, who stuck gamely to his job, though he did no damage. In the last round Gibbons cut loose and, with right and left, made Connors totter. The only round that could by any means be given to Connors was the eighth, in which he showed up to better advantage than at any other time in the bout.

Brooklyn Boy Andover Captain.

ANDOVER, Mass., June 10.—Paul S. Crary, '13, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was elected Captain of the Phillips-Andover Academy track team at a meeting to-day. He is 19 years old, and has been a sprinter on the team for the past two seasons. He is preparing for Yale.

CORNELL CREWS JOIN COLUMBIA ON HUDSON

Coaches Courtney and Rice Praise Each Other's Oarsmen's Work at Poughkeepsie.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 10.—The Columbia University oarsmen, who have been practicing alone on the river opposite this city for a week in preparation for the Intercollegiate Regatta on June 29, were joined to-day by the Cornell 'Varsity eight and four. The freshmen will remain at Ithaca until Wednesday in order to stand their examinations.

The Columbia and Cornell crews had practice sessions this morning and evening. There was a hearty exchange of salutations between the several boats.

Coach Courtney said that the Columbia crew looked very good to him, and James Rice, Columbia coach, spoke in the same vein of Cornell. These two crews rowed a stirring contest for the four miles last year, and their work to-day made them look about on even terms. In Courtney's opinion the season has been so backward that all the three weeks available will be needed to get the crews fit for the regatta.

Germans in Football Game.

Although the football season has been closed for some time, lovers of the sport may see a game this afternoon at Macomb's Dam Park between two German teams. The contestants will be a picked eleven from the German warship Moltke, which is now anchored in the Hudson River, and the German Football Club of New York. The game will start at 4 o'clock.

ENGLISH BOWLING STRONG.

South Africans Dismissed for 58 Runs in Test Cricket Match.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 10.—England and South Africa began the second of the triangular test cricket matches to-day. Australia won the first from the South Africans, and, as a comparative estimate of Australia and England, the present match is being watched with interest, as the third match will bring these two teams together.

South Africa started the batting, but could make no headway against the bowling of Foster and Barnes. Wickets fell rapidly, and the Colonials were all dismissed in their first innings for 58 runs. Foster and Barnes each captured five wickets.

Rubinstein Chess Tourney Winner.

BUDAPEST, June 10.—After fifteen of the seventeen rounds of the international chess masters' tournament at Poestyen have been played, A. M. Rubinstein, Russia's champion, is sure of the first prize, even should he lose both of the remaining games he is scheduled to play. With victories over Cohn and Johner in the fourteenth and fifteenth rounds, the famous master increased his total to 13 points, three better than that of Spielmann, who is in second place. Spielmann is closely pressed by Marshall, the United States champion, and Duras of Prague, who are tied at 9½ to 5½, with Schlechter fourth, at 9 to 6. Marshall won from Hromadka in the fourteenth round, and drew against Schlechter in the fifteenth. He has yet to meet Rubinstein and Spielmann before his final place may be ascertained.

NEW YORK, TUESDAY, JUNE 11, 1912.

THE BEAST OF EPHESUS.

The Canadian Anti-Reciprocity League properly denounces "the beast of Ephesus," meaning, as the context shows, the proposal partly to remove the restrictions upon trade between Canada and the United States by mutual agreement. The report of the House Ways and Means Committee on the same subject presents the other view of reciprocity. The two documents together are halves of the whole reciprocity issue, which is the livest corpse in Dominion politics, according to the language of the Canadian League's officials. They declare that reciprocity requires more killing, and that those who are unalterably resolved that Canadians shall not buy cheap things from American sellers, and shall not sell cheaply to Americans, must be ready for another campaign at any moment. To this the House committee agrees, from the exactly opposite point of view. The House committee of which Mr. UNDERWOOD is Chairman is as glad over finding an issue as the Canadians are distressed over having the same issue forced upon them. The Canadian opponents of reciprocity naturally are reluctant to have to fight again the battle for dearer necessities of life, which cannot be won again on the false cry of disloyalty to England. And the American friends of reciprocity are aggressive in support of the idea that it is good politics to reduce the cost of living. In the words of Chairman UNDERWOOD:

> Your committee feels now, as it did when this measure was under consideration in Congress last year, that it marks the end of an era in the economic life of the nation, because it takes one step in the right direction—a step away from the exclusive protection policy, a step toward an honest competitive policy. The measure embraces in its terms competitive products of both nations and recognizes the Democratic position that no tariff law is ever warranted or just that protects the profits of the producer and destroys honest competition.

There can be little doubt that this issue must play a part at both the National Conventions. The Republicans must point with pride to the position the party took in moving to annul reciprocity, and thus maintain the prices of foodstuffs which the Canadians want to sell us. The Democrats, on the other hand, can find ammunition in their successful passage of the reciprocity agreement, with the assistance of President TAFT, to be sure, who perceives better than his party, or his assailants within his party, what is necessary to prevent this being a Democratic year.

The feud within the Republican Party is matched by the division of councils in the Canadian party in control of legislation. They have succeeded in killing reciprocity, and are amazed at the discovery that they committed suicide thereby. Casting about for some way of sharing the popularity resulting from the cheap goods movement, they have halved the duty on imports of cement. Cement imported from the United States, beginning to-morrow, and until Oct. 31, will pay 26 cents a barrel instead of 52 cents. The British preference is similarly reduced, to 17 cents. The reduction on the United States product is the larger, and is increased by the time and cost of freight. The reason for the reduction is that building is so active in Canada that Canadian cementmakers cannot supply the demand, and Canadian railways cannot supply the cars to carry it. This is especially true of Saskatchewan and the other western provinces whose demand for reciprocity caused LAURIER to supply it, and is now causing his successor to supply a half loaf, and to do it over night. It was a hurry call, for the elections are going against him fast, and it was necessary to do something quick. It is better to do this than to commit happy dispatch, but it leaves in a desperate plight those supporters of his who denounce "the beast of Ephesus." How can they possibly denounce with success a proposal to give other cheap things than cement, and also to allow the cars which bring the cement to go back loaded with the foodstuffs which Canadian railways cannot carry, and which rot in the fields where they grow?

Their dilemma is the same as that of our Republicans, who, by proposing the repeal of reciprocity, put themselves on the record in favor of dear food, and make a present of the issue to the Democrats. The Republicans thought there was another campaign in the tariff, and they misused their victory to raise the rates. There is still one more campaign in the tariff, and it will be used to complete the work ordered by the electorate in the mandate which the Republicans canceled. Whatever the terrors of unlimited tariff revision, there are none in an agreement so carefully considered and restricted as the Canadian reciprocity bargain. That it will play an increasing part in the coming campaign is made clear by the report of Mr. UNDERWOOD's committee.

NO NEW PARK BUILDING.

A public hearing of all who oppose the rebuilding of Lenox Library in Central Park cannot be avoided. The decision of the Municipal Art Commission, which, is to be made to-day, will not be final. The plan suggested by Mr. FRICK and approved by the Park Commissioner cannot be carried out without the consent of the Municipal Art Commission. It cannot be carried out with the Commission's consent in defiance of the people's will. Public opinion in this city is strongly opposed to all building operations in Central Park.

Hearings must be granted, therefore, to the representatives of the people who oppose the Frick-Stover scheme. It might be a good plan to call a mass meeting to protest against this latest plan of Park invasion. If it is possible at this time of year to get a fair representation of the multitudes who believe Central Park should be preserved as a garden spot free of buildings, and to secure a definite and vigorous expression of that view, such a meeting would have a lasting effect. But whether or not there is a mass meeting, the latest plan of Park invasion will be vigorously fought and defeated.

TO BRING OUT THE TRUTH.

In his letter to Mr. VANDERLIP, SAMUEL UNTERMYER, counsel of Mr. PUJO's Congressional Committee, says that "the committee is above all things "anxious, in the performance of the "legitimate functions of the inquiry, "to elicit the truth, and will gladly "welcome the testimony of every one "who can contribute to that result."

That is precisely the committee's function—to elicit the truth. There could be no greater mistake than to assume that the inquiry into the Money Trust will be successful in proportion to the badness of the conditions it discloses. It would be a most serious mistake, too, to assume that the counsel of the committee is a public prosecutor, whose chief joy it should be to convict the Clearing House or any banker of high crimes and misdemeanors. The inquiries of the committee can have but one legitimate purpose, to ascertain facts that, when properly presented in a report, will serve as the basis of remedial legislation, if such legislation is called for. That end will be best served by bringing out the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

Mr. UNTERMYER further says that the committee desires "that the in-"quiry shall be judicial and impartial "in the last degree, and that no injus-"tice shall be done." Impartiality and the avoidance of injustice are essential. To that end it is of the first necessity that ex parte statements shall not be hastily accepted as the final truth. For instance, testimony was taken last week as to the closing of the Oriental Bank. It was the testimony of witnesses upon one side only. The report of that day's proceedings appeared in an entirely reputable newspaper in a neighboring city under these headlines: "Solvent Banks Ruined, Forced "to Wall by New York Clearing "House, Alleged." That sort of thing gives the greatest aid and comfort to the enemies of sound banking, to those who would destroy the banks and have the Government print all the paper money the country needs, to those who believe that Wall Street is a den of demons, and preach that belief in muckraking publications. It is not believed by candid men that the Clearing House closes solvent banks merely to get them out of the way. Banks are organized to make money, and they make most money when business is active. The closing of banks chills business and tends to stagnation. And, in fact, the story of the closing of the Oriental Bank, as told to the committee, was promptly traversed by a very different recital, which Mr. UNTERMYER, in his purpose to elicit the truth, tells Mr. VANDERLIP that he should like to have presented before the committee. It is of importance not merely that the committee shall be impartial, but that its proceedings should be ordered in such a way as to avoid giving erroneous impressions which may do harm in the few days that elapse before they are corrected.

The testimony elicited as to charges for check collections ought to be salutary. THE TIMES has always considered the imposing of this charge a mistaken policy. At any rate, the matter is not one for Clearing House agreement, under regulations establishing uniformity; it would more wisely be left to the discretion of individual banks. Nobody supposes that the $17,000,000, more or less, received in the form of collection charges is a net gain for the Clearing House banks. The aggregate cost of the service is, of course, a large offset as Mr. VANDERLIP shows in his illuminating reply to Mr. UNTERMYER's letter. But it is a serious question whether the policy of making collection charges is not in the long run a mistake. It has been much complained of, and the tendency naturally is to transfer a good many large accounts to other cities. However that may be, the matter is one that seems to fall outside the province of the Clearing House. The Clearing House is for clearings. The less it attempts to go outside that field, the better.

THE FIFTH OLYMPIC GAMES.

The American contestants in the fourth Olympic Games held in London in 1908 won nine of the field events, the Britishers only two. In the third Olympiad at St. Louis in 1904 the American athletes won all of the track and field events, except the throwing of the fifty-six-pound weight and lifting the bar. Eighteen of the twenty-four championship contests at Paris in June, 1900, fell to the victorious Americans, and the nine men sent from the United States to Athens at the first revival of the ancient games in 1896 won every event for which they were entered. In the intercalary games at Athens in 1906, the Americans won 75 prizes, the British 39, and the Swedes and Greeks 28 each. Shall the American records at the fifth Olympic Games, to be held this Summer at Stockholm, fail simply from lack of money?

The ancient Olympic contests did not lack wealthy patrons. In the American democracy men of wealth and citizens of lesser means, but public spirited, abound. Here, too, are many athletes. It needs only that the wants of the American delegation to Stockholm be fully understood to assure the sending of a full quota, with the expenses of the expedition paid. President TAFT has appointed Mr. JAMES E. SULLIVAN, who was physical director of the successful games at St. Louis in 1904, as American Commissioner to the international contest at Stockholm. Col. ROBERT M. THOMPSON, President of the American Olympic Committee, has given his financial support to the undertaking. But the "second string" and "third string" men have not yet been provided for. Hitherto fully half of the men who have voyaged and journeyed to Olympic Games have "gone bad"; the travel and climate have kept them from competing, and often men, like PILGRIM, who were not champions, have saved the day for the American contestants. In all $115,000 is needed, and but $90,000 has thus far been received by the committee, leaving a deficit of $25,000. Checks in support of the American team should be sent payable to JULIAN W. CURTISS, Treasurer of the Olympic Committee, or to JAMES E. SULLIVAN, Secretary, 21 Warren Street, this city.

THE TRUST COMPANY OF AMERICA STORY.

So long as the Trust Company of America continued in business and was striving with encouraging success to repair the disasters which befell it in the panic of 1907, THE TIMES passed by in silence without comment or denial published statements, often repeated, which pointed to a certain news article published in THE TIMES of Oct. 23, 1907, as the cause and beginning of that trust company's troubles. In testimony upon the witness stand and in the columns of our New York contemporaries this view of the matter has often been presented. In one New York morning newspaper the relation of THE TIMES to the run upon the Trust Company of America was very fully set forth some months ago, while its own publication of an article substantially identical with that which appeared in THE TIMES was conveniently glossed over. One of our evening contemporaries, in its financial column, has often and, as it were, habitually sought to fix responsibility for the run upon the Trust Company of America on THE TIMES. Inasmuch as during the years when this falsehood has been kept alive the Trust Company of America was making hopeful progress in the mending of its fortunes, it seemed to THE TIMES that it would be the part of magnanimity not to make any statements that might call for or provoke a diligent re-examination of the real causes that led to the troubles of that institution. The Trust Company of America having been absorbed by another company, and Mr. OAKLEIGH THORNE's testimony in the Steel suit yesterday furnishing the occasion, it is now proper that an end should be made of these perversions of fact.

Mr. THORNE testified yesterday to this effect: "I believe this run was "largely attributable to that article in "THE NEW YORK TIMES." The article to which Mr. THORNE refers was a statement issued at the conclusion of a conference of bankers on the evening of Oct. 22, 1907, at which it was arranged that assistance should be extended to the Trust Company of America. In our news columns this morning we present the record evidence showing that this statement was published substantially in the form in which it appeared in THE TIMES, in The World, The Tribune, The Press, The Sun, The Herald, and The Journal of Commerce. Why, of the seven newspapers which published the statement, THE TIMES has been singled out to bear the brunt of the offending, if offending there was, is a question which must be left to the judgment of a candid world.

That is not all. The troubles of the Trust Company of America did not begin on Oct. 23, the date on which the bankers' statement was published in THE TIMES and in six other newspapers. On that very day The Tribune, The Press, and The Sun in their news accounts of the trouble in the Street told of a run upon the Trust Company of America beginning the day before, Oct. 22. In some of these accounts it was said that $4,000,000 had been withdrawn, in others the sum was put at $3,000,000. Nor is this all. On the morning of Oct. 24 The Sun published an interview with a Director of the Trust Company of America, given on Oct. 23, in which he said: "We knew "when we went to bed last night that "almost as sure as shooting there would "be a run in the morning." The "last night" of this statement referred to the night of Oct. 22, before the publication of the bankers' statement in THE TIMES and six other newspapers. Not only had the run begun on Oct. 22, but the officers of the company felt certain that it would be continued the next day.

We think we may leave this matter here, firm in the conviction that any attempt in future to attribute the troubles of the Trust Company of America solely or chiefly to any publication of THE TIMES of Oct. 23, or of any other date, may with entire justice and propriety be put into the category of falsehoods uttered with wicked intent to deceive.

SIGNS OF MADERO'S TRIUMPH.

The recent triumphs of the Federal troops in Chihuahua and near Torreon, Coahuila, and the obvious waning of the influence of OROZCO in the north, have had a good effect on business in Mexico. The merchants are beginning to realize that the unsettled conditions in various States are the inevitable outcome of such a spontaneous uprising as MADERO's, which, in less than a year, completely overthrew a system which had been maintained for a full generation. President MADERO was elected to support the Constitution by every means at his command, and he has been true to his oath. But some years will be required for the people of Mexico, especially the inhabitants of the States remote from the capital, to comprehend the situation, to learn to adapt themselves to self-government, of which, as yet, they have a distorted idea.

To thousands of the Mexican Indians the downfall of DIAZ and the Cientificos, who had enforced order by main strength, ignoring the provisions of the Constitution, meant license to help themselves to what they wanted. Their lawlessness and depredations could be checked quickly only by a return to Diaz methods, by substituting another armed autocracy for his. But MADERO has stood by the Constitution, and the merchants and manufacturers are beginning to see that he is right, and to feel that his methods will triumph in the end.

Wherefore business in Mexico is setting out to make the best of its plight. Merchants are beginning to "hustle" for what trade there is, apprehension has given place to acceptance of the inevitable, the new volunteers in the military service are men of a higher type than DIAZ used for soldiers, and there is an obvious determination to uphold the Government. This is a good augury for peace and prosperity through many years to come. The first uprising against DIAZ occurred Nov. 1, 1910. We venture to prophesy that two years from that date President MADERO will have reason to feel himself firmly established, and be able to begin carrying out his extensive plans of reform.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Director's Duty to be Saved. A correspondent of The London Times, who was himself on board a steamer as "Director in charge for the "cruise" when, as the result of a collision, the vessel sank in the Channel much more quickly than did the Titanic, tells in striking contrast with the greater accident how in less than nineteen minutes after the ship was struck, thanks to perfect discipline and an adequate supply of boats, every soul on board—in all 320 persons—was safely out of her. While the loading of the boats was in progress this man went to the Captain and asked to remain with him to the last. The request was denied and he was ordered to go where he belonged, with the passengers. Then follows what is, in effect, a defense of Mr. ISMAY, and quite the best one that has yet been made. A Director, according to this authority, has no direct responsibility for the safety of passengers, but an indirect responsibility of the gravest sort makes it the Director's "duty to take the reasonable chance of "safety after giving preference and prece-"dence to all others within sight or call."

> It may involve odium and ignominious accusations of cowardice as the alternative to heroic sacrifice. That is the bitter cost. But his duty is to live to facilitate in every possible way the most searching official inquiry into the loss and the blame, and later, by the knowledge gained through such painful experience, to assist in establishing every possible safeguard for the future. If that is the general duty of a "Director in charge," how much more does it become the duty of a Chairman traveling as a passenger, on whom is laid the stern and sacred charge of drastic initiative, to prevent for all future time, not only needless sacrifice, but needless risk of human life on board his company's ships.

The Times's correspondent thinks that "in supreme moments—worth dying for "or living through—death holds no fear "for men." The absence of the very necessary word "some" from before "men" in this fine sentence makes one view the rest of the letter with some lack of confidence, but its theory as to the duties and responsibilities of a steamship company's Director in case of accident is certainly plausible and probably correct.

Found All Trains on Time! President DAY of the Equitable, just returned from a railway journey of 13,000 miles, taking seven weeks and traversing every part of the United States except New England, makes the astonishing statement that though traveling on a carefully arranged itinerary, he was never delayed more than five minutes, except once in Arkansas, when his train was stopped by the floods.

To anybody who has had much experience with Southern and Western railways, the first and most irresistible impulse, on reading this assertion, is to exclaim that President DAY must be a phenomenally, not to say supernaturally, lucky man. Indeed, after crediting him with all possible good fortune in the catching of trains—and in finding them ready to be caught exactly on schedule time—it is hard to avoid the suspicion that at least a few of the trains he found waiting at stations just when they should be there were really late to the extent of twenty-four hours or some exact multiple of twenty-four. That used to happen now and then, in days far from remote.

To be serious, however, about what is really a serious matter, it is a fact that all through the parts of the country where the relation between railway trains and railway time tables used to be little more than a managerial joke, largely successful efforts have been made of late to do away with the losses and annoyances incidental to constant delays and ever-missed connections. Improved roadbeds and rolling stock have conduced to this highly desirable reform, and now many railways on which it was once almost unknown for a train to be on time anywhere along its route, are sticking to their advertised hours of departure and arrival with commendable pertinacity.

There is even hope that after a while not every Southern train will start from every town on its line at 4:15 A. M. This seems to be part of the "unwritten law" in the South, and in some Northern minds it creates more of sectional bitterness than did the civil war.

Rain and Peace Go Together. In Havana, Sunday evening, there was presented another of history's innumerable illustrations of the fact that men's passions against each other can hardly be raised to the degree of heat and bitterness required for fighting in the rain. It was confidently expected that the new race antagonism which has drawn the color line in Cuba at last would lead to many little conflicts, if not to one big one, that night, but the rain fell with the whole-souled fervor characteristic of tropic showers and nothing happened.

It never does in such circumstances. Men may be perfectly ready to die for a cause, holy or other, they may be ravenously hungry for each other's blood—and incidentally for each other's property, real and personal—but they have an almost unconquerable antipathy for getting wet. They will, indeed, go out on rainy days for the sake of doing business or finding amusement in some dry place, but they want to be careful about it—to carry an umbrella and to step across the deeper puddles. These precautions are incompatible with the desperation of conflict, so the conflict is almost always deferred to a more convenient season when the clouds have rolled by.

A few battles have, indeed, been fought on rainy days, but it was involuntarily—the rain began after the battle did. It is well known, too, that men who would face bullets with indifference, or even gladly, will break ranks and run when a hose is turned on them. They are willing to be killed, if necessary, but they don't want to get wet if they can possibly help it.

Of course, this deep-planted and universal repulsion for rain has an explanation. The explanation probably is immemorial experience of the bad effects on health of exposure to rain—especially in humanity's birthplace, the tropics. This has created an instinct to avoid such exposures when possible. And it is usually possible to put off fighting till another day.

HOEING RHODODENDRONS.

Central Park Plants, Rooting Near the Surface, May Be Injured.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Sage rhododendrons are now being hoed in Central Park. It seems a pity that such a fine gift of Mrs. Sage is so very unjustly treated in the hands of the Park Department. The department, or at least the men employed in it, or those who give orders, ought to know that rhododendrons should not be subjected to being hoed, as it is totally against the nature and habits of these plants.

At present it is the most critical time and no hoe of any kind should be used among or near rhododendrons, as they are now forming their new roots right near the surface, in the mold formed by the decayed leaves thrown in and among them since they were planted. In fact the hoe never should be used on rhododendrons. A mulch or ground cover is all that they desire, and further they ought to be left alone.

Besides this they are now making their new shoots, (growth,) which will give them their flower buds for the next season, and these shoots at present are very weak and soft, and very easily broken off. This naturally, to a great extent, spoils the plants.

If the department had the men engaged in picking off the seed vessels instead of hoeing, there would be at least some signs that they were capable of looking after such a fine plantation. If the ground were kept well mulched with leaves the department would not have to worry about weeds appearing.

New York, June 10, 1912. A CITIZEN.

Barbarous.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You may be quite correct in saying that the majority of the fighting gangsters are not yet pogoniate, but how do you reconcile this with the fact that they are certainly barbarous? What? J. D. B.

Revolt of the Unfit.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why should one change our form of government? Theodore Roosevelt heads the revolt of the unfit. EDMUND C. MARSHALL.

Father Blind, Mother Sole Support.

The father of five little children—a man only 36 years old—has within the last year become totally blind. What he had been able to earn over and above the daily necessities was spent during a fruitless attempt to prevent the loss of his sight. Relatives have been giving the family temporary shelter—all that their resources would allow—and now the wife has found employment. The Charity Organization Society has secured an opportunity for the man to learn a trade by which he can help, as he is eager to do; and until he can have an opportunity to become proficient and test his powers, $20 a month is needed for the rent of their home and other necessities. The society asks for $240 in their behalf.

Gifts may be sent to the office of the society, 105 East Twenty-second Street, and will be acknowledged.

The society acknowledges with thanks the following contributions received in response to previous appeals in THE TIMES:

HARVARD ANGRY AT JOHNSON.

The Lampoon Waxes Warm Over the Yale Man's Criticism.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, June 10.—Owen Johnson and his arraignment of the social system at Harvard has received a severe handling at the hands of The Harvard Lampoon. An editorial says in part:

"Because a man has written a 'best seller' about Yale, exposing the push button and successfully pushing his hero into Skin and Bones, it does not necessarily follow that he can write about the social usurpation of Harvard. We understand that the author of this delightfully disintegrated article graduated from Yale, having barely made Dog's Head his sophomore year because he insisted on being democratic. Doubtless, therefore, he knew whereof he wrote when he threw the limelight on that institution. But a man who happens to be in Cambridge about thirty-five minutes, while waiting for a car, is hardly fitted to write a criticism of Harvard, Radcliffe, the Washington Elm, or anything else in the horizon.

"For thirty-six years Lampy from his tower has watched classes come and go. Has seen men made and unmade; yet, in spite of his long experience, he feels hardly competent to criticise the club system, dormitory system, elective system, or even the group system of Harvard. It amuses him to hear people talk about social usurpation and the rule of Boston and New York society. He has observed that what little one man can do here he does not for the sake of social advancement, or to make a club so that he can wear a striped tie and talk to his admiring relations about it; he does it for Harvard.

"Many men do not get the recognition they deserve, and many do not deserve the recognition they get, but they who stand the test are the fitter for what may follow. A college is not a school for boys. It is a place where men are trained for the world."

KEEPS BEQUEST FOR HARVARD

Mrs. Rotch Decides to Maintain Blue Hill Observatory.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 10.—Harvard University is not to lose the Blue Hill meteorological observatory, Mrs. A. Lawrence Rotch, widow of Prof. Rotch, having announced that she would support the institution.

"My husband wished the observatory to go to Harvard, and I will do everything to see that his plans are carried out," she said to-day. "He left a fund for its support. An additional revenue is necessary. This I will supply and continue to supply as long as I live. At my death the institution will become the property of Harvard."

IF MR. ROOSEVELT WINS

A Bolt from the Republican Ticket Is Advised.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Chicago Convention cannot expect to win the election without indorsing in its platform our present excellent Administration. To indorse the Administration will be a stinging rebuke to Mr. Roosevelt for every speech he has made against the President. The convention cannot expect to win the election if it repudiates the Administration and squarely indorses in the platform Roosevelt's impracticable, wild, and revolutionary schemes. In that event thoughtful Republicans will repudiate Roosevelt and his platform. I see no basis for a straddle in this matter.

Mr. Roosevelt professes to trust the people. I agree with him in this proposition. The American people when appealed to as a mob by a self-seeking agitator are as apt to go wrong as such assemblies have in all nations during all historic time. When appealed to as a jury our people have decided all great questions substantially right. There is my trust in the people. The jury verdict will be rendered on Election Day. If it be said that I am advocating a bolt if Roosevelt is nominated, my answer is, if by any unfortunate fluke he is nominated that is precisely what I mean.

Mr. Roosevelt seems to delight in the name of a Progressive Republican. Yes, he is a Progressive, downward. A more accurate description of him is that he is a destructive Republican. He has a great deal to say about a "square deal." I am for giving him one to the end of this contest, brick for brick. In this I know I speak the sentiments of thoughtful Republicans. E. B. HINSDALE.

THIS CITY'S OWN PROBLEM.

Its Playgrounds Cannot Be Like Chicago's.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is announced that Mayor Gaynor's secretary, Controller Prendergast, Borough Presidents, some Aldermen, and John Purroy Mitchel will visit Chicago "to study recreation grounds." I wonder how many more official visits must be made to Chicago before New York wakes up to the fact that it must solve it own problem in its own way? These visits will do good in developing enthusiasm and turning New York official thought toward the need of municipal wholesome recreation for the masses.

I wonder from what city Chicago copied her recreation plans, how she knew that her people needed clubhouses, playgrounds, wading pools, &c.? Are New York brains lacking that we are still lagging some years behind Chicago? Why is not New York in the lead, teaching Chicago?

We hope these officials, returning home as their predecessors have, with enthusiasm, will still see that New York must think for itself. We have no broad acres on which to erect the field houses that have made Chicago famous. Our field houses must be public school buildings. Bronx, Queens, and Richmond may and should plan extensive recreation grounds, but Brooklyn and Manhattan must concentrate skill in using every open place, large or small, exclusively for outdoor purposes, and to the very best possible advantage.

MABEL E. MACOMBER,
President City Playground League.
New York, June 9, 1912.

THEY ALL CONFESS IT.

Adieu to all the evils which
So long have cursed this Yankee Nation;
The crooks no longer shall grow rich
From greed, and fraud, and peculation.
If Teddy wins, the thing is sure,
That sweet prosperity shall enfold us,
And public interests rest secure—
How do we know? Why, he has told us!

How quickly every wrong shall cease
If Taft contrives to win the day;
There'll dawn on us the reign of peace
And constitutionality.
The State, beneath his watchful care,
Shall keep the high place that befits it,
And sturdy thrift be everywhere—
How do we know? Why, Taft admits it!

If Clark should chance to win the race,
Then all our worries soon shall pass—
Contentment shine in every face,
And joy be shown by every class.
Quick punishment shall follow crime—
The courts shall carefully assess it;
No good thing but shall come in time—
How do we know? Don't Clark confess it?

In the event that Wilson wins,
An honest man will have control;
He'll purge the Nation of its sins,
And carefully expend its toll.
Each passing year shall bring us gladness,
While new achievements swell our credit;
Nor rogue, nor thief shall bring us sadness—
How do we know? Wilson has said it.

NO SPACE IN PARK FOR LENOX LIBRARY

Milo R. Maltbie, Bolton Hall, and Lillian D. Wald Oppose Stover's Plan.

COMMISSION ACTS TO-DAY

Board of Estimate Will Be Asked to Vote No Money for the Removal of the Building.

More letters protesting against placing the old Lenox Library building in Central Park were received by the Parks and Playgrounds Association yesterday. One and all made the point that the park should be reserved for the purposes of a park and not as a graveyard for ancient structures. In reply to a letter received from Milo R. Maltbie, a member of the Public Service Commission, Eugene A. Philbin, President of the Parks and Playgrounds Association, wrote:

"Your letter in relation to the erection of the Lenox Library building has been received, and I am glad to learn that you sympathize with our attitude in preserving the park space from encroachment. The trouble is that people do not appreciate the extraordinarily increased demands that are made upon the park space because of the growth of population in the vicinity of the park.

"Unless the city incurs the expense of establishing small parks in the section between Fifty-ninth and Seventy-second Streets, east of Third Avenue, Central Park must be made available always for the use of the children living in that section, which is growing more congested every day."

Figures quoted by the association yesterday show that in the section referred to in Mr. Philbin's letter the population is 94,006, or nearly as much as that of Albany. There is no other park so near this congested section as Central Park, and the nearest entrances to the park are those at Sixty-fourth Street, where the old, age-worn and weather beaten arsenal now stands, and the transverse road at Sixty-fifth Street, where Park Commissioner Stover wants to place the old library building.

Bolton Hall, in a letter to Mr. Philbin, says:

"I heartily agree that every inch of the park space should be reserved for those who so sorely need it. It will not be long before we shall have to provide roof gardens in Central Park for the accommodation of the crowds who cannot find space on the ground."

The Art Commission is expected to meet to-day to consider the question of preserving the old library building by permitting it to consume a big piece of the park space. The meeting will be a secret one, and no one will be permitted to enter a protest before the commission against Commissioner Stover's plan. But many letters of protest have been sent to the commission.

Mr. Philbin declares that his association will leave untried no way of defeating the scheme. Appeals will be made to all of the public officials whose opposition might dispose of the matter. Especially will an appeal be made to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment not to make any appropriation for the purpose of further encumbering the park.

A good many societies of various kinds are interested in keeping the building out of the park. Among the most earnest of these is the Henry Street Settlement, presided over by Miss Lillian D. Wald. Miss Wald already has begun to work vigorously for the preservation of the park. She has written a letter to Alexander H. Spencer, of the Parks Advisory Committee, which says, in part:

"Our settlement and I personally have felt that we should hold rigidly to the policy of preserving the parks for park purposes. There have been and probably will be temptations to withdraw from this stand for especial opportunities, but I think that the result of making such exceptions would be unfortunate, and I see no reason for modifying it in the instance that you refer to in your letter of June 3d. I have admired the Lenox Library and think it a monument where it stands. I think it would be a mistake to take it to the park."

PASTORS TO WORK FOR PEACE

Baron de Neufville Asks Them to Join World League.

A World Church Peace League was one of the proposed movements discussed yesterday at a luncheon given by the New York Federation of Churches in honor of Baron Edouard de Neufville at the Hotel Savoy.

The Baron is devoting his time to the task of arousing ministers to the value of peace, that they may in turn arouse their people. He lives at Frankfort-on-the-Main. Two of the speeches were in German. The Rev. Dr. Junius Remensnyder, who is at the head of the Federal Council's Commission on Peace, welcomed the Baron, "because he was a German, because he was for peace, and because he was a leader."

The Baron, who spoke in broken English, said he thought the ministers could do much for peace. In Germany, he said, there were 4,000 and in England 6,000 ministers working for it.

"Our Emperor, on many occasions, says he is not for a cessation of war between nations," observed the Baron, "but every time Emperor William says 'no' he means 'yes.'"

The Baron invited a hundred ministers of England to come to Germany ten years ago. They visited Frankfort and other cities. They heard much of peace. Later a large party of German ministers went to England and there was more talk of peace. The result was the forming of a co-operative league of German and English clergymen.

The Rev. Frederick Lynch announced that a Church Peace League had been formed with the financial support of Mrs. Elmer Black. One gift of $5,000 had been received. It is planned to go into every religious body and there back up President Taft's plan for arbitration treaties and an arbitral court at The Hague. Promises of support are already in hand from leaders in all bodies. The proposition of the Baron that American ministers enter the World League, and especially that they co-operate with German and English peace movements, won a hearty response.

A MORGAN WILL HERE.

The Rev. J. B. Morgan, Cousin of Financier, Leaves Property to Son.

An application was made yesterday in the Surrogates' Court for letters of administration on the will of the Rev. John Brainard Morgan, cousin of J. P. Morgan, and rector of the American Episcopal Church in Paris, who died at his home in Paris, Jan. 13. All his property is left to John J. Morgan of London, his son. No provision is made for Juliet Pierpont Morgan, his wife, or Ursula Juliet Simon, wife of William Fitz Simon, his daughter.

The other portion of the paper states that the testator gives $5,000 to the endowment fund of the church of which he was rector; $5,000 to Renata Dahlgren, his cousin; $40,000 to Gabriel Dubalin of 4 Boulevard St. Dennis, Paris; $5,000 to Miss Minnie Vail, and $1,000 to Caroline McCook Morgan, his daughter-in-law.

GIFTS FROM ROYALTY FOR MARJORIE IDE

Many Magnificent Offerings To-day for Her Wedding to Shane Leslie.

TAFTS AMONG THE DONORS

A George IV. Diamond Bracelet Among the Treasures—Wedding at Mrs. Cockran's.

A rehearsal of the wedding of Miss Marjorie Ide, daughter of Henry C. Ide, United States Minister to Madrid, to Shane Leslie, son of Col. and Mrs. John Leslie of London, which is to take place to-day, was held yesterday afternoon at The Cedars, country home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bourke Cockran, at Port Washington, L. I.

This wedding will be one of the most notable of the June weddings, and is also international in interest owing to the social prominence of both families. Many handsome presents have been received by the bride-elect, including some from the royalty of Europe and also from President and Mrs. Taft.

The King and Queen of Spain sent an exquisite old Spanish fan of the sixteenth century and their signed photographs. Prince Henry of Prussia sent a signed photograph of himself. President and Mrs. Taft presented the bride-to-be with a large silver centrepiece, and Miss Taft sent a silver tea caddy.

The Duke and Duchess of Connaught presented a large silver inkstand, and Mrs. Cornwallis West, the bridegroom's aunt, sent a silver tea set. Lady Hope, his cousin, gave a silver candlestick, and the diplomatic corps at Madrid, Spain, made some costly gifts to the bride.

Col. and Mrs. Bagot of London made a gift of fine old furniture, and the Countess of Kerry gave two old Chinese lamps. Mr. and Mrs. Moreton Frewen, the latter an aunt of the bridegroom, also made a presentation of furniture, and Massey Rhind gave a bronze bust of the bride's father. Many of these gifts are awaiting the bridal couple when they arrive in England.

From the grandparents of the bridegroom, Sir John Leslie and Lady Constance Leslie of Glasslough, County Monaghan, Ireland, Miss Ide received several rare gifts. Sir John presented a ruby and diamond bracelet, which was given by King George IV. to Mrs. Fitzherbert, whose adopted daughter was the mother of the present Lady Constance Leslie. Lady Constance gave an old Cosway miniature surrounded by pearls, being an exquisite painting of Mrs. Fitzherbert, which was made for the King.

Mrs. Leslie's gift to her future daughter-in-law was a magnificent corsage ornament of diamonds and pearls, and Col. Leslie gave a chest of silver. Her father gave her a diamond necklace. Mr. and Mrs. Cockran gave a string of pearls, and the bridegroom's gift to his bride was an old cabochon sapphire ring. As a volume of his poems will be issued in London on his wedding day, Mr. Leslie is also making a present of the first copy to his bride.

Other gifts include a silver coffee set from Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, a leather desk set from Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt, and a gold coffee set from Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mackay. Mr. and Mrs. Philip Lydig gave an old fan, and Mrs. Benjamin Guinness presented each with a portrait of themselves, her own work. Mr. and Mrs. J. Norman de R. Whitehouse gave an old silver candelabra, and Mr. and Mrs. George Gould a Cartier enamel clock. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Taft presented an old painted fan, and Edwin Morgan gave a diamond and pearl brooch. Mrs. Sidney Dillon Ripley gave a silver inkstand of the George III. period, and Mr. and Mrs. Beekman Winthrop a gilt clock.

The ceremony will be performed at 4 o'clock this afternoon by the Rev. Father Carroll of the Roman Catholic Church at Port Washington. Mrs. Cockran will be her sister's only attendant, and William Seymour Leslie is to be his brother's best man. The ushers will include Frank Gray Griswold, Peter F. Dunne, J. Norman de R. Whitehouse, and Representative Nicholas Longworth, the latter, with Mrs. Longworth, having been a house guest at The Cedars for the last day or so.

The couple will said for Europe early in July, and will go first to Spain, where they plan to remain for some time, going later to London.

William A. Brady and his wife, Grace George, will sail for Europe this afternoon on the Mauretania. The first object of their trip is to inspect a play which has been successful on the Continent, and which is intended for the personal use of Miss George next season, to follow the run of "Bought and Paid For" at the Playhouse. It is intended that New York and London productions be made simultaneously. While Mr. Brady is in London he will receive from Justin Huntly McCarthy the last two acts of "Charlemagne the Conqueror," which Robert Mantell will produce in New York in the early Autumn.

Another object of Mr. Brady's trip is to close arrangements with Sir Charles Wyndham for the use of one of his London theatres for an entire season, for the production of American plays, beginning with "Bought and Paid For." It is expected that the cast will include Robert Loraine, Joseph Coyne and Alexandria Carlyle. Following this play, Mr. Brady will produce "Little Women" in London and also Philip Bartholomae's farce, "Over Night."

The twenty-second anniversary of the first performance of "Robin Hood" was celebrated at the New Amsterdam Theatre last night. Reginald De Koven, the composer, conducted the orchestra. MAYORS' CONFERENCE DEBATES HOME RULE

Robert S. Binkerd Declares Only General Laws Should Limit Municipalities.

SOCIAL EVIL RESTS ON GREED

Those Drawing Profits from It Denounced—Prof. Hanus on Public School Efficiency.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., June 10.—The third annual Conference of Mayors of New York State opened here to-day, with 200 city officials in attendance. Robert S. Binkerd, Secretary of the City Club of New York, made the first address, on home rule for cities, and declared that its absence was largely due to the lack of any general law laying down a charter for all cities of a certain class.

"One general statute," Mr. Binkerd said, "empowering cities throughout the State to do the ordinary things which so few of our cities can do without special authorization would immediately change the situation. Up to a few years ago our legislative calendars were full of special bills affecting public service corporations. We established the Public Service Commission, and immediately the number of such bills decreased.

"We had as Governor for three years a man who consistently vetoed special bills affecting matters within the power of the Public Service Commission, so that to-day the amount of special legislation concerning public service corporations is less than half what it was in the year 1903 or 1904. The passage of a municipal empowering act, and one Governor who will consistently veto special bills which are unnecessary because of that act, will carry us a substantial distance toward municipal home rule."

Mr. Binkerd also recommended the formation of municipal parties for municipal elections and the abolition of legislative interference with local salaries and wages.

In the evening George J. Kneeland of the American Vigilance Association spoke on "The Social Evil in Cities."

"The social evil," he said, "has developed into a great commercial business, yielding enormous profits, which go to degenerate men and to ostensible respectable men and women who rent their property for immoral purposes. Take away the women and the problem of evil saloons is settled.

"An army of cadets, political guerrillas, and scoundrels live off the earnings of unfortunate women. Physicians, druggists, and business men join hands with these scoundrels to rob the women by making them pay more than double prices for services and goods. The woman is only one-eighth of the problem. We must give our attention to people who share the profits."

The Rev. George Lunn, Socialist Mayor of Schenectady, declared that ministers and other reformers knew nothing about the social evil or its solution.

"They are disturbers and trouble makers," he said. "I know it because I a minister."

Prof. Paul H. Hanus of Harvard University, in charge of the school inquiry in New York, spoke on "The Efficiency of Public Schools," and he said School Boards must be free from political or partisan influence and teachers retained solely on basis of fitness.

"Adequate financial support and the holding of teachers to strict account in their work are necessary," he said. "We must make our schools practical and helpful. We are too often bound for nowhere under full sail. Fifty per cent. of our boys drop out of school at 14 years of age. We are deplorably lacking in providing day schools for them, and the night schools are inadequate for children of this age."

Clarence A. Perry of the Russell Sage Foundation, New York, led a discussion on this topic and made a plea for the use of schools as social centres.

George E. Van Kennen, Chairman of the New York State Conservation Commission, made a defense of the New State conservation law and the proposed plans of the commission.

"We contend," he said, "that the conservation scheme offers a practical solution of this important problem. For the owner of unused water power it will encourage development, provide a market for his product, and afford protection against the hand of the monopolist. For the people it will reduce the cost of light and power to the consumer—enlarge the use of electricity for domestic and commercial purposes—stimulate industries—increase our wealth—add to our population, and tend to restore the State to its former supremacy in manufacture.

THE GARDEN ROOF OPENS.

Sale of Liquor Held Up Through a License Mistake.

The rebuilt and redecorated Madison Square Roof Garden opened for the season last night with a large crowd present. A technical misunderstanding regarding the meaning and purpose of theatre and dance hall licenses, however, prevented the sale of any drinks except "soft stuff," and part of the merriment of the evening was missing. According to the explanation of the attorneys for the Madison Square Roof Garden Company, it appears that the roof garden exists under the license that covers the Garden Theatre downstairs—a regular theatre license, under which no liquors may be sold. The management obtained a dance hall license, having placed a dance floor in the middle of the roof, but even that does not permit of "hard drinks" being dispensed. Application will be made today, said the lawyer, for a concert hall license, such as is in operation at Hammerstein's Victoria Roof Garden, and tonight there will be no trouble about the drinking side of the entertainment.

As for the rest, there is a raised platform for dancing in the middle of the Garden, an open air stage for a cabaret show, a place for the orchestra, and numerous tables and chairs. Plenty of flowering plants and shrubs give a garden effect to the tiled roof. The cabaret performance last night consisted of songs and dances, solos, and duets, and the crowd seemed to enjoy them very much. The public dances grew to be popular before the evening was over, though it was difficult to get them started at first. Tonight, the management promises, everything will be in good working shape and there will be no lack of entertainment.

GIFT OF 107 ACRES FOR PRINCETON

Class of '87 Promises to Build a $35,000 Boat House on Carnegie Lake.

McCLELLAN NOW PROFESSOR

Former Mayor Promoted — Sophomores Give Reception and Dance—Gov. Wilson at Cannon Exercises.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 10.—After the commencement meeting of the Board of Trustees of Princeton University to-day it was announced that nine friends of the institution had together presented the university with 107 acres of land on the north side of Carnegie Lake. The gift will make a notable addition to the Princeton grounds. The cash gifts for endowment totaled $95,206, the Trustees announced, and $31,105 for current expenses. The class of '87 has notified the Trustees that it will give $35,000 for the erection of a boathouse on Carnegie Lake.

Commencement time brings many changes in the Faculty. George B. McClellan, former Mayor of New York, is promoted from Lecturer on Public Affairs to Professor of Economic History. He will assume his new duties in September.

The annual sophomore reception, the most elaborate social function of the year, was held to-night in the gymnasium, which was decorated with bunting and masses of flowers. There were 250 guests. Just before the opening of the dance the Sophomore Committee made public an order forbidding the "turkey trot" and other banned dances.

The list of patronesses included Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, Mrs. J. S. Morgan, Mrs. Charles Scribner, Mrs. C. L. Blair, Mrs. C. H. Lodge, Mrs. Parker D. Handy, and Mrs Archibald L. Russell. Among those who attended the reception were Mrs. John Grier Hibben, Mrs. Cyrus McCormick, Mrs. Henry van Dyke, Mrs. George A. Armour, Mrs. Robert Garrett, and Mrs. Henry J. M. T. Finney.

Princeton was officially in the hands of the class of '12, President Hibben said when he opened the Class Day exercises in the morning, and this was the order of the day.

The cannon exercises in the evening included a presentation speech by William M. Whitney of Rye, N. Y.; the class prophecy, by Russell S. Walcott; the history, by Frank D. Halsey of Elizabeth, N. J., and a farewell speech by "Sam" White, President of the graduating class. Gov. Wilson was an interested spectator.

The exercises this morning included the planting of the class ivy in front of Nassau Hall, the dedication being made by Chauncey Belknap of New York, the class oration by Curtis M. Wylie, and the class poem by Sayers Coe of Newark, N. J.

This evening the musical clubs closed their season with a concert in honor of the commencement visitors, and the sophomore class gave a reception in their honor in the "gym."

NOVELTIES IN BURLESQUE.

Columbia Summer Show Better Than Many Musical Comedies.

"The Merry-Go-Rounders" at the Columbia Theatre certainly justifies the name.

The management very modestly dubs it "burlesque," but it falls easily into the musical comedy class and is a good deal better entertainment from start to finish than many of its kind. The slapstick is conspicuously absent, and at least two of the principals were heard to say "that's he," which really isn't the kind of grammar that goes with the ordinary burlesque. Again, there is a chorus that vies with the best for pulchritude, and the "housemaid's union," so familiar to patrons of the burlesque type of entertainment, is a memory only.

In a previous incarnation the piece was known as 'Let George Do It," and from parts of a plot which simply oozes through every scene there seem evidences that some of it goes back even to the days of "nigger acts" and pantomime. But, except for the fact that there is something too much of plot and dialogue, the work of amalgamating songs and lines and specialties has been admirably done. So the general result is a spick and span show that ought to be regarded as a real bargain at the prices for which it is offered.

It need hardly be mentioned that "The Merry-Go-Rounders" is not designed as an educational entertainment, but, on the whole, "there is no offense in't." The music is pleasing and the dances effective. Also, there are a number of very good scenic novelties, including a final picture of a Dutch farm, with the big windmill illuminated, and flying doves making their way in and out of their cotes. The effect is exceedingly pretty.

Among the best songs are "In My Automobile" and "Two Lips Are Waiting in Tulip Town," both sung very sweetly by Louise Brunelle, a really charming little prima donna, with voice, manner, and distinction. In the latter song there is a pretty effect of illuminated bouquets in the hands of the chorus girls, who in another number have made their way into the auditorium to scatter flowers.

About five years ago she disappeared from the stage and has only been seen in public once since then, when she appeared in vaudeville for a brief period in 1910. She was born in Pennsylvania, and was 41 years old. The song which brought her greatest fame was "The Sunshine of Paradise Alley."

SOPHIE B. WRIGHT.

Educator and Philanthropist Often Called New Orleans's Best Citizen.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 10.—Miss Sophie B. Wright, educator and philanthropist, one of the best known women thinkers in the South and frequently referred to as New Orleans' best citizen, died at her home here this afternoon. Her health had been bad for nearly a year, and heart disease, with complications, is said to have brought about the end. Friends of the beloved educator, however, said that her heart was not diseased, but broken, and that she grieved herself to the grave as a result of an unfortunate discussion. The discussion hinged about the naming of a fine new girls' high school after Miss Wright. Many persons opposed the project because Miss Wright was still alive, and the acrimonious debate even got into the Legislature, where a bill condemning the naming of any public school building after a living person is now pending

Miss Wright's famous school won the favorable comment of some of the leading teachers, educators, and philanthropists of the country. She was almost equally well known in connection with her work among the children of the poor. Thousands of young men of New Orleans are prosperous citizens to-day as a result of the training they received in the night school she organized. Miss Wright also founded a home for incurables. Made a hopeless cripple at the age of three, she labored until her fame as an educator and a philanthropist became nation wide. She was 46 years old at the time of her death.

AMERICAN OLYMPIC TEAM IS SELECTED

Ninety-One Athletes Picked from Long List by Selection Committee.

RECORD HOLDERS NAMED

Most Representative Team Ever Sent Abroad—Twenty-two New York Cracks Are Chosen.

The Selection Committee appointed to nominate the men who are to represent America in the Olympic games next month at Stockholm, Sweden, finished its labors yesterday after a seven hours' session at the Waldorf-Astoria.

While it was the impression that the work of the committee was most arduous, resulted in the picking of an aggregation which will, almost beyond doubt, bring honor to the United States, the selections promise to develop spirited discussion as to the merits of some of those chosen.

On the other hand, it is anticipated that there will be disappointments among those who had trained hard and faithfully only to be shut out from engaging in the competitions because of the lack of funds which necessitated a reduction in the team in many of the events.

The main effort of the committee was directed toward the choosing of ninety-one individuals for the twenty-eight track and field events. Besides these, there will be probably three score in the other contests, rifle shooting, revolver shooting, trap shooting, cycling, wrestling, tennis, gymnastics, rowing, etc., which will bring the United States representation up to more than 150 men. Of this number twenty-two of the track and field men are New Yorkers, members of the New York A. C., Irish-American A. C., Mohawk A. C., Mott Haven A. C., Long Island A. C., and one unattached athlete.

All of the men named yesterday were entered a month ago, arrangement having been made to verify the actual nominations by cable, which was done last night. This was necessary because of the early closing of the list, and as no entries would be accepted by cable.

The eliminations process entailed the weeding out of at least 1,000 names, and although in spots the work of the committee was a sinecure the all-around general excellence of most of the nominees was such that the arbiters had their work cut out in the endeavor to do justice to all concerned.

In addition to those chosen outright a supplemental list was arranged, with several men named for each event for whom provision is made for their representation, provided they pay their own expenses.

For these men a cut rate figure of $350 has ben made, but it is said that a number of the men on this list who have little or no chance to gather such an amount will be welcome members of the band when it is really known that they are without the means to pay their way. As a matter of fact a number have been advised to bring their bags to the dock, the understanding being that no one will be left behind who has a chance to win honors for the American team.

Col. Robert M. Thompson, President of the American Olympic Committee, was an interested participant in the work of selection, which was left to the following: James E. Sullivan, the United States Commissioner; Bartow S. Weeks, Jos. B. Maccabe and Edward E. Babb of Boston, Everett C. Brown and Alonzo A. Stagg, Chicago; George F. Pawling, Philadelphia; Frederick B. Rubein, Romeyn Berry, Cornell; Julian W. Curtiss, Reginald F. Sayre, Gustavus T. Kirby, P. J. Kirby, Evert Jansen Wendell, Matthew P. Halpin, and R. F. Kelsey.

It was decided to name the following persons for the International Jury: Athletics—James E. Sullivan; Modern Penthelon—Gustavus T. Kirby; Swimming—Bartow S. Weeks; Shooting—Prof. William Libbey of Princeton.

Prior to the naming of the athletes the committee heard reports of the financial side of the work, and it developed that the net profits of the "tryouts" held last Saturday in Bostotn were $10,000 and that the fund is lacking $15,000 of the amount desired. It is said that if this amount is forthcoming before Friday morning all the athletes on the supplemental list will be taken along, their expense being paid out of th Olympic Fund.

Many of the men will compete in a number of events. The wonderful versatility of a dozen of the nominees makes it possible for this to be accomplished, and thereby increase the scoring possibilities of the team.

Strangely enough the great all-around performer Platt Adams of the New York A. C., who has been named for nine different events is not likely to make the trip, owing to business demands upon his time.

Other cases of doubling up are seen in the nomination of Ralph C. Craig, the wonderful sprinter from the West in the 100 meters, 200 meters, 400 meters, 400 meters relay, and 1,600 meters relay. Melvin Sheppard, the present Olympic champion at 800 meters and 1,500 meters, who has been named for the 400 meters, 800 meters, 1,500 meters, and the 1,600 meters relay; Ira Davenport of Chicago, who is in the 400 meters, 800 meters, and 1,600 meters relay.

John Paul Jones, the world's record holder for the mile has been chosen for the 800 meters, 1,500 meters, 3,000 meters team race and the cross-country. Tel Berna, a schoolmate of Jones at Cornell University will attempt to repeat in the 5,000 meters, 3,000 team race and cross-country. James E. Meredith, the Mercersburg Academy is in the 400 meters, 800 meters, and 1,600 meters relay.

The mighty Ralph Rose from San Francisco will probably show to advantage in the discus, best hand; discus, right and left hand; putting the weight, best hand; putting the weight, right and left hand, and hammer throw. Jim Thorpe, the Carlisle Indian, has been put in the lists for a half dozen events which promise to take up all of his competitive efforts.

Never before in the forces of any of our invading teams has the make-up of the athletic army been so truly National, and never have the universities of the United States been in a position to send into the ranks such an array of high-class performers. Even those feeders to the colleges, the preparatory schools, have made their presence felt to the end that several of the first string men named are lads who are yet in their academies.

The West with such men as Horine, Rose, Courtney, Bellah, Edmundson, McClure, Donoghue, Nicholson, Case, Davenport, Irons, Beeson, Philbrook and men of similar capabilities give promise, if any line can be had through previous work, of cutting a mighty swath when the question is asked in regard to the scoring by the team.

STOCKHOLM IS READY.

Every Hotel Room Engaged for Those Who Will Attend Olympic Games.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 10.—A cablegram from Stockholm to The Daily News says that preparations are complete for the Olympic games. The Swedish capital, says the Cablegram, expects to receive and comfortably entertain 50,000 to 70,000 foreigners. Every hotel room is engaged, but a large number of private apartments await the arrival of guests. Apartments may be had at a daily charge of from $1 to $3. Exorbitant prices will be scrupulously avoided.

The number of athletes entered for the games is 3,000, or nearly 1,000 more than was present in London in 1908. The Swedish team comprises 150 men, who will take part in twenty-four different contests. The American team is expected to win the lion's share of the triumphs, but the Swedish athletes, it is thought, will have good chances of winning a number of events and particularly the 3,000 meters (9,842.5 feet) and Marathon races, in which the world's record were recently broken by Swedes.

Theodore Roosevelt Pell will be the only American representative at the opening of the tennis contest. His belated telegraphic entry was accepted by the committee as a compliment to him.

BASEBALL NOTES.

President Thomas J. Lynch of the National League yesterday announced that he had fined Umpires William Brennan and Clarence Owens $25 each for umpiring the exhibition game between the New York Giants and the Long Branch team at Long Branch on Sunday.

President Navin of the Detroit Club, who signed Pitcher Hyatt of West Point for the Tigers, has decided that he has no place for the cadet, and he is now making an effort to farm him out to some minor league club.

Manager George Stovall of the St. Louis Browns has asked for waivers on three of his pitchers, Barney Pelty, Joe Lake, and Nelson. Stovall announces that he intends to develop a new team of youngsters.

When Princeton and Yale play the deciding game of their series at American League Park on Thursday afternoon Princeton followers will occupy that section of the field behind third base, and the Yale rooters will occupy the section near first base. Tickets will be sold admitting the holder to whatever section may be desired.

Heinie Zimmerman of the Bronx, and now identified with the Cubs, is German. There were several sailors from the German fleet at the Polo Grounds yesterday, so Heinie showed them how the Dutch were getting along in this country. Zimmerman was the main works in the Cubs' ten-inning victory over the Giants by a score of 9 to 8, his tribute to the visiting Germans being two mammoth home-run drives which had the fast-rushing Giants gasping for breath.

Here was the most seething struggle of the year. The Cubs were just like their old selves, scratching and scrambling in every moment of the fight. Evers was more peppery than he has been in two years, and the whole Chicago team struggled to win, no matter how hard the Giants bombarded their pitchers. At times the game looked like a batting duel between Zimmerman and Chief Meyers, for every time these smashers came to bat and runs were needed there followed a tremendous drive, and the two teams were back just where they started.

Zimmerman's last home run was the crushing blow to the Giant cause, for Otis Crandall was trying to pass him. It was in the first half of the tenth inning, and the score was tied, 7 to 7. Wildfire Schulte struck out. Joe Tinker pummeled a double to the left field fence, but Fletcher bungled Devore's return, and Tinker went to third.

McGraw from the bench wigwagged to Crandall to pass Zimmerman. Crandall heaved one high and outside of the plate. Zimmerman took a running jump at the ball. He reached it high above his head and smashed it into the right field grandstand. He made the circuit, sending Tinker home ahead, and the victory was all sealed in an air-tight bottle ready to ship back to Chicago.

The Cubs will have to pay dearly for this raid on the Giants' pennant parade.

It was a game of heavy hitting, the Cubs having the better of the duel by 16 hits to 11 by the Giants. Besides Zimmerman's two home runs, there were a triple by Schulte, a double by Tinker, and singles of many sizes. The Giant attack included home runs by Meyers and Murray, and also a triple and a double by the same ball-smashing Indian. The biggest Monday crowd of the season—10,000 deep-throated Giant fans—were worked up to a stage of nervous exhaustion. Men completely forgot their homes, loving wives, and warm dinners to wait and see Heinie Zimmerman shoot their hopes up like a kite at exactly 6:20 P. M.

The German sailors were late getting back to their ships, but when they did get back the atmosphere over the Hudson River was surcharged with chopped-up conversation about how Heinie broke up the game. Great folks, the Germans.

For the first few laps it looked like another exhibition of the Giant steam roller. The crowd began to feel sorry for the Cubs until the fourth inning, when they drove "Hooks" Wiltse to cover and took the lead. Then it was the Giants' turn to make an uphill fight. Meyers was the man who did it in the eighth, when his three-bagger drove in the runs which tied the score.

Wiltse was wild in the first inning. He walked Sheckard and Schulte. Tinker placed a neat bunt just where the Giant inner works wasn't looking and filled the bases. While Zimmerman forced Tinker at second base, Sheckard scored. Zimmerman and Schulte thought they would like to execute a double steal, and tried it. Wiltse intercepted Meyers' throw to second and tossed to third, getting Schulte off the bag. Miller flied to Meyers.

Lew Richie, a Giant killer, started to do Chicago's pitching. Devore walked and Doyle was safe on Tinker's fumble of a warm grounder. Devore scored on a sacrifice fly by Snodgrass. Red Murray added gayety to the party with a steaming drive into the right field grand stand, sending in Doyle a few feet ahead of him.

Meyers was the first man up in the second inning for the Giants, and he lambasted the ball into the left field stand for a home run. That was the end of Richie. Miner Brown is now pitching. He halted the home run habit. The Giants continued to register in the third, when, with one out, Snodgrass soaked a grounder between first and second bases. Evers made a wonderful stop and threw from an awkward position, missing Snodgrass by about an eighth of a second. Murray forced Snodgrass at second. Murray stole second and went to third when Evers missed Archer's toss. Becker's single to right scored Murray, and Becker died stealing.

Zimmerman greeted Wiltse in the fourth session with a substantial punch into the left field bleachers, the ball bounding out only a few feet safe. It was in the sixth that the Cubs began to claw and demand recognition. Miller singled to centre and Saier walked. Evers laid down a pretty bunt near third base and beat Herzog's toss, filling the bases. Archer beat out a bunt and scored Miller.

What's all this commotion at the Chicago bench? Who's that little old man tottering out with a crutch? No, it isn't a crutch, that's a bat. Well, what do you know? It's young Tommy Leach.

Leach whaled a single to left field, scoring Saier and Evers. Sheckard fouled to Snodgrass and Schulte walked. Tinker's sacrifice fly scored Archer. The score is now 6 to 5, with the Cubs on the heavy end.

With one batsman out in the eighth inning, Schulte jammed a triple to left and scored on Tinker's single. Then the Giants were two runs behind, but there was a reckoning coming.

In the Giants' half of the eighth all the batting energy of Snodgrass and Murray was confined to harmless taps. Jimmy Lavender, who had succeeded Three-Fingered Brown on the slab when Leach went in to bat for him, then did a very foolish thing. The moist pellet that he was unfurling became unduly slippery. He walked Becker and Herzog.

Here's a situation that will make your hair stand up. Meyers at the bat. There was a long conference between Capt. Tinker, Archer, Evers, and Lavender about just what to do with Meyers. After a long argument, it was decided that about the best thing Lavender could do was to strike him out. They figured that the general supposition would be that Meyers would walk, so Lavender decided to fool everybody. He did fool a good many, except Meyers. He pitched right straight at him without a quiver. Meyers lammed a twister into left field for three bases, scoring Becker and Herzog. That tied the score, but Meyers was left stranded when Fletcher flied to Zimmerman.

Nothing whatever transpired in the ninth inning in the run line, and although Chicago got two hits off Crandall, Saier, one of the runners, was thrown out at the plate and Evers got only as far as second.

The first half of the tenth was full of action. Schulte struck out and Tinker hit a double to left. Then came Zimmerman, and Crandall attempted to hand him a ticket. The stroll was haughtily refused, and Heinie leaped at a high ball and jolted it into the right-field stand with as nifty a joy blow as ever was walloped in the tenth inning with the score tied.

Ruelbach succeeded Lavender in the tenth inning. The alert Mr. Evers retired both Snodgrass and Murray in the final gasp. Becker jammed a single to right and Herzog did the same thing. With Meyers up again, the crowd was on the verge of riotous enthusiasm. They yelled for another home run. What do they think the Indian is—a Gatling gun?

Chief swung mightily on the ball and sent a high Texas Leaguer to left field. Three or four Cubs went after it, but it was out of reach and good for two bases. Becker raced home, but as Herzog came whirling around the third corner Coach Robinson grabbed him and pushed him back on the bag. There was still a chance for Fletcher to get a bronze statue of himself in Central Park, but the best he could do was to roll an easy bounder to Evers, who fumbled it for a moment and then threw him out at first base. Which is plenty, and more, for one day.

BROOKLYN'S RECORD GAME.

Superbas Defeat Pittsburgh in Contest Lasting Hour and 12 Minutes.

Brooklyn and Pittsburgh established the season's record for a short game at Washington Park yesterday afternoon, the Superbas defeating the Pirates in one hour and twelve minutes by the score of 1 to 0. The only run of the contest came in the second inning, and was directly due to an inexcusable muff of a pop fly by Bobby Byrne. Otto Miller reached first base on the error—the only misplay of the game—and he finished his journey a minute later when Herb Moran hit to left field for two bases.

The game was a great pitching duel between Nap Rucker and Howard Camnitz, the latter having a shade the better of the Brooklyn southpaw. Camnitz allowed three clean hits and two scratches, while Rucker was touched up for four clean wallops and two of the scratch variety. Each issued one pass, and Camnitz fanned six, to Rucker's four. With the same kind of support that was tendered his opponent, Camnitz would have held Brooklyn runless.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 10.—It remained for Harry Wolverton's Yankees to pull the Chicago's from their proud position at the head of Ban Johnson's league. They downed the Hose, 5 to 1, to-day in an exciting game that was anybody's contest until the visitors pushed four tallies around in the final session, and thereby smashed a 1 to 1 tie, which had held since the fourth frame.

A poor throw by Fournier when the sacks were filled in the ninth inning, and only one out allowed New York to score twice and this broke the White Sox's spirit and upset Lange to such an extent that the two other markers were hung up with little or no trouble.

Russell Ford, the moist-ballist, and Frank Lange, the iron man, were pitted against each other, and each pitched splendidly. Ford was by far the steadier and had things the same effective way in all except two innings. In one of these the Sox scored and in the other a brilliant bit of work by Gardner, who grabbed a hot grounder, touched a runner coming down from first base, and threw to Chase for a double play, saved him.

In the fifth inning Ford took a big chance when, with two out, he passed Lord, filling the bases to get a chance at Callahan. He got away in great style by forcing the Chicago manager to hoist a weak pop-up, which was easily gathered in by Sweeney.

The Yankees's hoodoo was in evidence again. Shortstop Martin was spiked by Weaver when the latter tried to steal second base in the second frame, and he was injured to such an extent that Wolverton was forced to substitute Stump. The latter played well and was the only visitor to get two hits.

The Sox were the first to count, pushing a runner around in the third inning. Block singled to centre and went to third on sacrifices by Lange and Rath. He scored when Chase threw over Hartzell's head after the second baseman had been put out.

The score was tied in the fourth when Stump got his first single. Cree bunted out, but Zinn walked, and Chase's roller was fumbled by Rath, allowing Stump to reach third. He scored while Rath and Weaver were forcing out Chase on Gardner's grounder to second.

Ford showed his nerve in the fifth when Block drew a pass after Weaver fanned, only to be forced at second on Lange's roller to Hartzell. Rath singled and Lord was purposely passed, filling the sacks, but giving Ford a chance at Callahan. Then Russell showed up the "come back" boss.

The eighth saw Callahan get his belated single with one out. He took third on Collins's hit to right, but then Gardner inserted a timely double play by catching Fournier's bounder, touching Collins and getting Fournier by a throw to Chase.

New York started well in the sixth when Cree walked, but Birdie foolishly tried for second on a short fly to right and a double play resulted. After that there was nothing doing until the ninth.

Chase reached first in this inning on Lord's fumble and advanced on Gardner's sacrifice, Gardner being safe when Rath dropped Fournier's assist. Daniels moved both runners up by dropping the ball to Lord, and being retired at first. Lange was unable to locate the plate with Sweeney up and the sacks were crowded. Then Ford rolled a slow one along the first base line, and Fournier made a hurried throw past Block, allowing Chase and Gardner to score. Sweeney crossed on Hartzell's out and Stump's second safety tallied Ford. Cree ended the run making by fanning for the third time. Ford retired the Sox in order in their half, keeping the ball in the infield.

Hard Hitting Wins for Senators.

DETROIT, Mich., June 10.—Hard hitting enabled the Washington Club to take to-day's game 7 to 3. Moeller's batting and fielding and a home run by Bush, with Mullin on base, featured. The score:

COURT GETS BOXING REPORT.

Commission Cites Four Instances of Violation at National Club.

The members of the State Athletic Commission, Frank O'Neil and Major John J. Dixon, yesterday filed with the Supreme Court their report of the proceedings by which the license of the National Sporting Club was revoked on May 15 last. This report is the result of the writ of certiorari issued to the club officials by Justice Erlanger after the club's attorney, Nathan Vidaver, had argued before him that the revocation of the license was not legally effected by the commission.

The commission cites four cases in which it charges the club officials with violations of rules. The most flagrant violation occurred on May 9, when Referee Patrick Haley, under instruction from the club officials, gave a decision to Jim Stewart at the close of a bout with "Gunboat" Smith. One of the special rules adopted by the commission forbids decisions.

The Commissioners further declare that on Oct. 26 last Tom O'Rourke was President of the club, and also acted as manager of Al Palzer in his bout with "Soldier" Delaney. "It is against the rules of the commission," the report adds, "for an officer or stockholder in a club, as O'Rourke was at that time and still is, to have anything to do with the contestants at that club."

The report also charges that on Jan. 8 last O'Rourke made a bet at the club on the bout between Abe Attell and Knockout Brown. Another violation of the rules is charged against O'Rourke for refusal to recognize certain passess issued by the commission. In conclusion, the Commissioners say that they acted in the only way possible under the law in revoking the license. Both Commissioners signed the report.

Redmond vs. Leach Cross.

Jack Redmond, the Chicago lightweight, will make his bow to New York boxing enthusiasts to-night when he hooks up with Leach Cross in the ten-round feature bout at the St. Nicholas A. C. Redmond has made quite a reputation in the West, where he fought all the best lightweights, one of his battles being a ten-round no-decision contest with Al Wolgast, at Milwaukee shortly after Wolgast won the title. Redmond is generally credited with a draw for his performance against Wolgast. He has been in New York for the past month, and has trained hard for his bout with Cross. The east side dentist is now boxing better than ever before, as he showed last week in his bout with Knockout Brown at Madison Square Garden. He is anxious to arrange for a bout with Wolgast. Redmond is a rugged mixer with considerable cleverness, and is confident that he can defeat Cross.

PANIC DAYS TAKEN UP IN THE STEEL SUIT

Oakleigh Thorne Asked About the Run on His Trust Company of America.

BLAMES PERKINS STATEMENT

Given After Bankers' Conference Had Agreed to Meet the Rumors About Company with Cash Support.

Oakleigh Thorne, who was President of the Trust Company of America until its absorption by the Equitable Trust Company a few months ago, was a witness yesterday in the Government's suit for the dissolution of the Steel Corporation when the hearings were resumed at the Custom House. He was questioned about the publication on Oct. 23, 1907, of a statement made by George W. Perkins that aid was to be extended to his company, which Mr. Thorne said caused the run on it. He was also questioned about the sale of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company to the Steel Corporation, and declared that he had never associated the two occurrences. He said that after the run started Mr. Perkins, as well as J. Pierpont Morgan, did everything they could to help the company through its troubles.

Mr. Thorne said he was the owner of 12,000 shares of Tennessee Coal and Iron, but had sold 7,000 shares before the merger was made. The other 5,500 shares he sold to the Steel Corporation when the Tennessee Coal and Iron syndicate sold out.

The Knickerbocker Trust Company closed on Oct. 22, 1907, and up to that time, Mr. Thorne said, there had been no unusual withdrawals from the Trust Company of America, and nothing in the nature of a run. At the end of the day's business he went home, and about 11 o'clock that night he received a telephone message from Mr. Perkins, who was then a partner in J. P. Morgan & Co., or H. P. Davison, now a partner, but then Vice President of the First National Bank, asking him to meet them at the Union League Club, which he did.

"They asked me," he said, "about the financial condition of the Trust Company of America, and I showed them a statement up to date. They said that if the statement was found to be correct we would be given any assistance we needed. He asked if I would agree to an examination of our affairs, and I said I would agree, on condition that if the statement I showed them was found to be correct we should receive such assistance as might be needed. They said a committee to make the investigation would be at our office at 7 o'clock in the morning. Mr. Perkins left, and I talked generalities with Mr. Davison for a few minutes, after which I went home.

An Article from The Times.

"I was at the trust company office about 6:30 the next morning, as the committee were to come before the officers were due. The committee were there at 7, and I gave them access to the books and everything. They stayed until 12 or 1. They never made a report on their examination."

"Was your attention called to an article in THE NEW YORK TIMES?" asked J. M. Dickinson, special assistant to the Attorney General.

"Yes, Mr. Hilton, Secretary of the company, called my attention to the article."

This was the article in which it was stated that at a conference of bankers and others it had been decided to extend assistance to the Trust Company of America. The article was put in evidence. The part that entered into the discussion read:

> At a conference between Secretary Cortelyou, who came on from Washington in response to a hurry call, and the chief bankers of the city, headed by J. P. Morgan, at the Hotel Manhattan last night, it was formally decided that the point needing buttressing now is the Trust Company of America, the third largest institution of its kind in the city, and of which Oakleigh Thorne is President.
>
> Earnest attention was given to this new problem, and the result was the formation of a powerful syndicate to stand by the company at its opening to-day.
>
> This determination was announced at 1 A. M. in the following official statement, after Mr. Perkins and President Thorne had been in conference at the Union League Club, subsequent to the Hotel Manhattan gathering:
>
> "The chief sore point is the Trust Company of America. The conferees feel that the situation there is such that the company is sound. Provision has been made to supply all the cash needed this morning. The conferees feel sure the company will be able to pull through. The company has $12,000,000 cash, and as much more has been pledged for this purpose. It is safe to assume that J. P. Morgan & Co. will be leaders in this movement to furnish funds.
>
> "A committee has been named, including a representative of Morgan & Co. and others, to look over the accounts of the Trust Company of America, with the idea of definitely determining its position.
>
> "The guarantees of cash made last night are for the purpose of meeting any demands upon the Trust Company of America, pending the completion of this examination."
>
> After the close of the Manhattan conference one of the chief conferees, a Clearing House committeeman, said:
>
> "I think it is safe to say now that no other financial institution of the least importance will have to undergo the experiences of the Knickerbocker Trust Company. I feel optimistic, for the first time since the troubles began."
>
> It was also said there was no thought that the Trust Company of America was in anything like the position of the Knickerbocker Trust Company, but these steps were taken with the intention of making an authoritative statement before noon to-day that the trust company will be taken care of in any eventuality, providing conditions are found as sound as there is every reason to believe.
>
> That these interests have agreed, pending final examination of its account, to supply the Trust Company of America with any cash needed, was pointed to as proving the confidence of all interests in the soundness of the company.

"This refers," said Judge Dickinson, "to a meeting at the Hotel Manhattan, which was attended by George B. Cortelyou, Secretary of the Treasury; Mr. Morgan, and others. Were you there?"

"No. I was not invited."

"Did you know that it was taking place and that the Trust Company of America was being discussed?"

"I did not."

Up to that time had any one suggested to you that the condition of your company was critical?"

"No."

When the trust company opened on Oct. 23, Mr. Thorne continued, the run commenced. There was a crowd in front of the place and the number of paying tellers was increased from one to seven in order to get rid of the crowd.

"Did you succeed in getting rid of it?" asked Judge Dickinson.

"We did not, although we paid out $13,500,000 that day."

About noon, Mr. Thorne said, he went to the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., where he met James Stillman, President of the National City Bank; Mr. Davison, and Mr. Perkins.

"I told them," he said, "that we needed money. They advised me that the trust company Presidents would meet that night and invited me to attend. They loaned me $1,000,000, and James T. Woodward, President of the Hanover National Bank, loaned me $1,500,000.

"There was a meeting that night at the uptown office of the Union Trust Company. Messrs. Morgan, Stillman, and Woodward were there and Edward King, President of the Union Trust Company. They agreed to loan me $10,000,000 on $20,000,000 worth of collateral."

"State what effect, if any, the publication of the article had."

"The run had started," said Mr. Thorne, "when the article was shown to me and a number of people told me that it was on account of the article that they had come for their money."

Rumors Before Conference.

"Did you know of any agreement among the bankers and representatives of the Steel Corporation that aid for your trust company was conditioned in any way on the relief of Moore & Schley or the sale of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company to the Steel Corporation?"

"I did not."

Grant B. Schley of Moore & Schley was one of the managers of the syndicate that controlled the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company and it was on the ground that the absorption of the Tennessee company by the Steel Corporation was necessary to prevent his failure that President Roosevelt consented to the merger.

Mr. Thorne said he obtained a further loan of $15,000,000 from the banks on Nov. 6, and was then cross-examined by Richard V. Lindabury, counsel for the Steel Corporation. Mr. Thorne said that the Trust Company of America and the Knickerbocker Trust Company had two Directors in common, one of whom was Charles T. Barney, President of the Knickerbocker. Mr. Lindabury undertook to show that the Trust Company of America was in difficulties on Oct. 22, the day before the publication of Mr. Perkins's statement. He read an extract from The Evening Sun of Oct. 22, saying that a meeting of all the trust company Presidents in the city had been held that morning in Mr. Thorne's office. Mr. Thorne said no such meeting had been held.

Q.—Did you attend a meeting anywhere that day? A.—I attended a meeting of the trust company branch of the State Bankers' Association. I can't remember where it was held.

Q.—Was it attended by a number of trust company Presidents? A.—Very few. None of the large trust companies were members of the association.

Q.—Wasn't the number of tellers at your bank increased on the afternoon of Oct. 22? A.—I wasn't there. I was attending the meeting you speak of.

Q.—Had you been at any conference on the financial situation before Messrs. Perkins and Davison telephoned you that night? A.—No.

Q.—You were not in close touch with the situation or aware of its gravity at that time? A.—No. The first information I had along that line was when the National Bank of Commerce refused to continue clearing for the Knickerbocker Trust Company and the next was what I learned from Messrs. Perkins and Davison.

Q.—What reason did they give for calling you over? A.—They said they had been ascertaining the condition of many institutions and wanted to be as well informed as possible, so that the situation could be taken care of.

Q.—There had been rumors affecting your bank? A.—Yes. I don't know when they started. I did not see the article in The Evening Sun of Oct. 22, till Mr. Perkins showed it to me in Washington when I testified before the Stanley Committee.

Q.—It spoke of your bank being in trouble? A.—Something to that effect.

Q.—Did the bankers perform the promises Perkins and Davison had made to you? A.—I don't think they did. They didn't furnish me with the necessary funds.

Q.—Somebody furnished the money? A.—Yes, but what I mean is that they made an an agreement with me that if my statement was found to be correct they would see me through. I understood that they would furnish the money when and as needed.

Says Morgan Helped All He Could.

Q.—Did Mr. Morgan give you help? A.—I believe Mr. Morgan personally did everything he could. He got the trust company Presidents together in his library. There was nobody else that could have done so.

Q.—Wasn't Mr. Perkins active in getting you assistance? A.—He was.

Q.—Didn't he do everything he could to relieve you? A.—That I couldn't say. As far as I know, Mr. Perkins tried hard to get the money from the bankers deposited with the Union Trust Company so that it could be paid over to me. After the run started Mr. Morgan and Mr. Perkins did everything they could.

Mr Lindabury then turned his attention to the sale of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company.

Q.—The Tennessee stock you had was all paid for? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was any pressure exerted on you to sell it? A.—No, I sold because the syndicate managers sold theirs. I was asked to deliver the stock to J. P. Morgan & Co. by Mr. Schley, who told me the deal had been made.

Q.—It was done with your assent? The deal was not forced on you? A.—No.

Q.—It has no connection with the relief of the Trust Company of America? A.—No, I never associated the two things.

Q.—Why were the examiners arranged for at midnight and sent to your bank at 7 o'clock the next morning? A.—Well, you know Perkins.

Q.—What reason was given to you for such quick action? A.—None.

Q.—There was no apprehension of a run in the morning? A.—None.

Mr. Lindabury then read an extract from The Sun of Oct. 23, which said:

"Long before the officers and clerks were prepared to go home it became known that the Trust Company of America was suffering from the public knowledge that Charles T. Barney had a loan of $175,000 from it."

"Did Mr. Barney have such a loan?" asked Mr. Lindabury.

"He had such a loan, but I am not sure of the amount. It was amply secured." Mr. Lindabury again read from The Sun:

"And that $3,000,000 of its deposits had been gently withdrawn during the day while the eyes of everybody were fixed on the spectacular Knickerbocker Trust Company's run."

"Was $3,000,000 withdrawn that day?" he asked.

"It was not," said Mr. Thorne. Mr. Lindabury continued with The Sun article:

"In the face of the danger that threatened the company through the spreading of these reports, the Directors of the Trust Company of America did not remain idle. They had $12,000,000 of cash in their vaults, but remembering the fate of the Knickerbocker Trust Company, which in two minutes and a half yesterday lost $2,500,000, they hurried to the offices of their various connections and did their best to make arrangements for temporary accommodation."

"Is that correct?" asked Mr. Lindabury.

"It is not," said Mr. Thorne.

"Some of them were present at the conference with Secretary Cortelyou." Mr. Lindabury read from The Sun. Mr. Thorne said this was not correct. He had asked every Director and they all said they were not present.

Didn't Get Relief as Needed.

A statement issued by Mr. Thorne on Nov. 6 was introduced in which he spoke of "all sorts of wild rumors" that had been afloat about the Trust Company of America:

Q.—You attributed the run and the situation in which your bank was involved to these wild rumors. Was that the occasion of your difficulties? A.—I believe that the run was caused principally by the article in THE TIMES. The rumors came afterward. The difficulty, in my mind, was that the article stated that if the bank was solvent it would be helped, and if not it would close before 1 o'clock. "Come and get your money before 1 o'clock"—that's what this article said.

Q.—Did you go to Melville E. Stone to have him clear up the situation? A.—Yes.

Q.—Mr. Perkins was working twenty hours a day at that time? A.—Yes.

Q.—He had many similar situations to take care of? A.—Yes.

Q.—He was very active and effective in doing what was done? A.—He was.

Q.—Was relief given to you "when and as needed"? A.—No. At the meeting on Oct. 23 I thought $10,000,000 was all that would be needed, but it was not.

Q.—How do you know the Examining Committee never made a report? A.—It never came back to finish its work.

Q.—Do you know whether they told Messrs. Morgan and Perkins whether your statement had been found correct. A.—They were not in a position to report because they had not examined the loans.

Q.—But the same day you got $2,500,000 and that night an additional $10,000,000? A.—Yes, but it was loaned purely on the collateral.

Q.—Don't you think the examiners had learned enough to satisfy the bankers? A.—I don't think so Osmund Phillips, financial editor of THE TIMES, testified that he obtained from George W. Perkins the information contained in the article published on Oct. 23. He told of going on the evening of Oct. 22 to the Hotel Manhattan, where a conference of financiers with Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou was held.

"The bankers came and spent some time in conference," he said. "Later I saw some of them leaving. I approached some of them, asking the results of the conference. I recall speaking to Mr. Davison and to Mr. Perkins. I put some general question to Mr. Davison but got no specific information from him. I put the same sort of question to Mr. Perkins and he told me to meet him at the Union League Club.

Intended to Allay Anxiety.

"I had seen him earlier in the day—toward the end of the afternoon—at J. P. Morgan & Co.'s. I asked him for information as to the events of the day and he told me there was nothing to be said at that time, but that there was to be a conference that night. He told me to meet him at the Union League Club after it was over."

"When you went there and saw him what did he say?"

"He said he presumed that I wanted to know about the Trust Company of America. I told him I did. He said it had been discussed at the conference, and that it had been decided to help them if the statement of their condition was found to be correct, the idea being that his statement to that effect would relieve public anxiety. I called his attention to the fact that a similar statement had been made in regard to the Knickerbocker Trust Company, which had subsequently closed. I suggested that the public might infer that the circumstances were similar and the statement might not be helpful to the Trust Company of America. Mr. Perkins explained that they had not helped the Knickerbocker Trust Company because Morgan & Co. had found that the capital and surplus of the Knickerbocker were impaired. The Trust Company of America, he said, was in a very different position. He also told me that a committee was to be appointed to make an examination of its affairs."

"Had you known Mr. Perkins before?"

"I had."

"Did he know with what paper you were connected?"

"He did."

"What did you do next?"

"I telephoned to my office what Mr. Perkins had told me, and then went back to the Manhattan, where I met the other newspaper men, who had been waiting there for me to return. I told them what Mr. Perkins had said."

Mr. Phillips testified, over objections from the Steel Corporation's counsel, that the matter was published in THE TIMES substantially as he had telephoned it. He was then cross-examined by C. A. Severance of counsel for the Steel Corporation.

Q.—The financial situation at that time was in a very mixed condition? A.—Yes.

Q.—There was a great deal of gossip going around? A.—Yes.

Q.—On that day did you hear any rumors or statements that the Trust Company of America was likely to become in difficulties? A.—I did. The first intimation came from an officer of the National Bank of North America. He said he understood that the State Banking Department had made a special examination of the trust company that day.

Q.—Did you hear anything from other sources? A.—I did. I remember somebody stopping me in the street near the building of the company and asking me what I knew about the rumors regarding it.

Q.—Was that the reason you replied as you did when Mr. Perkins said he supposed you wanted to know about the Trust Company of America? A.—It had something to do with it. I wanted to know about the situation in general.

Q.—What were the rumors? A.—The rumor was general. It was to the effect that there was some trouble with the Trust Company of America.

Q.—There was also a rumor that Charles T. Barney was a big borrower from the Trust Company of America? A.—I was so informed that afternoon by the State Bank Examiner, Mr. Judson.

Q.—Who took the interview with Mr. Judson that appears in THE TIMES article? A.—I did.

Newspaper Extracts in Evidence.

Mr. Severance introduced a copy of The Evening Post of that date, which was the day before the Perkins statement was published. He read from the Post article a statement that the Presidents of the trust companies had been meeting, and that the Presidents, who had first gathered at the Knickerbocker Trust Company, went later to the office of President Thorne at the Trust Company of America. Mr. Phillips said he had seen the article, but did not remember seeing it the day it was published.

Mr. Severance then read an extract from The Tribune of Oct. 23, saying it was reported that more than $4,000,000 had been withdrawn from the Trust Company of America the day before; that a well-known banker said his attention had been invited to the Trust Company of America, which he believed to be in a very different situation from the Knickerbocker Trust Company; that Mr. Thorne denied that his institution was in any danger. Mr. Severance also read extracts from The World of the same date referring to the Trust Company of America. He then read from THE TIMES article the interview with Bank Examiner Judson, in which Mr. Judson stated that he had made an examination of the loans of the trust company in order to investigate reports that Charles W. Morse and Charles T. Barney were heavy borrowers from it. He found that Mr. Morse had no loans, and Mr. Barney one of $175,000. Mr. Severance also read from The Evening Sun of Oct. 22, the day of the Knickerbocker failure, the statement that there had been a conference of all the trust company President's at Mr. Thorne's office. All these extracts were put in evidence.

"Did you have specifically in mind the Trust Company of America when you asked Mr. Perkins for information?" Mr. Phillips was asked by Barton Corneau, counsel for the Government.

"I don't remember that I had it in mind any more than any other possible point of danger," replied Mr. Phillips.

"Did Mr. Perkins give you any other item of news?"

"He did not."

C. W. Bray, who was President of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company up to three years ago and before that President of the Beaver Tin Plate Company, was questioned at length as to the names of the principal makers of tin plate machinery. The Government contends that the American Tin Plate Company made contracts with the manufacturers of machinery to take their entire output so that the independents could not get any. A long list of companies which were taken into the combination was read to him, and many of them, he testified, were dismantled. A few were sold to independents who continued to be competitors of the combination. The Steel Corporation maintains that the dismantling of these mills was a process of concentration and the machinery was moved to other plants.

Mr. Bray was also asked about the Gary dinners. He said he believed a general committee was appointed after the first dinner, and that it appointed the committees which were to represent the sheet and tin plate interests, both those in the Steel Corporation and the independents.

Mr. Bray will continue his testimony to-morrow.

NEWSPAPERS REPORTED ALIKE.

World, Press, Tribune, and Sun and Others Had Trust Co. Announcement.

Most of the morning papers of Oct. 23, 1907, contained articles regarding the plans agreed upon on the night of Oct. 22 to extend help to the Trust Company of America. Some also gave accounts of the rumors afloat regarding the Trust Company of America, and published estimates of the amount of cash withdrawn from the Trust Company on Tuesday, Oct. 22, the day of the Knickerbocker Trust Company failure.

The World of Oct. 23 said:

> Reports concerning the condition of other trust companies were of such a character as to prevent any reasonable prediction as to their future history, thus the feeling throughout the financial district last night seemed to be that with the suspension of the Knickerbocker the worst result of the recent financial disturbance had been realized.
>
> A conference of bankers who had been appealed to by the promoters of one or two trust companies decided at an early hour this morning to assist the Trust Company of America if found necessary, and to consider future applications of other companies if made. Oakley Thorne, the President of the Trust Company of America, owns a controlling interest in the Georgia Central Railroad and is active in other railroad and industrial ventures. The Trust Company of America has $12,000,000 in its vaults.
>
> The World is enabled to announce these important results of the conference between Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou and representative bankers, including J. Pierpont Morgan and James Stillman, at the Manhattan Hotel last night:
>
> 1. That all banks in the Clearing House Association were declared to be perfectly sound.
>
> 2. That radical reforms are to be enforced in the entire trust company system. Trust companies will no longer be permitted to continue their reckless independent methods, but are to be brought together in an organization like the Clearing House, and must submit to the entire control of such an organization.
>
> 3. That the bankers of New York must themselves complete their own housecleaning, and that all speculators and looters must be driven out of the banking business.
>
> 4. Criminal prosecutions in connection with the recent management of some New York financial institutions are probable.
>
> 5. Stand by Trust Company of America.
>
> Following the conferences between Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou and the bankers at the Manhattan Hotel, there was a meeting at a Fifth Avenue club, a few blocks away, which was attended by some of the richest men in the United States, who had been requested by some of the Directors of the Knickerbocker Trust Company to extend assistance to it.
>
> There was a full discussion of the affairs of that company, with the result that the men to whom the appeal for assistance had been directed declined to advance the money necessary to tide it over its present trouble. The conference resolved not to extend any assistance to the Knickerbocker because of the knowledge of its affairs gained earlier in the day.
>
> It was resolved, however, to extend assistance to the Trust Company of America in case it is necessary. Representatives of the Trust Company of America made a frank and convincing statement of its condition before the gentlemen in the club conference and satisfied them of its absolute solvency.
>
> The Announcement.
>
> The following is an authoritative statement issued early this morning after the series of conferences held in and near the Hotel Manhattan last night:
>
> "Attention has been directed mainly on Mr. Oakley Thorne's Trust Company of America. It is believed by Clearing House interests and the Morgan interests that the situation is vastly different from the situation that existed in the Knickerbocker Trust Company and steps have been taken to supply the Trust Company of America with any cash it may need to-day, pending an examination of the accounts of the Trust Company of America by a committee named at the conference to-night.
>
> "If the situation of the Trust Company of America is such as the conferees have every reason to believe it is, the committee, after satisfactorily completing its examination, intends to absolutely announce that the Trust Company of America would be taken care of in any eventuality."
>
> It is understood on high authority that the chief reason why the Knickerbocker Trust Company was not assisted on Monday by the Clearing House interests and by the Morgan interests was that it was considered that the capital and surplus had been impaired, and, therefore, those interests did not care to assume the responsibility of meeting the situation growing out of the unsatisfactory management of the Knickerbocker.
>
> Officials of the New Amsterdam National Bank and of the Trust Company of America flatly contradicted statements that their institutions were embarrassed and might have to call for help.

The Same Report in Other Words.

The New York Tribune, in its issue of Wednesday, Oct. 23, 1907, had these references to the Trust Company of America:

> It was reported last night that more than $4,000,000 of deposits had been withdrawn from the Trust Company of America yesterday. The man who made this statement was one of the members of the conference which included Secretary Cortelyou, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Hepburn, and others at the Hotel Manhattan.

A well-known banker who attended the conference at the Hotel Manhattan at which Secretary Cortelyou was present said after the meeting in regard to the financial situation:

"Attention has been riveted to the Trust Company of America, of which Oakley Thorne is President. It is believed by the Clearing House interests, and also the Morgan interests, that the situation in this trust company is vastly different from that in the Knickerbocker, if the condition of this company is such as those who were represented at the conference have every reason to believe.

"Those who attended the conference can announce authoritatively that the Trust Company of America is to be cared for and supplied with necessary cash, pending an investigation of the accounts of the company by a committee already named at the conferences to-night. If the position of the Trust Company of America is such as the bankers have every reason to believe, it will be cared for in every eventuality. It is understood that the chief reason the Knickerbocker Company was not assisted to-day by the Clearing House interests and those of Mr. Morgan and his associates was because it was considered that the capital and surplus of that company had been impaired."

The Trust Company of America has $12,000,000 cash in its vaults.

Story of "$4,000,000 Withdrawn."

The New York Press of the same morning, in an article dealing with the Trust Company of America, said:

> Steps were taken in the conference last night, at which Secretary Cortelyou, J. Pierpont Morgan, and representatives of the Clearing House Committee were present, to supply the Trust Company of America, of which Oakley Thorne is President, with such cash as it might need to-day. Marsden J. Perry, a Director of the company and Mr. Thorne's chief business associate, said early this morning the company was perfectly solvent and would continue on its own resources. This statement was made by one who attended the conference last night:

"Attention has been riveted on the Trust Company of America during the last twenty-four hours, and we have learned that there has been a severe run on the company. The conclusion reached by the Clearing House Committee and the J. Pierpont Morgan interests is that the situation here is radically different from what it is in the Knickerbocker Trust Company. The Trust Company of America will be supplied with what cash it needs to-day, pending an examination of its accounts by a committee named by the Clearing House and Morgan interests, and if the condition of the company is such as these interests have every reason to believe, the examining committee, after a complete examination, will authoritatively announce that the company will be taken care of in any event."

It was reported last night that more than $4,000,000 of deposits had been withdrawn from the Trust Company of America yesterday. The man who made this statement regarding the affairs of the Trust Company of America was a member of the conference that included Cortelyou and Morgan, Hepburn, and others in the Hotel Manhattan.

Statement Repeated Again.

The Sun said:

> Following Secretary Cortelyou's announcement a statement was made authoritatively that after a series of conferences last night, including the Cortelyou conference, attention was riveted on the Trust Company of America. It is believed by the Clearing House and the Morgan interests that the situation in that institution is vastly different from the situation in the Knickerbocker Trust Company, and steps have been taken to supply the Trust Company of America with any cash it may need to-day, pending examination by a committee which was named at a conference last night. If the position of the Trust Company is such, as the conferees have every reason to believe it to be, the committee, after satisfactorily completing its examination, intends to announce that the Trust Company of America will be taken care of in any eventuality.
>
> Marsden J. Perry, a Director of the Trust Company of America, said:
>
> "The Trust Company of America is as sound as any bank in the city, and will continue to do business on its own resources."
>
> The Trust Company of America has $12,000,000 in cash with which to begin business to-day. It was well understood in the financial district yesterday that the institution had sustained a loss of deposits by heavy withdrawals, and rumors regarding it were rife throughout the day. The President of the company is Oakleigh Thorne. It has $2,000,000 capital, surplus and undivided profits of $11,000,000, and deposits and total resources placed at $49,000,000 and $62,000,000 respectively in one of the recent manuals.
>
> Last January the company perfected a merger with the Colonial Trust Company, of which John E. Borne was President, and the Colonial Trust Company has since been conducted as a branch of the Trust Company of America. The company recently moved into a new skyscraper building constructed by it at 37 Wall Street.
>
> It is understood on high authority also that the chief reason the Knickerbocker was not assisted by the Clearing House interests and by Mr. Morgan and his associates was that they considered its capital and surplus impaired. These interests did not care to assume the responsibility that might grow out of these conditions

Director Foresaw Run.

The Sun of the morning of Oct. 24, quoting a statement made by a Director of the Trust Company of America on Oct. 23, said:

> The run had been anticipated, and here is the story of one of the Directors as to the preparations made to meet it:
>
> "We knew when we went to bed last night [Tuesday, Oct. 22] that almost as sure as shooting there would be a run in the morning. We knew that we had between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 that was payable to depositors on demand. We knew that we had a little over $12,000,000 in cash to begin business with in the morning. We concluded that $12,000,000 would hold 'em for a while, and damme if I didn't think the run would be over before half that amount was paid out.
>
> "It had been arranged before we went to bed on Tuesday night that Mr. Morgan and his associates should send their expert accountants to look over our books early this morning. And those expert accountants were on the job a-plenty early to suit me. They began at our books in the main office of the Colonial Branch at 6 o'clock this morning, and they made a preliminary report at 11. Neither Mr. Morgan nor any of his associates has told me what kind of a report the experts made, but I am informed that we were tried in a mighty delicate balance, and were not found wanting. In other words, I am told that Mr. Morgan and his associates were satisfied with the report."

Other Reports.

The New York Herald said:

> At a late hour this morning it was announced that a syndicate of bankers had provided a liberal sum of money to protect the Trust Company of America should a run come to that institution. An investigation of its affairs is now being made by the syndicate, which, it is understood, is composed of several of the strongest men of Wall Street.
>
> Should the investigation prove satisfactory further assistance will be granted. It is understood that J. P. Morgan, George F. Baker, and James Stillman are in a syndicate which has just agreed to furnish funds to the Trust Company of America.

The Journal of Commerce said:

> The following statement by an authority representing the Clearing House and private banking interests was made at an early hour this morning: "If the condition of the Trust Company of America is as good as the conferees have every reason to believe it is after completing its examination, they will issue an authoritative statement that the Trust Company of America will be taken care of in any event."
>
> It is understood on high authority that the chief reason why the Knickerbocker was not assisted by the Clearing House interests or by Mr. Morgan and his associates is that it was considered that its capital and surplus had been impaired, and that these interests do not care to assume the responsibility by meeting the situation growing out of the former unsatisfactory management.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

21,718,488 CIGARS A DAY.

United States Consume That Many and Also 23,736,190 Cigarettes.

The internal revenue derived from tobacco consumed in the United States in a single year would build fourteen battleships of the first class; or it would pay the salary of the President for nearly a thousand years, according to Carl Werner, editor of The Tobacco Leaf and a recognized authority on tobacco matters. Discussing the use of tobacco in this country in the current issue of The Tobacco Leaf, Mr. Werner says:

"The money spent by smokers for cigars only, not counting cigarettes, smoking and chewing tobacco, and snuff, would more than pay for the building of the Panama Canal, besides taking care of the $50,000,000 paid to the new French Canal Company and the Republic of Panama for property and franchises. In addition to this it would cover the cost of fortifying the canal.

"There are 21,718,448 cigars burned up in the United States every twenty-four hours, 904,935 every hour, 15,082 every minute, and 251 every second.

"If all the cigars smoked in the United States in one year were put together, end to end, they would girdle the earth, at its largest circumference, twenty-two times.

"As to cigarettes, there are 23,736,190 of them consumed in the United States every day, 989,007 every hour, and 16,482 every minute.

"Cigarette smokers in the United States, not counting those who roll their own smokes from tobacco, spend $60,645,966.36 for the little paper-covered rolls.

"If all the cigarettes smoked in the United States in one year were strung on a wire they would make a cable that would reach from the earth to the moon and back again, with enough left over to circle one and a half times around the globe.

"There are 533,357,206 pounds, or 266,678 tons, of tobacco smoked, chewed, and snuffed in this country every year, not counting imported manufactures.

"If this quantity of tobacco could be placed on one side of a huge balancing scale it would take the combined weight of four vast armies, each army consisting of 1,000,000 men, to pull down the other side of the scale."

CEMENT TRADE HOPEFUL.

With Canada Market Opened Better Prices Are Expected.

The report from Ottawa, Ontario, published in yesterday's TIMES, telling of a 50 per cent. reduction in cement duties for a limited period, aroused considerable comment in the New York cement market. With the domestic markets glutted with cement, the prospect of an outlet for some of the present accumulation was well received. Standard American cement quotations now call for 65 cents a barrel at the mill, and with a part of the production shipped into Canada the belief is held in certain quarters that an upward revision of prices in the domestic markets may result. There is said to be very little profit in cement at current quotations, and an advance made possible by the demand from the various markets of the Dominion will materially help to place the American industry on a firmer footing.

According to an official of a well-known company, the Canadian authorities lowered the bars in a similar manner last year, and close to 500,000 barrels of American cement crossed the border as a result. While the opinion is held that the heaviest demand will come from Western Canada, with a consequent advantage to domestic mills located in the Western States, it is believed that the important companies operating in the Lehigh Valley district will take an active part in supplying the demand coming from the eastern part of the Dominion. Although it is now too early to conjecture upon the real effect of the reduction on the domestic industry, it is generally believed that should the demand for American cement be as great or greater than that of last year manufacturers on this side of the border will receive material benefit.

STRIKE BALLOT ORDERED.

Pennsylvania Railroad Men to Vote—Engineers Seek to Enjoin Them.

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—The grievances between the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and its employes east of Pittsburg and Erie reached a serious stage this afternoon, when a general committee representing the Order of Trainmen, Order of Conductors and Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen voted to submit to their membership on the lines involved the question whether a strike should be declared unless certain differences are adjusted. About 25,000 men are involved.

The principal question is whether steam railroad men shall be employed on a certain percentage of trains running between Church Street, New York City, and Newark, or on all electric trains between Newark and Jersey City. Another question involved is the rate of wages to be paid brakemen in the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia yards of the company.

S. C. Long, general manager of the company, to-day notified the committee that the company still felt itself unable to meet the demands of the men.

An engineer employed in one of the Philadelphia yards has begun injunction proceedings to restrain the labor organizations from referring the question of a strike to the men. Hearing in the case will be heard in Common Pleas Court on Wednesday, but lawyers have notified the labor committee that it is not bound in any way by the action until a formal decree has been entered on the records of the court.

LAWYER SUING CLIENT.

W. T. Gridley Tries to Retain Lien on Lesster Will Contest Papers.

Surrogate Fowler decided yesterday that Attorney Willis T. Gridley's proceeding to retain a lawyer's lien on the papers in the contest over the estate of William C. Lesster should not interfere with the main issue in the case. Mr. Gridley was retained by William C. Lesster, 3d, who declares that he is a nephew of Mr. Lesster.

Mr. Gridley began proceedings to attack the will, which left the estate to the testator's young wife, Grace Felix Lesster, and her two infant children. He said the contestant had agreed that he should have a percentage of the share recovered if the will were broken. After the contest proceedings were begun, the contestant retained D. E. and J. F. Lynch.

Surrogate Cohalan signed an order substituting these attorneys for Mr. Gridley, who brought proceedings then to sustain his lien. These are now pending in the Court of Appeals. The papers are still in Mr. Gridley's possession. Surrogate Fowler ordered that they be placed in the custody of the court for use in the main issue, pending the settlement of the lien question.

Add Your Profits
To Your Principal

Have you studied the securities you hold, so that your money will be invested not only in the safest securities, but those which show you the best return on your money? Supposing in the past you had bought a stock selling at $100 a share and paying a dividend of 5%? Supposing the price of the stock has advanced to $150 a share it would then only yield you 3 1-3%. Supposing you sell this at $150, making a profit of $50 on your investment, or 50%, and take this $150 and invest it in a stock that will yield 5% or 6%, you are not only taking advantage of the increase in the value of the stock you originally bought, but are putting this back into another stock that will bring you a larger income.

Our Letter This Week Is On CHESAPEAKE & OHIO.

Each week we issue a weekly letter dealing with one particular stock, which after careful study we believe a good investment, yielding a good return, and also one which should increase in value. This will be sent on request. Remember, we are brokers for the small as well as the large investor. We make a specialty of executing small lots of stock, either to be bought outright, on margin, or on our monthly payment plan.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Price Changes Irregular—Crop Showing Not as Good as Expected.

Not all of the news for which the stock market was looking, not to say waiting, yesterday, came to hand, for the Supreme Court took its Summer adjournment without rendering its decision in the Union Pacific and anthracite cases, in both of which the financial community has been much interested. This means that the determination of these two important cases will go over at least until next October. What the financial district did have yesterday in the way of information of interest to finance and business generally included, principally, the monthly unfilled tonnage statement of the United States Steel Corporation and the Government June crop report. Neither of these quite came up to expectations.

It had been very generally expected that the condition of the Winter wheat crop had improved during May over the condition reported by the Government a month ago. Instead of improvement, however, nearly all the Winter wheat States showed further declines, including notably the two important States of Kansas and Nebraska, so that the condition of this crop was more than five points under the figure of the last report. This is undoubtedly disappointing in view of the hopes which had been entertained of improvement in this crop, but some compensation is to be found in the unusually high condition reported for the Spring wheat crop, though here, too, there is the drawback of a reduced acreage, if comparison be limited to the large area planted in Spring wheat last year, though this year's acreage is above that of most preceding seasons. If present indications for both Winter and Spring wheat are approximately realized, the Winter wheat yield will fall about 75,000,000 bushels under last year's yield, while the Spring wheat yield will better last year's output by about the same figures, the present promise for the total wheat yield being just a little above the actual results of last year. The promise for the oats crop is somewhat better than at this time a year ago, and considerably better than the actual results of 1911.

Although the increase in unfilled orders reported by the United States Steel Corporation yesterday was not quite as large as some recent estimates had led the financial district to expect, the showing was, nevertheless, very favorable, if it is borne in mind that the plants of the Steel Corporation were operated at practically their maximum capacity during May. It took a very large volume of new business under these circumstances to prevent an actual decrease in unfilled orders. The fact, too, that new business was taken at better prices than those obtained on the orders which were being turned out last month, is another reason for finding satisfaction in the showing made by the corporation for the last month.

Expectations of a decrease in the Imperial Bank of Germany discount rate, which were strengthened yesterday by cable advices from Berlin, suggest a somewhat less unfavorable situation in that market than many have believed to exist. This, however, does not preclude the likelihood of firm rates in that market at the close of the half-year, when even under altogether normal conditions interest rates reach a relatively high level in Berlin, owing to the large demands for credit. The weekly statement of the Bank of Germany, published yesterday, showed an increase in cash and decreases in loans and discounts as well as in circulation.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Mr. Stilwell and His Railroad.

A dispatch from Kansas City which was printed yesterday said that present indications were that A. E. Stilwell would lose control of the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient when the plans for a reorganization were effected. Mr. Stilwell lost control some months ago, unless the bondholders are deceiving themselves. When the English representatives arrived in this country to engage counsel to look after the affairs of the new line which had been wrecked by the "money trust," to quote its promoter, the first assurance they asked for was that Mr. Stilwell should have no further voice in the road's management. Nominally, he remains President until the time comes for the company to be managed by its own officers again.

One Factor Eliminated.

As long as the Supreme Court is in session, most of the customers in the brokerage offices spend the forenoon of each Monday in a condition of nervous apprehension. They don't know what bearing a decision for or against the anthracite roads would have on stocks, for the market has advanced on some of the adverse decisions handed down in previous years, but they are prepared to jump either way. With the adjournment of the court till October, Monday promises to become again a day of light attendance on the floor. While waiting for decisions yesterday trading almost came to a full stop.

⁂

Reasonable Trolley Fares.

The charges for riding on street cars vary so greatly in different sections that it is interesting to find the Public Service Commission arriving at something like an average rate of fare. Residents of Pittsford, Monroe County, who travel into Rochester to business, complained of the charge of 15 cents for the trip of less than six miles. The commission found that whereas this fare was at the rate of 2.62 cents a mile, the company's average local rate is only 1.73 cents a mile. Suburban rates generally are under 2 cents a mile, and the commission decided that it was unfair to Pittsford to charge more than 10 cents for the journey to and from the city of Rochester.

West Impresses President Day.

President Day of the Equitable Life Assurance Society has brought back from a seven weeks' tour of the West impressions of business conditions which are highly favorable. He was more especially interested in commercial and investment conditions than in the crops. "Capital shows unmistakable signs of confidence," he reports, and he recites some of the underlying factors which make for this condition. "The wealth producers of our country are hard at work," said he in concluding an interview yesterday, "and however the public may be concerned in the discussion of political and social problems, it is still more absorbed in commerce. The fundamental basis of our prosperity never gave greater promise than it does now.

Standard Oil's World Business.

The long-continued absence abroad of A. C. Bedford, Vice President of the Standard Oil Company, has been attracting attention to the aggressive fight which the American company is making in the producing as well as the marketing fields abroad. The company has had allied against it the Austrian Government, for the protection of the Galician producers, and there have been efforts to enlist the Dutch Government in behalf of the Dutch company, whose pre-eminence in the Straits is seriously threatened by the Standard interests. So far the Standard's men have outgeneraled their foreign rivals, though some of the foreign companies have the backing of the most powerful financial groups in Europe. Those who speak for the Standard here scout the idea that the company hopes to obtain a world-wide monopoly, but there is every evidence that the brains of the Standard Oil heads are being concentrated more and more on the possibilities both of production and sale in foreign countries.

⁂

Copper Slows Up.

There was less interest in copper yesterday than since the rise which carried the metal past 17 cents a pound started, a little more than a week ago. Sellers are continuing to hold at 17½ cents, but, with consumptive demands pretty well satisfied for the July and August deliveries, the trade looks for a lull, at least in domestic buying.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES.

Guaged by the averages of twenty-five typical railroad stocks and twenty-five industrials, the stock market yesterday was a bit higher at its highest than on Saturday, but it swung much lower, at lowest, the day's mean being off more than an eighth, while the close was about three-eighths below Saturday's. The averages were:

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Tobacco Issues Decline, Though General List Is Fairly Steady on Curb.

Reactions were the rule among the tobacco stocks yesterday, and some declined sharply, although the tone of the general list was firm if somewhat irregular. During the last hour United Cigar Stores, which had been weak all day, declined sharply, dropping to 235, at which price it found support, and recovered to 238. Both of the Havana Tobacco issues made small declines, and McAndrews & Forbes sold off 4 points from the opening to 187. There was a good deal of activity over the counter in Vacuum Oil, which advanced 7 points. In the mining list movements were irregular. The bond list was sluggish.

COMMERCE COURT UPHELD.

Its Injunction in Sugar Rate Case Approved by Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The Supreme Court adjourned to-day until October, leaving undecided the hard coal trust case, the Union Pacific merger case, and the State rate cases.

The Supreme Court held to-day that the Commerce Court had power to enjoin temporarily an affirmative order of the Inter-State Commerce Commission in order to review it, and therefore sent the Federal Sugar Refining Company's lighterage case back to the Commerce Court for further determination.

The case was begun before the Inter-State Commerce Commission by the Federal Sugar Refining Company. It had been held that the Federal Company was not entitled to an allowance to compensate it for having its sugar lightered to the railroads because its plant at Yonkers, N. Y., was beyond the railroad's lighterage limits. The Federal subsequently had its sugar brought to a wharf in New York and asked for the same allowance as that given to the Arbuckle Brothers, which incidentally would have been enough to pay for lightering the sugar all the way from Yonkers.

The commission held there was an unjust discrimination, but the Commerce Court issued a temporary injunction against the commission's enforcing its order. Arbuckle Brothers asserted it was not an unjust discrimination, but a just compensation for a service independent of its sugar business. The compensation was urged as being not only for lighterage, but for the railroad's use of the Arbuckle dock in Brooklyn.

The Supreme Court set aside the decree of the Supreme Court of Georgia to-day, which enjoined negro men from incorporating a lodge in that State under the name of Knights of Pythias. Chief Justice White announced the opinion. Justice Holmes announced a dissenting opinion.

The Iowa pure food law enacted in 1907 was sustained to-day by the Supreme Court.

Rehearing was denied to-day by the Supreme Court in the Old Dominion Copper case. In that suit Albert S. Bigelow of Boston recently was held liable to pay the Old Dominion Copper Mining and Smelting Company $2,100,000 as secret promoter's profits.

LOSE LAND FRAUD APPEAL.

Supreme Court Decides Against Hyde and Schneider After Eight Years.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The eight-year struggle of Frederick A. Hyde and J. H. Schneider to escape imprisonment for alleged conspiracy to defraud the Government out of lands in California and Oregon, ended in failure to-day when the Supreme Court found no error in their conviction in the District of Columbia. It was one of the famous land fraud cases of its time.

Justice Holmes announced a dissenting opinion, declaring the men should not have been tried in the District of Columbia just because an overt act was done within the District.

"With the country extending from ocean to ocean," said he, "the point is of more importance than it was a hundred years ago. The opening to the Government for oppression is indeed great."

The defendants asserted they should not have been brought to trial in the District of Columbia, but should have been tried in their home State, California. They also claimed the statute of limitations barred action.

Hyde had been fined $10,000 and sentenced to prison for two years; Schneider had been fined and sentenced to prison for one year and two months.

Justices Lurton, Hughes and Lamar concurred in Justice Holmes's dissenting opinion to-day.

John A. Benson and Henry P. Dimond, indicted with Schneider and Hyde, had been acquitted.

UNFILLED STEEL ORDERS.

Increase of Business on Books 86,098 Tons for May.

Unfilled orders on the books of the United States Steel Corporation on May 31, as reported yesterday, were 5,750,983 tons, as compared with 5,664,885 tons on April 30. This increase in May of 86,098 tons was somewhat less than Wall Street had been expecting, but the fact that shipments were at a heavy rate during the month was generally accepted as a sufficient explanation.

Unfilled tonnage is now at its highest point since Dec. 31, 1909, when the orders on the books aggregated 5,927,031 tons, a figure from which they declined steadily until a year later, Dec. 31, 1910, the total was only 2,674,757 tons, the lowest on record. Tonnage figures have now been increasing month by month since May 31 of last year. They were at 3,113,187 when the upturn started. The highest tonnage of unfilled orders on record was that reported at the close of the last quarter of 1906, when the total was 8,489,718 tons.

BUSINESS SOUND IN GERMANY

Deutsche Bank Cables Speyer & Co. Correcting Impressions Here.

The Deutsche Bank of Berlin, in a cable dispatch to Speyer & Co., yesterday reviewed the German business and financial situation in a way which did not support rumors of an unfavorable nature which recently have been current here. After reciting the probability that the German bank rate will probably be reduced today to 4½ per cent., the cable dispatch says:

"Position Reichsbank about same as last year; activity German export trade enormous, which of lasting importance for trade balance. Technical market situation much improved by liquidation. In contrast with last year's failure feed, sugar beet, and potato crops, crop prospects favorable so far; small local failures referred to your papers no importance whatever. Consider situation Germany thoroughly sound.

BEEF WITNESSES GAIN TIME.

Grand Jury Action on Perjury Charges Delayed Till Fall.

CHICAGO, June 10.—Grand Jury action against witnesses who testified in the trial of the Chicago meat packers, who were acquitted on a charge of violating the criminal section of the Sherman law last Winter, may not be taken until next Fall.

The Special Grand Jury, which is to be sworn in before United States District Judge Carpenter to-morrow, it is said, will not take up the alleged charges of perjury against certain witnesses which the Government's attorneys have under investigation.

Recent communications between the United States Attorney General and officials here have resulted, it is said, in a decision that the proposed Grand Jury investigation will consume too much time to be undertaken by the new Grand Jury.

San Domingo Customs Receipts Up.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The customs receipts of Santo Domingo are still increasing rapidly under American control as shown by the fact that for the nine months ended April, 1912, they aggregated $2,683,530, an increase over the corresponding period of last year of $256,258.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Salomon Brothers & Hutzler, members of the Stock Exchange, announce their removal from 80 Broadway to 20 Broad Street.

The Maiden Lane Savings Bank has decided to continue interest payments at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum.

The American Locomotive Company has sold $3,600,000 5 per cent. gold notes of an authorized issue of $6,000,000. The new notes are dated July 1, 1912, and are due at the rate of $1,200,000 each year, beginning 1915. They are redeemable at the option of the company at 102 and interest.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Bank of England Obtains Bulk of New Gold—Paris Prices Irregular—Berlin Firmer.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Tuesday, June 11.—The Times says in its City article to-day:

"The rate for day-to-day advances and short fixtures was unaltered yesterday. Money for overnight was abundant at the close, and was lent at 2 per cent. Bills were not eagerly sought for, the supply offering being slightly larger than on Saturday. Discount rates were firm, and few July maturities were taken to the Bank of England.

"The Bank of England will probably secure most of the South African bar gold this week. The Berlin cheque has moved in favor of London, and the return of the Reichsbank shows increase of strength.

"The Stock Exchange was rather dull in most departments, as the settlement of mining shares begins to-day and of other securities to-morrow.

"Consols fell 1-6. Foreign markets showed irregular changes. Moscow scrip fell sharply, and Canadian Pacific shares closed appreciably lower. The mining issues gave way a little all around. On the other hand, home railway stocks recovered considerably.

"Marconi shares were in demand in anticipation of the company's report, which was published after official hours, and were slightly higher on the balance. Hudson Bay shares were flat and industrial securities declined."

PARIS, June 10.—Prices moved irregularly on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 93 francs 87½ centimes for the account.

BERLIN, June 10.—The Boerse was firmer to-day. Realizing continued, but the offerings were readily taken.

STOLEN SILKS SEIZED.

Dougherty's New "Loft Workers' Squad" Makes Important Arrests.

Louis Kaplan, an auctioneer at No. 128 East Third Street, and Kaplan's assistant, Alexander Pinkin, were arrested yesterday at that place charged with receiving stolen goods. At the same time the police seized silks valued at $5,000, which they assert were carried off by burglars when the loft of Rosenbaum & Lippner at 779 Broadway was looted on the night of June 7 last. The stolen silks were found in the basement next door.

The arrests and seizure of goods were made by what Second Deputy Commissioner Dougherty calls his "Loft Workers' Squad." This squad is composed of Acting Capt. McKinney and Detectives Glynn, Schoenig, Daly, Botti, and Oliver. Acting Capt. McKinney and Detectives Oliver and Schoenig were the officers who arrested Kaplan and Pinkin. Representatives of Rosenbaum & Lippner looked over the seized silks and identified them as the property of that firm.

The detectives say that, although Kaplan admitted renting the basement at No. 130, he could not explain the presence of the silks there and denied all knowledge of them.

Second Deputy Commissioner Dougherty said that within the last two months the "Loft Workers' Squad" had made twenty arrests for receiving stolen goods and had recovered stolen property to the value of $100,000.

FROST INJURES FRUIT.

Crops for 50 Miles Around Buffalo Seriously Damaged.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 10.—The damage done to the crops by the frost which visited the entire western section of New York State last Friday night and Saturday morning is much greater than first reported. Almost every farm within a radius of fifty miles suffered.

At Silver Springs the frost on Saturday morning practically ruined the gardens, and great damage was done to small fruit. Throughout the Chautauqua County grape belt the loss due to frost will amount to thousands of dollars. The temperature was so low that ice formed in pools of water. Early potatoes, corn, strawberries, and tomatoes suffered severely. Farmers in the vicinity of Attica, especially in the lowlands, report considerable loss to beans and corn. The corn crop was practically killed, and will have to be replanted.

At Arcade the damage is estimated at several hundred dollars. In the vicinity of Forestville nearly all the crops will have to be replanted. Reports from Castile are particularly discouraging. Corn, tomatoes, peas, and melon vines are dead as a result of the frost. Many fields of early potatoes that were six to eight inches in height are now flat on the ground.

The damage north of Buffalo, in Niagara County, apparently was not so great as that in the counties to the east and south.

SIGNED AWAY CLAIM FOR $25.

Woman's Plea That Railroad Agent Practiced Fraud Fails.

Supreme Court Justice Page denied yesterday the application of Maria Manz for a cancellation of a release which she declares was fraudulently obtained from her by an agent of the New York Central Railroad after she had been severely injured in an explosion at the Lexington Avenue yards on Dec. 16, 1910.

Miss Manz, who was a governess in a private family at the time, testified that she had been thrown violently against the wall, and had so injured her head that she was in bed for weeks in a state of coma and delirium. Her physician, Dr. J. A. Dillon, said that Miss Manz could not have been in a condition to know what she was signing on the day that the release agent managed to get to her room while she was in bed, and caused her to sign a release for the sum of $25. He further declared that Miss Manz had been affected mentally by the accident, and that her memory had since been deficient.

In his opinion Justice Page says:

"The plaintiff has failed to prove that the release was obtained by fraud or that she had insufficient mental capacity to understand her acts and the effect of signing the release."

Miss Manz's suit for $25,000 against the railroad will be dropped.

A Profitable Study

INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITIES. Present opportunities for placing capital securely with assured large returns are exceptional and are being increasingly utilized. The most conservative investors are appreciating the fact that they can obtain better than 4 to 5 per cent. on their money without jeopardizing their principal in the slightest degree.

OUR OFFERINGS. The securities which we offer are those of long established, ably managed and regular dividend paying manufacturing corporations that have made very high reputations for themselves. These stocks yield from 6 to 7 per cent. and in several cases even better. All possess a stable market and a high collateral value.

FULL INFORMATION: Our 40-page monthly circular gives much valuable information. The June issue is of exceptional interest, containing an instructive discussion of the relative merits of preferred stocks and typical investment bonds. Sent on application.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Almost at the same time that the Government crop report figures were received from Washington word also came that the United States Supreme Court had adjourned until Oct. 14 next without having handed down its long awaited anthracite trust decision, this combination of news being succeeded by a selling movement which carried prices down sharply on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Earlier in the day the market had been of a waiting character most of the time. The showing by the United States Steel Corporation of an increase in unfilled orders on the books last month of 86,098 tons attracted attention, but failed to stimulate the dealings. There was a transaction in Pittsburgh Coal at 22, the only sale of that stock reported in Wall Street.

PERE MARQUETTE PICKS UP.

Receivers Will Ask to Issue $3,500,000 Certificates for New Work.

Receivers of the Père Marquette met the Bondholders' Protective Committee in this city yesterday and decided to ask the courts for permission to issue $3,500,000 of receivers' certificates. Of the proceeds, $1,800,000 will be used to pay off maturing obligations, and the remaining $1,700,000 will be spent for new equipment.

It was said by the receivers that the Père Marquette's affairs had greatly improved in recent months and that the car movement is now considerably larger. The delays in freight shipments to which the Railroad Commission objected have been eliminated, and net earnings are increasing. Work will be started soon on 100 miles of road which is to be relaid with ninety-pound rails.

It is optional with the subscribers to make payments in two installments, one payable June 24 and the other Nov. 1.

The common stockholders have agreed to purchase such new stock as shall not have been subscribed for by the preferred stockholders on or before June 24.

HARLEM DIDN'T REPORT.

Information Minority Expected June 1 Not in Yet.

Although the resolution adopted by the Directors of the New York & Harlem called upon the management to furnish minority interests with data asked for by June 1, it was said yesterday that the minority committee had not yet received the report.

Judge William N. Cohen, who appeared at the meeting on behalf of the Harlem stockholders who have so far refused to accept the $350 offered for their stock, called for a list of the Harlem's assets and the details of any leases or sales which have been made. The minority expects to be able to show that there is a considerable equity above the price offered them.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

Advances Made in Several Local Issues on Exchanges in Other Cities.

Local stocks showed gains on several of the exchanges in other cities yesterday, as told in special dispatches to THE TIMES.

In Baltimore Houston Oil shares, especially the common, continued strong and in demand, and both the common and preferred moved up to a higher level.

In Boston the bidding up of certain specialties was the feature of the market. Butte and Superior, Island Creek, and Pond Creek were higher on large transactions. The coppers were very firm, but not so active as of late. Allouez was in good demand. Calumet and Arizona was strong, selling up to 78, up a point for the day, although this gain was not held. Isle Royale was stronger, selling up to 31⅜. Old Dominion made a fractional gain to 59⅞, within ⅛ of the highest of the year. Hancock was in good demand on the report that copper had been encountered at the bottom of the shaft.

In Chicago Sears-Roebuck was again a feature, and after selling higher it met with realizing sales, causing the price to react, and closed at 189, a point lower than Saturday. A rather sudden demand for Street's Western Palace Stable Car Company common stock sprang up and the price advanced from 8 to 10⅛. Moderate buying of Illinois Brick shares around 67½ was credited to insiders. The stock closed at 67.

In Philadelphia dealings moved within narrow limits. What interest there was grouped itself about a few stocks, with Philadelphia Electric as the centre of activity. On persistent inquiry this stock moved up to 22⅝, a new high level since it has been on the basis of $17.50 paid in. The demand, however, did not bring out the stock in any large quantities. Brokers have been unable to fathom the source of the buying, but it continues of a confident character.

Duty Reduced on Willow Umbrella Stands—Other Decisions.

The Mark Cross Company was successful yesterday before the Board of United States General Appraisers when it was decided that stained willow umbrella stands may enter at rates lower than those imposed by Collector Loeb. The articles were returned of duty as willow furniture, with duty at the rate of 45 per cent., under the provisions of Paragraph 212 of the Tariff Act of 1909. Duty was claimed at 40 per cent. ad valorem, under Paragraph 214 as stained baskets. Judge McClelland orders the entries reliquidated on the basis of the lower duty.

The board denied claims by F. G. Sternberg and F. W. Ashby affecting the classification of finished window sash parts, frames, &c. They were assessed at 45 per cent., under Paragraph 199 of the present tariff as manufactures of metal not specially provided for. The merchandise was alleged to be dutiable as structural shapes or forms at specific rates according to value. Judge Fischer finds that the contentions are without merit and affirms the Collector's action.

A protest by Germain, Hoffbauer & Helm Company, was sustained. The firm imported, under the Act of 1897, feather boas, stoles, and feather articles known as "fancies" on which duty was exacted at the rate of 50 per cent. ad valorem, under the provisions of Paragraph 425. The importers claimed the merchandise to be dutiable at 45 per cent. as manufactures in chief value of metal. The board decided the issue last November adversely to the importers, but at their request, the case was reopened in order to introduce new evidence.

Judge McClelland states that in the record now before the board, it appears and is established that certain of the feather boas and stoles covered by a large number of protests, contained, and were made in part, of wire. It is held that the goods made with wire are dutiable as claimed, while others not so constructed, will stand the duty as assessed.

A controversy between the Government and H. Frank Darrow and Maltus & Ware, was decided in favor of the importers. The merchandise consisted of varieties of trees and shrubs which were assessed for duty at 25 per cent. ad valorem as nursery stock, under the terms of the present tariff. They were claimed to be free of duty under the provision for evergreen seedlings. In sustaining the protests, Judge Waite says that evergreens propagated from seed, as distinguished from other methods of propagation, are evergreen seedlings within the meaning of the law, and should be free, under Paragraph 668, regardless of their age, size, or subsequent treatment.

APPROVE ROAD'S BOND ISSUE.

Boston & Albany to Spend $1,000,000 in Improvements.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 10.—The Public Service Commission has authorized the Boston & Albany Railroad Company to issue $1,000,000 in 25-year 4½ per cent. bonds to be sold at not less than par for various improvements to its property in New York and Massachusetts. The application has been approved by the Massachusetts Railroad Commission.

The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company has been authorized to guarantee the issue.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

Grains Sluggish — Cotton Up on Storm Alarms—Pork Firm.

The grain markets were dull all day and somewhat lower, awaiting the Government report. The report on wheat was less favorable than expected, and the curb advanced sharply. The report on oats was very favorable. No report was made on corn. Provisions were firm. Cotton scores a good advance with further buying by large interests. There were fears of a Gulf storm, although crop complaints are not numerous. The foreign market was firm, in spite of recent claims of a poor trade in parts of Germany and Austria. Cottonseed oil is steadier, with other speculative markets. Consuming demand is slow. Coffee started steady on the cables, but reacted with demand lacking urgency.

WHEAT.

The wheat market waited all day for the Government report, selling off about ⅛c a bushel, closing at about the low point, but on the curb advanced about 1@1⅛c a bushel, with a good deal of covering of shorts owing to the unexpectedly unfavorable report. The State reports which have so far come out have pointed to a bullish Government report, but the trade was not prepared for a condition of 74.3 on Winter wheat, compared with 79.7 last month. The losses were serious in the Ohio Valley and the Southwest, Ohio losing 8 points, Indiana 10, Illinois 11, Missouri 7, Nebraska 11, Kansas 5, and Oklahoma 7. But for the fact that the Pacific Coast conditions were maintained or improved, the total loss would have been greater than reported, as the serious losses were east of the Rockies and mainly in States of large production. The indicated wheat crop was 363,000,000 bushels, against 370,000,000 bushels last month and final of 430,000,000 bushels last year. The average condition of Spring wheat was high, as expected — 95.8, against 94.6 last year and a ten-year average of 93.8. The area was 19,201,000 acres, a loss of 1,556,000 acres from the area sown last year, which was much more than looked for. The estimated Spring wheat crop was 265,000,000 bushels, against 284,000,000 bushels estimated a year ago and 191,000,000 bushels final a year ago. The total indicated Winter wheat crop was 628,000,000 bushels, against 621,000,000 bushels final last year. As the carry-over of old wheat is estimated at about 25,000,000 bushels less than last year, it indicates a shortage in the total supply, compared with a year ago, of 20,000,000 bushels, with an increase in the home needs on account of the growth of the population. The indicated rye crop was 38,976,000 bushels, against 33,119,000 bushels final last year. The visible supply showed a decrease of 2,437,000 bushels of domestic wheat, an increase of 86,000 bushels of bonded wheat, and an increase of 1,190,000 bushels in Canada. The world's exports were a record for the season — 16,800,000 bushels, against 9,968,000 bushels last week and 12,512,000 bushels last year. The amount afloat for Europe increased 688,000 bushels. The local cash market was nominal. Four loads of Manitoba were reported for export at outports. No. 2 red was quoted at $1.20½, f. o. b.; No. 1 Northern, $1.26¼; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.21; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.16.

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN.—This market was firm at the opening, but later sold off, with considerable pressure on the nearby deliveries owing to an increase in the visible supply of 728,000 bushels and reports of an increase in offerings of spot corn. The weather reports were favorable. The world's corn exports were a record, amounting to 8,861,000 bushels, against 5,191,000 bushels last year. The amount of corn on passage increased 3,850,000 bushels, with the present total 26,911,000 bushels, against 12,810,000 bushels last year. The local market was nominal, with No. 2 corn quoted at 82½c, f. o. b.

OATS.—The market was dull and heavy, after a little early exhibition of strength, and closed at the low point. Weather and crop conditions were favorable. The visible supply showed a decrease of 1,655,000 bushels of domestic oats, a decrease of 740,000 bushels of bonded oats, and a decrease of 408,000 bushels in Canada. The Government report made the area 37,844,000 acres, against 37,763,000 last year; present condition, 91.1, against 85.7 last year and 88.4 the ten-year average; indicated crop, 1,109,000,000 bushels, against 922,000,000 bushels final last year. The condition of the hay crop was given at 89.8, a gain of 4.1, compared with last month, and the condition of pastures 93.7, against 81.7 last month. Cash oats quiet, with standards 61c, elevator; No. 3 whites, 60½@61c; No. 2 whites, 61½c.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was dull and firm. Offerings were small, and with somewhat disappointing receipts of hogs at all points and the higher live-hog market, prices advanced. Leading bull interests were reported supporting the market.

COTTONSEED OIL.

A higher cotton and lard market had a sympathetic effect on oil values during the session. There was a fair outside demand, particularly for the new crop deliveries. Refiners were thought to be selling on the bulge, but offerings were not depressing. Consuming inquiry remains very quiet from both domestic and foreign quarters. The steadiness of values recently in face of this slow demand has not been without effect on sentiment with bulls claiming that if the stocks of unsold oil are other than light, it is surprising that there is not more pressure in the near positions in the way of hedges emanating from refiners.

The claim, furthermore, by this contingent is that it would be unreasonable to suppose that large concerns with moderate stocks would wait until a late date to utilize futures as an outlet for their surplus. Still others are obsessed with the belief that those with fair supplies are confident of a betterment in the consuming trade of the near future sufficient to absorb the available oil. Meanwhile, however, there is quiet selling by interests which have been and ostensibly are still favoring higher prices. Of course, if refiners have already hedged by selling future contracts, their ideas as to the supply and demand situation will largely determine the course of futures.

COTTON.

The undertone to the market was again distinctly firm, and, while the tenor of new values was more mixed, it was generally conceded that the character of the buying was responsible for much of the gain rather than the crop and other information at hand. Initial quotations were from 5 to 7 points higher, due largely to comparative firmness of the Liverpool market, with light offerings noted at that centre and a moderate business in their spot department. Offerings locally were also light, and, while in the late trade it appeared as though cotton was being sold by some of the large bulls, the volume which was placed upon the market did not prevent final prices from being within a few points or about the high level of the session.

Prominent spot concerns were once more conspicuous in the absorption of contracts. The action of the market has been anything but comforting to shorts, and the firmness of the list has actuated a great deal of covering without radically changing sentiment. The technical position is probably more vulnerable than for several days as a result of the reduction in the outstanding short interest, but, inasmuch as outside buying has been restricted by the favorable crop news, the speculative market from this standpoint is not regarded as a weak one. For several days now the list has not fluctuated in conformity with the bear news, so that it was natural for even intrepid operators to display uneasiness, fearing that a change in the situation at the South would not advantageously affect them.

As has been expected, more settled weather developed over Sunday, with week-end crop advices favorable in the main, but with more rain predicted in parts of Alabama, Georgia, and South Carolina, reports that there was a storm at the mouth of the Mississippi River, and that storm warnings had been issued along the South Atlantic and Gulf Coast, there seemed enough uncertainty to further discourage bear pressure. Nothing in the way of a tornado was anticipated, but moderate to heavy rains were not thought to be unlikely with precipitation unnecessary at this time in most parts of the East. There was no moisture forecasted for the West, excepting for showers in East Texas, whereas rains would be beneficial over much of that State and Oklahoma. Many are still of the belief, however, that moisture is not urgently required in the Southwest; in fact, one prominent expert is of the opinion that a dry June would be more helpful than a wet one over many of these sections.

The National Ginners' Association in their summary, noted insects in various parts of Texas, Mississippi, and Louisiana, but no damage has occurred as yet. Stands were reported nearly everywhere as good, but these advices also were to the effect that rain was needed in Northern and Western Texas, and within the next ten days over Oklahoma. Meanwhile Southern spot markets continue firm, and at a substantial parity over the local market. New York spot cotton yesterday was 10c advance; middlings, 11.75c. Demand for spots is believed to be rather light, but the steadiness of values is indicative of light offerings.

COFFEE.

Coffee opened steady, 1 to 2 points higher, and continued steady early on an advance of 50 reis in Santos. Cost and freight offers from Brazil were steady at about last week's quotations, and private advices from Brazil said that American roasters had been good buyers there at the close of last week. An easier feeling then developed, and the close was at a net loss of 3 to 6 points. Total sales, 53,500 bags. Much of the trading was switching from July and September into the later positions. Havre was steady early, but eased off, closing unchanged to ¼f net lower, while Hamburg was ¼@½ pfennig higher.

Rio was unchanged.

Spot coffee, 14¼c for Rio 7.

Total warehouse deliveries in the United States for the week were 132,072 bags, against 68,880 bags last week, and 100,296 bags last year; of the former amount New York had 59,745 bags.

Receipts at Rio and Santos for the week totaled 87,000 bags, compared with 80,000 bags the previous week, 73,000 bags last year, and 78,000 bags two years ago.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Van Cortlandt Estate Sale Brings Total of $1,449,175 for 719 Lots — Umbria Apartment on West End Avenue in $1,200,000 Deal — Dyckman Flats Sold — Suburban Market.

The auction sale of the Van Cortlandt estate property ended last night shortly after 7 o'clock, with a grand total of $1,449,175 for the 719 lots offered, or an average of $2,015 a lot. Joseph P. Day kept continuously on the auction block from noon to the finish, and over 1,000 persons remained to the end. The highest price obtained for a single parcel was $37,500 for the 50-foot lot on the southwest corner of Broadway and 238th Street, at the foot of the subway station, and the Broadway lot adjoining it, about 25 feet wide, brought $16,000. The sale yesterday comprised 297 lots, being the balance of the unsold portion from Saturday.

The good prices obtained for the property, the interest shown by the investors, and the large attendance during both days, showed conclusively, according to Mr. Day, J. Clarence Davies, who acted as one of the managers of the sale for the estate, and the lawyers, that good property ripe for improvement in the city can always be sold. The cry of dull market, in their opinion, was utterly disproved by the results of the sale, which, in many respects, was the largest and most notable estate sale ever offered at auction in the city.

Umbria Apartment in Big Deal.

One of the newest of the high class twelve story apartment houses recently erected on West End Avenue, the Umbria, on the northwest corner of West End Avenue and Eighty-second Street, has been sold by Harry Schiff to Helen L. Gillender Asinari. The property, which has a frontage of 102.2 feet on the avenue and 100 feet on the street, has been held at $850,000. There was a trade element in the deal, the buyer giving in part payment the eleven-story loft structure at 17 and 19 West Seventeenth Street, on a plot 53 by 92 feet. This figured in the deal at $350,000, the aggregate value of the two properties involved being $1,200,000.

The Huston & Spracker Company were the brokers, and they have been appointed agents for both buildings. The Umbria was completed and opened last October, and is fully rented, the annual rent roll being $85,000. It is one of several fine apartments lately erected by Harry Schiff on the west side. He recently purchased the old Straus homestead on the north block front of 105th Street, between Broadway and West End Avenue, for apartment house improvement in the near future, and on Sunday was recorded his purchase of a large plot, 102.5 by 133.5, on the northwest corner of Broadway and Eighty-fourth Street.

Another West Side deal in which Mr. Schiff was involved included the sale by him through David Stewart and the William Lemberg Company to the Bendheim Construction Company, of the two six-story apartment houses from 308 to 314 West 111th Street, covering a plot 75 by 106 feet, and the six-story apartment at 304 and 306 West 111th Street, on plot 37.6 by 90 by 106 feet, to a client of David Stewart. They were held at $225,000.

Washington Heights Deals.

The six-story apartment house, known as the Harriet, at 617 West 143d Street, between Broadway and Riverside Drive, has been sold to an investor by the Braude-Papae Company for the Domain Realty Company. The plot is 75 by 99.1 and was purchased through the same brokers by the sellers last February. The buyer takes in part payment from the Domain Realty Company a country estate at Ossining. The properties in the deal aggregated in value about $200,000.

The three buildings at 4,230 Broadway, between 179th and 180th Streets, on plot 25.6 by 83 and irregular, has been resold by L. J. Phillips & Co. for Ennis & Sinnott to Daniel B. Freedman.

Sells Dyckman Apartments.

The new five-story non-elevator apartment houses in the Dyckman section at 121 to 127 Vermilyea Avenue, near 207th Street, have been sold for the Vermilyea Realty Company by the Frank L. Fisher Company to an investor. The plot is 100 by 150 feet.

Harlem Flat Sold.

The five-story flat at 2,204 Seventh Avenue, between 130th and 131st Streets, on plot 26 by 75, has been sold by Rosanna Varley to an investor.

Buys Leroy Street Tenements.

The old buildings now used as tenements at 19 Leroy Street, between Bleecker and Bedford Streets, on plot 25 by 90, have been purchased by Harris and Maurice Mandelbaum through Pepe & Brother. Hannah B. Wool of Ridgefield Park, N. J., was the seller.

Large Deal in Yonkers.

A large deal in South Yonkers, involving Bronx property in trade, has just been consummated between the Gerbereux Company and Michael J. Walsh, whereby the latter acquires a plot of eight lots. Six of these lots adjoin the Central Methodist Church to the south on Hamilton Avenue and the other two lots are situated on the westerly side of Elliott Avenue, forming an "L" with the Hamilton Avenue plot. These properties were held at about $24,000. Mr. Walsh gave in part payment apartment structures in the Bronx. M. A. Broderick and Thomas S. Burke were the brokers in the transaction.

Brooklyn.

A plot, 200 by 100 feet, on the west side of Junius Street, 100 feet south of Pitkin Avenue, has been purchased by Samuel Rubel from Isaac Levingsen, the consideration being $20,000. In part payment Mr. Rubel gave a plot 75 by 100 on the west side of Junius Street, 215 feet south of Liberty Avenue.

The Samuel Galitzka Company have sold for Samuel Paulstein and Samuel J. Paulstein to William Gorden and John Robert Gorden a plot, 20 by 100, on Seventy-fifth Street, 115 feet east of Fifth Avenue.

Robert Frith has sold 233 Dean Street, a three-story dwelling, for Carrie M. Jenkins to Edwin Kearn, for investment.

F. C. Sauter has sold 675 Seventy-fifth Street for Charles Sayles to Frederick Wyeth.

Suburban.

The Stanley Agency has sold for Jane V. McMorris a plot on the south side of Terrace Avenue, Jamaica, 40 by 100, to Carl Mann. It will be improved with a dwelling.

The Theodore C. Doremus farm of 111 acres at Towaco, N. J., has been sold by Edward P. Hamilton & Co. to a client for occupancy.

Big Bronx Theatre Lease.

The large theatre in the Community Building, which James F. Meehan is erecting on Southern Boulevard and 163d Street, facing Hunt's Point Plaza, in one of the most active sections of the Bronx, has been leased by Miss Cecil Spooner. She has taken a lease of twenty years at an aggregate rental of $650,000, the deal being negotiated by her husband, Charles E. Blaney. The theatre will be the largest in the Bronx, seating over 2,000 persons. It is to be completed for opening next Fall.

John Tyler has leased the Beach House at Sea Girt, N. J., for the Jackson Realty Company of Philadelphia to Mrs. G. A. Briggs, formerly proprietor of the Greenwich Inn., Sound Beach, Conn.

BUILDING MATERIAL.

Mr. Landlord

Your downtown private house is not paying enough income.

We specialize on this matter.

This means that we will submit an architect's plan, a builder's figure and a sketch of the completed work—all together.

Suppose we prove that by an initial investment you can double or triple your rent. Are you interested?

Think of these few words with the big idea behind them for just fifteen minutes. We can do exactly what we say.

Our motto is: No obligation unless plans are accepted.

FACE BRICK

Water, having penetrated through the joints to the back of a wall built of bricks that are too non-absorbent, works its way to the interior wall surfaces.

Seepage, sweating, condensation, and interior evaporation produce a condition of continuous saturation on such walls. This trouble is avoided where Hydraulic-Press Bricks are used. 500,000,000 made annually.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The area of low pressure over the Gulf of Mexico has its centre south of the Louisiana coast. It is causing strong east winds and rain along the South Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

Scattered rains continue over the Rocky Mountain regions, and there were showers Monday in Northern New England. In other parts of the country fair weather prevailed.

Temperature has risen somewhat over the great central valleys and in the Middle Atlantic States and New England, and has changed little elsewhere.

Indications are that the weather will be unsettled, with rains Tuesday and Wednesday along the South Atlantic and Gulf Coasts and in the upper Mississippi Valley and the Rocky Mountain region. In all other portions of the country fair weather will continue.

Temperatures will not change decidedly in any portion of the country during the next forty-eight hours.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate west; Middle Atlantic Coast, light to moderate variable; South Atlantic Coast, brisk east.

Steamships departing Tuesday for European ports will have moderate west winds and fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND WEDNESDAY

Eastern New York and Southern New England—Fair Tuesday and Wednesday; moderate west winds.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Tuesday and Wednesday; light variable winds.

Northern New England—Fair and somewhat warmer Tuesday. Wednesday fair; moderate west winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission has approved the following:

Report of Mr. Ihlseng, examiner, in re the protest of Clarence Drew, attorney for a client, against the advertisement for assistant electrical engineer (examination to be held June 20) because it seems to discriminate against the practical men and tends toward an "academic aristocracy" or favoring corporate interests.

Report of Mr. Ihlseng in regard to request for information from the Fire Commissioner as to advertised specifications for assistant electrical engineer, who fears that an incompetent man may succeed in passing the examination, if it is held along the lines of his interpretation of the advertisement. Mr. Ihlseng states that after conference with Mr. Bonnett, who is to prepare the papers, he believes a test can be formed to satisfy both the Fire Department and the Department of Water Supply, Gas, and Electricity.

Report of Mr. Murray recommending that the request of the Department of Water Supply, Gas, and Electricity for a promotion examination from draughtsman's helper to architectural draughtsman be denied, as the reasons advanced for the holding of same do not appear to be urgent.

Report of Mr. Murray recommending that the request of the Commissioner of Public Works, Manhattan, for a promoition examination from assistant foreman to cabinet maker in the Bureau of Public Buildings and Offices for Joseph Strasser be denied for lack of power, as there is no provision in the rules which authorizes a promotion examination from the competitive to the labor class.

Letter from Florence Shelton, 1,184 Boston Road, City, stating that when she presented her application for Inspector in the Bureau of Fire Prevention it was not accepted for the reason that, according to the date of birth given by her, she was under 25 years of age. She now produces a baptismal certificate showing that she has attained the age of 25, and therefore the date first given was an error.

Report of Mr. Murray relative to the examination ordered for promotion to Deputy Medical Superintendent of Hospitals, for which only two persons filed applications, although Mr. Borden, the Secretary, states that all persons eligible for examination were informed of the promotion examination. Mr. Fuld visited the hospital and reported that four persons were employed under titles to which the examination was open. Two of these filed applications and one is ineligible through length of service, and one, Dr. Mosely, has not filed. Mr. Murray states that as the two persons who filed have been employed only a short time, they be instructed to furnish the commission with an account of their qualifications.

No application will be accepted unless properly executed and filed with District Secretary Coles prior to the hour of closing business on June 26. CONFESSION UNTRUE, M'KENNA NOW SAYS

Told of Hiding Child's Body Just to Escape Police Torture, His Lawyers Declare.

SUFFERED "THIRD DEGREE"

Insists Police Rehearsed Him on His Confession and Forced Him to Repeat It to the Coroner.

Joseph J. McKenna, who is in the Tombs charged with murdering six-year-old Sigrid Eckstrom of 1,075 Ogden Avenue, the Bronx, and who confessed that he had hidden her body in the cellar of the adjoining house after accidentally dropping the child on her head in the tiled hallway of her home, repudiated his confession yesterday. In a statement made through his lawyers, A. H. Vitale and E. Klein of 41 Park Row, he denied that he had anything to do with causing the death of the girl.

"It was a bold hold-up," asserted both Mr. Vitale and Mr. Klein after spending an hour with their client in the Tombs yesterday afternoon. "The confession was first forced from McKenna on Saturday night by the police, and then repeated before the District Attorney and the Coroner, McKenna having been promised freedom if he assented to the "frame-up." He is not responsible for the confession, and there is absolutely no foundation to it. We intend to get at the very bottom of this outrage, and McKenna assures us that he can point out who his persecutors were. We saw black and blue marks on his body and we believe his story."

Mr. Klein said that the defense would not try to set up an alibi, but would admit that McKenna was at or near his home when the crime was committed.

"Sigrid Eckstrom was killed on Thursday evening," said he, "and the police lay stress on the fact that McKenna left the home of his brother-in-law, A. J. Carroll of 1,077 Ogden Avenue, with whom he was living, on Friday morning. It is true that he left on Friday, but simply because he was on a search for work. His occupation as gardener naturally led him to the outskirts of the city, and, besides, he had sisters in New Rochelle whom he intended to visit.

"While waiting to change cars in Mount Vernon he was arrested for vagrancy, and subsequently was discharged. That was likely to happen to any one of McKenna's description. Then he proceeded to his sister's home in New Rochelle. All that time he did not know that he was suspected of murder. Mr. Carroll, his brother-in-law, when he heard of the suspicion created by McKenna's absence, hastened to notify McKenna. He found him at his sister's home and brought him to the home of McKenna's father, at 2,149 Southern Boulevard.

"Then—and the police forgot to mention this—Mr. Carroll himself notified the detectives, and told them that he would produce McKenna at Southern Boulevard and 181st Street. That was done, and thus McKenna voluntarily gave himself up.

"At first the police treated McKenna very nicely at the Morrisania Police Station, but when he refused to answer questions they began to shove him around, and then to punch him with their fists and to beat him with a club. The inquisition lasted far into the night, and one man, so the prisoner has told us, held a gun up to him and threatened to kill him if he didn't confess to killing the girl. Finally, when his nerves were all unstrung and when he was beaten on all sides, he answered 'Yes, yes, yes,' to all their questions, just to be let alone. To-day he told us that he didn't know what they had asked him.

"The next day, Sunday, Assistant District Attorney Strong and Coroner Shongut went to the police station, but before they were permitted to question the prisoner, so McKenna told us, a few men took him aside and reminded him of his confession. They rehearsed it with him and told him that they had a lot of witnesses who had heard the confession.

"So McKenna finally consented and told the story to the officials because he was afraid of his life. The newspapers printed this so-called confession but no one saw the prisoner. The police handed it out and what the newspapers printed was nothing but a bare 'frame-up.'

"Mr. Vitale, duly retained as attorney by the prisoner's father, went to the Morrisania Police Station at 2 P. M. Lieut. Wines, the detective in charge of the case, asked his name and business and Mr. Vitale said that he wanted to be present at the interview with his client. Lieut. Wines conferred with some one in the Captain's room and reported shortly after that Coroner Shongut had stated that he was too busy to see any one. Mr. Vitale said that he knew the prisoner was being grilled and insisted that he be allowed to be present, but he waited in vain until 4:30 without being permitted to see his client."

When Coroner Shongut was asked last night about the charges made by Mr. Vitale that he had been refused permission to see his client he said that it was news to him.

"So far as I know," he said, "Mr. Vitale never asked to see McKenna. I was under the impression that he did not arrive at the police station until the investigation was over.

According to the police, Mr. Carroll, the brother-in-law of McKenna, has denied that McKenna slept at his home on Thursday. The police say, moreover, that McKenna was picked up for vagrancy in Mount Vernon at 1:28 A. M. on Friday, soon after the discovery of the little girl's body in the coalbin. Detective Lieut. Wines could not be reached last night.

P. BELMONT TO TEST RACE TRACK LAW

Will See if Courts Will Hold Him for an Arrest at Hunts Meet.

AUGUST BELMONT APPROVES

Say Great Care Was Taken at the Races to Comply Fully with the State Law.

Perry Belmont, President of the United Hunts Racing Association, has decided to make a test of the racing association Directors' liability law, to determine whether he and other racing association officials can be held criminally liable for permitting betting on race tracks in this State. Mr. Belmont said yesterday that he was not ready to tell just how he was going to have the law tested. He may allow himself to be arrested, and then make the courts decide whether or not his arrest was justifiable.

What has determined Mr. Belmont to make a test of the law was an incident at last Thursday's meeting of the United Hunts Racing Association at Belmont Park. Mr. Belmont and the other officers of the racing association had taken special pains to make it clear that no gambling was to be allowed. They even went so far as to warn the Nassau County authorities to arrest any one who was found betting in the park while the races were going on. Several men were ejected during the day when private detectives of the association charged them with making books. Finally, a man named Paul Shane was arrested by a Deputy Sheriff and taken before Justice of the Peace Gittens on a charge of making a book in the park. Shane pleaded not guilty to the charge and was remanded for a hearing.

Mr. Belmont was greatly chagrined when he heard of the arrest. He said yesterday that no one can manage races here without an occasional bet being made somewhere on the grounds, and he believes that he and his fellow racing association officers should not be held to have broken the law because a man whom they had never heard of goes to their track and lays a bet.

"I was not present at the first day's racing of the United Hunts meeting at Belmont Terminal," Mr. Belmont said yesterday. "I learned later that an arrest was made on Thursday for violation of the anti-gambling laws. It has been the special purpose of our organization to conduct our meetings with a scrupulous regard for the law. That an arrest should occur under such conditions is a reflection upon our management, and as President of the association I shall seek a complete vindication from the courts for my fellow-Directors and myself. If while making every effort to comply with the law we can be subjected to criminal prosecution for acts committed without our knowledge, we, as law-abiding citizens, insist upon knowing it.

"I shall not rest under the moral indictment which this arrest implies.

"An additional reason for seeking a determination of this question is the fact that officers of the United States Army participate in our meetings."

It was also pointed out yesterday that the Directors' liability law, if the police enforce it strictly, is going to be harmful for military races, although this is a form of sport which is valuable to the United States Army. Mr. Belmont was the organizer of the first military race in this country, at Morris Park in 1905. These races have been encouraged by the War Department ever since, and are now considered useful in developing the horsemanship of officers and improving their mounts. It was largely on this account, his friends said yesterday, that he has decided to make a test of the Directors' liability law.

"Mr. Belmont does not desire that the officers of the United States Army shall participate in races in which a violation of the law is being tolerated," an official of the United Hunts Racing Association said yesterday.

August Belmont is with his brother in the determination to test the Directors' liability law, as is shown by this statement, issued by August Belmont yesterday:

"My brother, the Hon. Perry Belmont, President of the United Hunts Association, has determined to force to a final issue this question of the liability of Directors of racing associations because of the arrest on Thursday last at the hunt meeting.

"Strictly speaking, the property on which the hunt races took place belongs to the Westchester Racing Association, of which I am President.

"The question as to any liability of the Westchester Racing Association should be settled as well. I have therefore determined to seek, in conjunction with my brother, a final adjudication of the subject from the courts."

EIGHT SLAIN IN HOME WHILE THEY SLEEP

Iowa Man, His Wife and Children, and Two Visitors Killed with an Axe.

NO ATTEMPT AT ROBBERY

Crime Probably That of a Madman—Fingerprints the Only Clue—House Doors Locked.

Special to The New York Times.

VILLISCA, Iowa, June 10.—Eight persons were murdered with an axe in the home of James B. Moore here last night. The victims are Mr. Moore and his wife, their four children, whose ages range from 6 to 11 years, and Edith and Blanche Stillinger, aged 15 and 9 years, respectively, daughters of Joseph Stillinger, a farmer, who lives south of Villisca.

All of the victims met death while in their beds. There was no sign of a struggle. It seemed, however, that one of the girls had raised one arm in a mute appeal for mercy. The heads and faces of the dead were crushed by heavy blows of the axe.

Bloodhounds were started in every direction this afternoon. No arrests have been made, but suspects are being watched. No attempt was made at robbery, and the motive of the crime is a mystery.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore, their children and the Stillinger girls attended church last night. The Stillinger girls had come in from the country to take part in Children's Day exercises at the church. They stayed all night at the Moore home.

Horses neighing in the barn at the Moore home in the morning caused a woman neighbor to notice that no member of the family had appeared. The City Marshal was summoned and the doors forced.

Only one of the bodies showed indications of a struggle. One of the Spillinger girls lay with one arm thrown out, as though she had awakened and had tried to ward off the murderer's blow. A small cut on her arm seems to confirm this impression. All the other bodies, including that of the other Spillinger girl, who occupied the bed with her sister, lay in natural positions of slumber. The bedcovers had not been disarranged.

A lighted kerosene lamp was found on the floor of the room occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Moore.

The only clues to the slayer so far discovered are bloody fingerprints in different parts of the house. Some of these bloodstains were found near the knob of the front door, and indicate that the murderer locked the house on leaving it. The key has not been found. All fingerprints are being carefully preserved, and an expert has been summoned to take impressions of them.

All outside doors were locked and all windows fastened except two in the room occupied by the Spillinger girls. Window shades all over the house were carefully drawn.

Inquiry has convinced the authorities that no other visitor was at the Moore home last night up to the time the family retired. The house stands among a number of residences, but none of the neighbors heard an outcry.

Mr. Moore was the head of the J. B. Moore Implement Company and agent for the J. I. Case Company. He was one of the most prominent men in the city. His home and family life were ideal. There was not a blot on the happiness of himself and his wife and children. His associates in business declare that he had no business troubles.

For these reasons the crime seems more surprising and the mystery more complex. No one can surmise what person could have wished to take such an awful revenge, if the motive was revenge.

Business men who had been associated with Moore were stunned and shocked. Women who had known the entire family burst into tears. Seldom is a city so moved as is Villisca to-day. Upon every hand there are cries for the immediate arrest of the guilty party and demands that there be prompt retaliation. But as yet the officers are working in the dark. Various theories have been formed, but so far as is known not a soul saw the slayer when he entered the house, and not a person has been found who heard a single suspicious sound from the house of death.

It is believed that the madman—and it is thought he must have been insane—entered the house through a downstairs window. The screen was apparently removed and the intruder, tiptoeing his way through the first floor, must have come upon the Stillinger girls first.

Apparently he raised the axe and brought it down first upon the head of one girl, then upon that of her sister. It is surmised that neither girl cried out, as there is nothing to indicate that the victims upstairs heard a note of warning.

Gave Property Away Before Death.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 10.—The appraisal of the estate of William Smith, late of Geneva, recorded to-day in Ontario County, shows a total valuation of $95,901. Mr. Smith was a nurseryman reputed to be a millionaire. It develops that his vast real estate holdings were given to Hobart College or transferred to other parties some time prior to his death.
